Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurance companies in the EU must cover their technical reserves with assets expressed in the same currency. In accordance with EU regulations, the French regulation requires insurance entities to cover their technical reserves with “congruent” assets. As a derogation, a maximum percentage of the technical reserves may be covered by “noncongruent” assets—that is, 20% for life insurance and non-life insurance (Insurance Code Articles R.332-1 and R.332-1-1).
Pension funds	Yes.	Pension fund activity in France is performed by insurance companies (as allowed by European Directive No. 2003/41/EC on IORP). A specific “congruence” requirement applies to the technical reserves relating to occupational pension activities.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurance companies in the EU are required to cover their technical reserves with assets expressed in the same currency (rule of congruence). In accordance with European regulations, the French regulation requires insurance entities to cover their technical reserves with congruent assets. As a derogation, a maximum percentage of the technical reserves may be covered by noncongruent assets—that is, 30% for the technical reserves specifically relating to occupational pension commitments (Insurance Code Article R.332-61).
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	For investment firms, pursuant to European Directive No. 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013, the institution must separately sum all its net long positions and net short positions in accordance with Article 327. The sum of the absolute values of the two figures is its overall gross position. The institution must calculate, separately for each market, the difference between the sum of the net long and net short positions. The sum of the absolute values of those differences is its overall net position (Article 341 of the above-mentioned regulation).

For UCITS and money market funds, purchases of securities issued by nonresidents are subject to the same limits as securities issued by residents, namely for UCITS (1) diversification ratios (5/10/40—that is, no more than 10% of the fund’s assets may be invested in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same issuer, and none of the fund’s holdings in single issuers that exceed 5% of the fund’s assets may cumulatively exceed 40%); and (2) borrowing ratios (10% an issuer). Specific categories of AIFs must fulfil a combination of rules defined in national law and at European level (AIFMD directive), including diversification and concentration rules, but no specific limits on securities issued by nonresidents apply to these funds.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad No.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally No.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes.

For investment firms, pursuant to European Directive No. 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013, if the sum of the institution’s overall net foreign-exchange position and net gold position, calculated as set out in Article 352, including for any foreign exchange and gold positions for which own funds requirements are calculated using an internal model, exceeds 2% of its total own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk. This requirement is the sum of its overall net foreign-exchange position and net gold position in the reporting currency, multiplied by 8% (Article 351 of the above-mentioned regulation).
Institutions’ own funds requirements against positions in relevant closely correlated currencies may be lower. Two currencies are deemed closely correlated if the likelihood of a loss—based on daily exchange rate data for the preceding three or five years—of 4% or less of the value of the matched position in question (in terms of the reporting currency) on equal and opposite positions in such currencies over the following 10 working days has a probability of at least 99% for a three-year observation period and of 95% for a five-year observation period. The own funds requirement on the matched position in two closely correlated currencies is 4% of the value of the matched position (Article 354 of the above-mentioned regulation).

Controls on direct investment

Inward direct investment	04/01/2020	Decree No. 2019-1590 of December 31, 2019, came into effect, which expanded the scope of the FDI review and introduced major changes to the FDI review process.
	05/01/2020	Biotechnology was added to the list of critical technologies subject to the foreign investment screening procedure.
	07/23/2020	In the specific context of COVID-19 crisis, the voting rights threshold in sensitive companies which triggers screening procedure was lowered from 25% to 10%, only for listed companies and according to a special procedure. EU and EEA investors are exempted from this measure, which is set to end on December 31, 2021, but may be extended into 2022 on further analysis.
	10/11/2020	The FDI screening regulation adopted in March 2019 established an EU-wide framework in which the European Commission and the Member States can coordinate their actions on foreign investments.

Official exchange rate

Yes.

The CFA franc is officially pegged to the euro, the intervention currency, at a fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. The exchange rate is fixed by Article 12 of the MCA of November 23, 1972, between the BEAC and France, which states that the par value may be modified following consultation among the signatory countries (BEAC members and France), taking into account the demands of the economic and financial situation of the member countries. Exchange transactions in euros between the BEAC and commercial banks are made at this rate. Buying and selling rates for certain other foreign currencies are also listed officially based on the fixed rate for the euro and the rates for these foreign currencies prevailing in the Paris foreign exchange market. The official rate is used for accounting and valuation.

Exchange tax	Yes.	Transfers of funds with the rest of the world are subject to transfer fees determined freely by the market but not exceeding 1%, excluding the turnover tax (VAT) and any other special tax. Licensed intermediaries may effect transfers with the rest of the world through the BEAC. Within the CEMAC, transfers of funds are subject to transfer fees determined freely by the market but not exceeding 0.25%, excluding the VAT and any other special tax.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Licensing of exchange bureaus is the responsibility of the MOFs of the CEMAC member countries. Their operations are limited to OTC transactions. Licensed intermediaries, who set their own exchange rates with their customers for currencies other than the euro, may freely conduct foreign exchange transactions with their customers. The BEAC's OTC foreign exchange transactions are conducted exclusively with national public accountants and treasuries. In Gabon, nine banks are licensed to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public.

GABON

Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The BEAC's OTC exchange transactions are conducted exclusively with national public accountants and treasuries.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	Within the limits of available stocks, the BEAC's OTC exchange transactions are conducted exclusively with national public accountants and treasuries.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	There are no restrictions on interbank foreign exchange transactions within the CEMAC. Exchange transactions are OTC transactions. The BEAC does not intervene in exchange transactions within the CEMAC. These transactions are freely conducted by operators licensed by the MOF with the approval of the Central African Banking Commission (COBAC). A fee of no more than 3% for CFA franc area notes and 5% for other currencies, not including the VAT and any other specific tax, is collected by licensed intermediaries on transactions in foreign banknotes and traveler's checks. This fee covers all charges on OTC transactions and the intermediation margin. Nine banks are licensed, and all participate in the interbank market.
Over the counter	Yes.	Foreign exchange transactions are conducted on an OTC basis.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	There is no forward foreign exchange market in the CEMAC. However, licensed intermediaries may enter into forward exchange contracts up to a limit of CFAF 100 million on presentation of supporting documentation (invoices, debt repayment schedules, or other foreign-currency-denominated debt instruments) and must report such activities to the BEAC. For amounts over CFAF 100 million, requests for forward exchange contracts must be made to the BEAC so that their purpose may be verified.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Controls on the use of domestic currency	No.	Within the CEMAC, the CFA franc is used freely for payments and receipts relating to current and capital transactions and payments. Settlements with all countries other than CEMAC members must be made through correspondent banks in one of the currencies of the two parties or in any other currency agreed on by the two parties to the transaction.
For current transactions and payments	No.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments	No.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments	No.
Credit operations	No.
Use of foreign exchange among residents	Yes.	The monetary unit is the CFA franc, which is the sole official currency and legal tender in all CEMAC member countries. Consequently, transactions among residents must be settled in domestic currency.

Bilateral payments arrangements	No.
Inoperative	No.
Regional arrangements	Yes.	An operations account links all the countries with the French Treasury. All purchases and sales of foreign currencies and euros in exchange for CFA francs are ultimately settled by a debit or credit to the operations account. Governments may maintain foreign currency deposits related to oil reserves at commercial banks and use them to meet their external debt service obligations. Exchange regulations in the CEMAC member countries are harmonized.
Clearing agreements	No.
Barter agreements and open accounts	Yes.
Administration of control	Yes.	Administration of the foreign exchange regulations is the responsibility of the MOFs of the CEMAC countries, which may delegate all or a portion of their authority to the BEAC, the COBAC, and licensed intermediaries. For example, authority is delegated to licensed intermediaries to carry out transactions with the rest of the world. They must verify the validity of transactions, collect statistics, and report these activities to the monetary authorities. However, certain types of transactions may not be delegated. The BEAC supervises the exchange regulations; evaluates foreign exchange hedging operations; reviews requests for approval of opening of foreign exchange accounts by resident legal entities; and monitors the repatriation of export proceeds. The COBAC ensures that licensed intermediaries comply with certain provisions of these regulations, especially to prevent weakening of the CEMAC banking system.
Payments arrears	No.	Licensed intermediaries may freely execute their customers' payment orders. The related transfers may, at their request, be made through the BEAC. In this context, the MCA with France serves to guarantee the convertibility of the CFA franc. No payment arrears are allowed on the grounds that insufficient foreign exchange is available.
Official	No.
Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	No.	CEMAC residents are free to hold, purchase, and sell gold in any form within the CEMAC.
On external trade	Yes.	Except in the case of manufactured articles containing small quantities of gold, CEMAC gold imports and exports are subject to approval by the appropriate authorities. The national treasuries and the BEAC are exempt from this requirement.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.	Residents and nonresidents traveling from one country to another within the CEMAC may take with them an unlimited amount of CEMAC banknotes and coins.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency

GABON

	Yes.	CFA francs issued by the BEAC may not be exported to countries outside the CEMAC. However, departing resident travelers may have in their possession up to CFAF 5 million. During their trips outside the CEMAC, travelers must use payment instruments other than BEAC banknotes (foreign currency, traveler's checks, bank drafts, transfers, etc.).
Foreign currency	Yes.	Resident and nonresident travelers crossing CEMAC borders must, on exit, declare any foreign currency, securities, or instruments valued at more than CFAF 5 million to the customs authorities. Nonresident travelers leaving the CEMAC may take with them foreign currency valued at up to the amount they declared on entering the CEMAC. If they made no declaration on entry or if they are carrying sums exceeding those they brought into the CEMAC, they must explain the source of the amount in excess of CFAF 1 million. Supporting documents include pay slips and work permits (wage income), student cards (parental assistance for students and trainees), and notarized instruments (donations), among others.
On imports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	CFA francs issued by the BEAC may not be imported from countries outside the CEMAC. However, arriving resident travelers may have in their possession up to CFAF 5 million.
Foreign currency	No.	Resident and nonresident travelers crossing CEMAC borders must, on entry, declare foreign currency, securities, or instruments valued at more than CFAF 5 million to the customs authorities.

Resident Accounts

Held domestically	Yes.	Residents may not open foreign exchange accounts in local banks. However, the BEAC may allow certain resident legal entities to open foreign exchange accounts. These accounts may not be credited with CFA francs or with debits from CFA franc accounts.
Approval required	Yes.	The BEAC may allow certain resident legal entities to open foreign exchange accounts. These accounts may not be credited with CFA francs or with debits from CFA franc accounts. Balances may be transferred abroad freely. The authorization to open bank accounts in foreign currency is granted by the BEAC.
Held abroad	Yes.	Resident legal entities, except credit institutions, are prohibited from opening foreign currency bank accounts outside the CEMAC in accordance with Regulation No. 02/18/CEMAC/UMAC/CM. However, the BEAC may allow a resident legal entity to open a foreign currency account outside the CEMAC in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in a BEAC directive in June 2019.
Approval required	Yes.	The BEAC may allow a resident legal entity to open a foreign currency account outside the CEMAC in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in a BEAC directive in June 2019.
Accounts in domestic currency held abroad	Yes.	Accounts in domestic currency held abroad are permitted.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.	There are no restrictions on the opening of nonresident foreign exchange accounts within the CEMAC. Licensed intermediaries may open such accounts for any nonresident, on request, provided they inform the monetary authorities. Such accounts may not be overdrawn.

GABON

Approval required	No.
Domestic currency accounts	Yes.	There are no restrictions on the opening of nonresident CFA franc accounts within the CEMAC. Licensed intermediaries may open such accounts for nonresidents, on request, provided they inform the monetary authorities. Such accounts may not be overdrawn.
Convertible into foreign currency	No.	Nonresidents may not convert the balances of their domestic currency accounts to foreign currency or transfer them abroad.
Approval required	No.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget	No.	The exchange regulations do not limit access to foreign exchange. Payments for imports must be made regularly through licensed intermediaries.
Financing requirements for imports	No.	Economic agents may freely enter into commercial contracts with their partners abroad. These contracts are executed through the banking system, subject to compliance with the exchange regulations.
Minimum financing requirements	No.	There are no financing requirements.
Advance payment requirements	No.
Advance import deposits	No.
Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports	Yes.	For import payments of less than CFAF 100 million, the licensed intermediary must obtain a pro forma or original invoice, a bill of lading, or the commercial contract, along with the most recent tax receipt or a professional license. Payments of more than CFAF 100 million must be settled through a licensed intermediary, which must check the supporting documents. Legally registered legal entities and declared or certified professionals may be exempt from the requirement to produce supporting documents, provided they submit an annual estimate of imports corroborated by a business forecast.
Domiciliation requirements	Yes.	Imports valued at more than CFAF 5 million must be domiciled with a resident licensed intermediary.
Preshipment inspection	Yes.	There are no specific provisions for inspections at the CEMAC level. The member countries may freely apply their own regulations in this regard.
Letters of credit	No.	The use of LCs by economic agents for the settlement of transactions is allowed but optional.
Import licenses used as exchange licenses	No.	Import licenses are not used in the CEMAC countries to restrict the availability of foreign exchange for legitimate trade, as defined in the Compilation Guide. When such licenses exist, they are used for trade policy purposes.
Other	Yes.	For import payments of less than CFAF 100 million, the licensed intermediary must obtain a pro forma or original invoice, a bill of lading, or the commercial contract, along with the most recent tax receipt or a professional license (registration number, professional ID card, extract from the commercial registry, or tax clearance). Payments of more than CFAF 100 million must be settled through a licensed intermediary, which must check the supporting documents. Legal entities and certified professionals can no longer use annual estimates of imports and must produce all supporting documents to carry out transactions.
Import licenses and other nontariff measures	Yes.	In general, CEMAC countries no longer use quantitative restrictions as a means of protecting local production. Merchandise originating from all countries may be freely imported, with the exception of gold, to which special regulations apply.

Positive list	No.
Negative list	Yes.	Imports of some products may be prohibited, restricted, or require national authorization for humanitarian, security, or health reasons.
Open general licenses	No.	There is no system of OGLs at the CEMAC level. Imports are subject to declaration.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	No.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	The CEMAC CET applies to imports from non-CEMAC countries, at four rates: 5% for staple goods, 10% for raw materials and capital goods, 20% for intermediate goods, and 30% for consumer goods. The taxes are imposed by the national customs administration in CFA francs at the merchandise point of entry.
Taxes collected through the exchange system	Yes.	Licensed intermediaries are responsible for withholding all taxes and related fees established by law and surrendering them to the monetary authority.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Export-related transactions must be reported to the appropriate administrative authorities, and all those exceeding CFAF 5 million must be domiciled at a licensed CEMAC bank. Export proceeds originating in non-CEMAC countries must be collected and repatriated immediately, through the domiciling bank, with the BEAC acting as intermediary.
Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	Yes.	Export proceeds collected in foreign currencies must be surrendered to the BEAC within 3 days of collection.
Financing requirements	No.	Economic agents and their partners abroad may enter freely into commercial contracts, which are executed through the banking system, subject to compliance with the exchange regulations. There are no financing requirements.
Documentation requirements	Yes.	Transactions related to exports to non-CEMAC countries valued at more than CFAF 5 million must be domiciled with a local licensed bank. Each domiciliation file must contain an export contract, a foreign exchange declaration under which the exporter agrees to repatriate all export earnings within a month of the payment due date, and a customs export certificate duly signed by a customs officer.
Letters of credit	No.	The use of LCs by economic agents for the settlement of transactions is allowed but optional.
Guarantees	Yes.	Guarantees are required.
Domiciliation	Yes.	Transactions related to exports to non-CEMAC countries valued at more than CFAF 5 million must be domiciled with a local licensed bank.
Preshipment inspection	Yes.	There are no specific provisions for inspections at the CEMAC level. The member countries may freely apply their own regulations in this regard.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions	Yes.	Capital flows within the CEMAC are not subject to exchange controls. There are no restrictions on most capital flows between CEMAC and non-CEMAC countries, provided they comply with the laws and regulations prohibiting drug financing and trafficking. Certain loans, direct investments, and the issuance, advertisement, and sale of foreign securities within the CEMAC are subject to administrative controls and require approval from the appropriate authorities. Controls on these transactions are applied to countries in the CFA franc area, other than CEMAC member countries, and to all non-CFA franc area countries. Moreover, Article 61 of the General Regulations of the Central African Financial Market Supervisory Commission (COSUMAF), from January 15, 2009, specifies that “when a nonresident legal entity plans a public offering on the Central African regional financial market, it must prepare a disclosure document and submit it to COSUMAF for approval prior to dissemination. The prior approval of the exchange control authority in the various countries concerned must also be obtained.” The article also states that “the issuer must appoint a correspondent (securities dealer) established in a CEMAC member state, where it elects domicile. This correspondent must be responsible for: (1) receiving correspondence from COSUMAF and (2) forwarding to COSUMAF all documents and information required under the laws and regulations or requested by COSUMAF.”
Repatriation requirements	Yes.	In the context of the centralization of foreign exchange reserves, foreign currency collected from capital transactions must be repatriated immediately after collection.

Surrender to authorized dealers	No.
Controls on capital and money market instruments	Yes.
On capital market securities	Yes.	The issuance, advertisement, and sale of foreign securities (shares and bonds issued by foreign enterprises) whose value exceeds CFAF 10 million are subject to MOF approval. Under CEMAC exchange regulations, transactions in capital market securities are treated in the same way as simple borrowing and lending operations, as opposed to direct investments, when the shares or equity held by the individual or legal entity represent less than 10% of the enterprise’s total equity. Borrowing and lending are not regulated by type of instrument or maturity.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Banks may verify and make payment for purchases of securities by nonresidents. Transactions must be reported 30 days before the transaction when the transaction is less than CFAF 20 million. Above this amount, the transaction is subject to prior CB approval.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance, advertisement, and sale of securities within the CEMAC are subject to CB approval when the amount involved exceeds CFAF 50 million. Transactions must be reported to the BEAC within 30 days.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	The Gambia maintains exchange restrictions in accordance with UNSC resolutions. These include restrictions on financial transactions, listing and freezing of accounts of individuals and all financial and non-financial institutions and designated non-financial businesses and persons (DNFBPs) in support of (1) UNSC Resolutions Nos. 1267 (1999) and 1373 (2001) and (2) the US State Department's updated list of organizations associated with terrorism. In addition, pursuant to UNSC resolutions, The Gambia enacted the Anti-Terrorism Act of 2012 and the Money-Laundering Act of 2012.
Other security restrictions	No.

Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate is determined in the foreign exchange market. The Gambia participates in the W-ERM II of the WAMZ, which requires that the spot exchange rate between the dalasi and the US dollar be maintained within $\pm 15\%$ of the central rate; however, the authorities have not yet implemented these measures. The Central Bank of The Gambia (CBG) periodically intervenes in the foreign exchange market by selling and buying foreign exchange to augment international reserves and ensure market orderliness. Since November 2019, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar with one realignment in May 2020. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to “stabilized” from “other managed,” effective November 5, 2019. The CBG does not publish intervention data, but informs market makers on the results of each auction including prices.

Official exchange rate

Yes.

The daily interbank exchange rates are computed after the close of each business day. The CBG collects actual buying and selling rates of all participants in the foreign exchange market (between banks, microfinance institutions, and foreign exchange bureaus, and their respective customers) for each traded currency and calculates the average midmarket rate. The exchange rate for government transactions is the average of the midmarket interbank rates of the previous week. The CBG conducts a foreign exchange market review session on the last business day of each week with the participation of the commercial banks, microfinance institutions, and foreign exchange bureaus. During this session, the average market rate of the week is announced as the rate to be applied to government transactions and customs valuations the following week.

Foreign exchange market Yes. All ADs are allowed to determine their rates in line with market fundamentals.

Spot exchange market Yes. Foreign exchange bureaus are subject to annual license renewal by the CBG. As of June 2020, there were 116 licensed bureaus. Because of their involvement in international money transfer operations, licensed foreign exchange bureaus may choose to open accounts abroad; however, they may not open accounts for their customers. The CBG has been authorized to deal with microfinance institutions and foreign exchange bureaus, as stipulated in the Reserve Management Guidelines. Currently, the CBG deals only with commercial banks because the volumes involved in the intervention are not available to foreign exchange bureaus.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

THE GAMBIA

Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	No.
Auction	Yes.	CBG auctions (purchase/sale) are conducted by written invitations/solicitation through email to all banks (only banks can participate because of volume) and requesting bids to be submitted in writing. The auction preannounces the foreign exchange amount, currency, bid submission deadline, and the requirement to submit bids in sealed envelopes to the CBG. The most competitive bid, that is, the best rate (lowest buying, highest selling rate), is selected in these auctions. While the cutoff rate is determined by the best bid rate, it is subject to the rate range set by the CBG intervention policy, which limits awarding rates within intervention trading limits of the policy as at trade date. The auctions are sanctioned by the Intervention Committee. Winning bids are limited to 20% of the amount floated. Bids must be settled by T+2. The CBG only settled the dalasi component when swift confirmations are received to mitigate credit risk.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus are free to engage in transactions among themselves or with customers at exchange rates agreed on by the parties to these transactions. The daily interbank exchange rates are computed after the close of each business day. The CBG collates actual buying and selling exchange rates of all participants in the foreign exchange interbank (banks, finance companies, and foreign exchange bureaus) for each traded currency and calculates the average midmarket rate. Hence, the interbank exchange rates only include rates between banks, finance companies, and foreign exchange bureaus, and their respective customers. All 12 commercial banks and licensed foreign exchange bureaus and microfinance institutions take part in the interbank foreign exchange market. There is no restriction on the market trading spread. The spread continues to be determined by the fundamentals of demand and supply.

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

Stabilized arrangement	01/01/2020	Since November 2019, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the U.S. dollar with one realignment in May 2020. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to “stabilized” from “other managed,” effective November 5, 2019. The change is reflected as of January 1, 2020, corresponding to the first day of the period covered in this year’s Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions.

Floating	Yes.	The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements of Georgia are floating. The National Bank of Georgia (NBG) intervenes in the foreign exchange market through foreign exchange auctions or rules-based interventions, but does not make any explicit or implicit commitment with respect to an exchange rate target or path.

Considering the market conditions, interventions are aimed at filling international reserves or smoothing excessive volatility to avoid inflationary expectations. The amount bought/sold at NBG's foreign exchange auctions and the average exchange rates are posted on the NBG website the same day, shortly after each auction.

In January 2019, the NBG introduced a new instrument—foreign exchange options. The main goal of using foreign exchange options is filling the international reserves. Foreign exchange option is a financial instrument, which gives the right to a holder (but not obligation) to buy national currency in exchange for foreign exchange (US dollar or EUR) during the predetermined period at the official exchange rate. The condition of using the options is that the lari exchange rate should be stronger than the average of the previous 20 days. However, this foreign exchange option instrument has not been used since July 2019, given the market conditions.

Effective March 1, 2020, the NBG introduced a new foreign exchange trading system—Bloomberg's BMatch. This foreign exchange trading platform is based on the principle of automatic "matching" of transactions. Market participants will place foreign currency buying and selling applications on the BMatch platform, and if the exchange rates between the buyer and seller of the currency coincide, then the currency transactions between the parties will be concluded automatically. At the first stage, only commercial banks participate in the BMatch platform. Companies are able to participate from October 1, 2020, and can have access to the BMatch platform in two ways: directly through Bloomberg terminal and indirectly through a commercial bank.

With the introduction of the BMatch system, the NBG started to implement rule-based interventions on the platform—when the volatility of the exchange rate exceeds predetermined level, the intervention is carried out within the defined limits.

In 2020, with the onset of COVID-19 pandemic, external demand declined substantially, adversely affecting economic growth. The restrictions imposed to tackle the pandemic predominantly had a negative impact on international tourism, which has been generating considerable external revenues for Georgian economy. Since March 2020, tourism practically halted, which considerably worsened the current account deficit. The adverse external shock hit most sectors of the national economy, but especially tourism-related segments. Aggregate demand fell sharply, with a -6.2% real growth in 2020. As a result, the lari exchange rate depreciated in both nominal and real effective terms. Given that the government promptly mobilized foreign borrowings, which mostly ended up in the NBG reserves, to partially counterbalance the large decline of foreign exchange inflows in private sector, the NBG actively intervened in the foreign exchange market throughout 2020 and the beginning of 2021. The NBG sold US$873.2 million via foreign exchange auctions. In addition to standard foreign exchange auctions, the NBG provided to the market around US$42.9 million through the BMatch platform. Overall, the NBG sold US$916.1 million in 2020. During the year, the nominal effective exchange rate depreciated annually by 5.6%, while the real effective exchange rate depreciated by 7.4%.

In the first half of 2021, the NBG sold US$257.4 million (as of June 30, 2021). Overall, the nominal effective exchange rate depreciated by 1.2%, while the real effective exchange rate appreciated by 1.9% in June 2021, annually.

The press release about the foreign exchange interventions is published on the day of the auction and also in the statistics section of the NBG website.

Data on the sale of the foreign exchange options are published the same day in the statistics page of the NBG.

Yes.

The official exchange rate for the US dollar is determined daily and may be used (not mandatory) for state budget and tax accounting and for payments between the government and businesses and other legal entities. The official exchange rates for other currencies are based on the cross-rates for the dollar and other currencies in the international market. (1) The calculation period for the official exchange rate of the lari against the US dollar is from 4:30 p.m. of the previous business day to 4:30 p.m. of the calculation day within the BMatch platform of the Bloomberg trading system (“trade platform”), taking into account all registered foreign exchange spot trades. The official exchange rate of the lari vis-à-vis the US dollar is calculated as the average weighted exchange rate on the interbank market during the calculation period within the trade platform for registered trades. Trades concluded with the NBG as counterparty are considered interbank trades. (2) The following instances are not considered in the determination of the official exchange rate of the lari vis-à-vis the US dollar: (a) trades at rates significantly different from other registered trades: A rate is considered significantly different if it is either 2.5% higher or lower than the average weighted exchange rate of all the other registered trades within the calculation period (in practice, since the introduction of the new system in 2009, there have been only a few cases for excluding outliers) and (b) opposite trades between two counterparties with similar rates and amounts. (3) Trades used in the calculation of the official exchange rate of the lari vis-à-vis the US dollar for the previous day may be used in the calculation of the official exchange rate during the calculation period if (a) the number of registered trades within the trade platform during the calculation period that may be used in the calculation of the official exchange rate is three or fewer than three or (b) the total amount of the trades within the trade platform during the calculation period that may be used in the calculation of the official exchange rate is less than US$1.5 million. (4) The official exchange rate of the lari vis-à-vis other foreign currencies is determined according to the rate in international markets or the issuer country’s domestic interbank currency market on the basis of cross-currency exchange rates. (5) The list of market segments for foreign currencies (interbank or CB rate) used in the determination of the cross-currency exchange rate is determined by the NBG. (6) The sources for exchange rates are the Reuters and Bloomberg Information systems and CBs’ websites. (7) In the determination of cross-currency exchange rates, the latest available exchange rates are used. (8) Cross-currency exchange rates, the rates of foreign currencies (other than the lari) vis-à-vis the US dollar, are determined by the CB each business day from 2:45 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. In case of technical difficulties, a delay in the determination of exchange rates is permitted until the problems are resolved. Official exchange rate calculation is automated, using in-house software.

Inflation-targeting framework	Yes.	In December 2009, the NBG adopted an inflation-targeting framework.
Target setting body	Yes.	The inflation target is set by the NBG and submitted to the parliament. The MPC decisions are submitted, in the form of recommendations, to the governor of the NBG who will make the final decision. The MPC sets the inflation target and can also decide to set the type of target. The NBG is independent in its decision to set the inflation target and utilize its instruments to conduct the monetary policy.

Government

Central Bank Yes.

Monetary Policy Committee	Yes.	The MPC consists of 14 NBG staff members and is led by the governor of the NBG. The meetings are held eight times in a year according to a preannounced calendar. (But in extraordinary circumstances, unplanned meetings can also be arranged.) The MPC is responsible for determining the target rate of inflation and setting monetary policy rate. The committee is also responsible for discussing and making decisions on issues regarding open market operations and other monetary and exchange rate operations, the issuance of certificates of deposit, setting the interest rate on NBG loans, minimum reserve requirement (RR) norms, other lending/deposit operations, and monetary policy instruments (except for the lender of last resort).

GEORGIA

Auction

Yes. The main goal of foreign exchange auctions is to build international reserves, eliminate the pressure on the exchange rate because of high temporary inflows/outflows of foreign capital, and/or balance a private or government financing gap. The multiple price foreign exchange auction (introduced in 2009) is held occasionally at the discretion of the NBG in US dollars. The NBG defines the type of intervention (sale/purchase), the amount of currency to be sold/purchased, and minimum and/or maximum acceptable exchange rates for bidding. The amount is announced using the Bloomberg system, at least one hour in advance of the auction. Participants may bid within a corridor around the official exchange rate. Corridor is defined by the NBG for each auction, and it depends on current market condition. There are no limits on bid amounts; each bank may place only one bid. The settlement of currency exchange operations with successful bidders takes place on  $t + 1$ —that is, on the first business day following the trade date in Georgia and in the country whose currency was traded. The volume sold/purchased at the auction and the average exchange rates are posted on the NBG website immediately after the auction. In case of default, the NBG applies a fine. In case of a foreign currency sale auction, if a winning bank does not have sufficient funds in its national currency settlement account before the second cutoff of the real-time gross settlement on the auction settlement date, settlement will take place on the following business day. In case of foreign currency purchase auction, if a winning bank is unable to transfer sufficient foreign currency to its foreign currency correspondent account at the NBG before the end of business day of the issuer country of the foreign currency, the bank must pay a surcharge equal to 2% of the nominal value of purchased foreign currency. The value date of this transaction is the same as the foreign exchange auction settlement date. If a bank does not have sufficient funds in its settlement account at the NBG before the second cutoff of the real-time gross settlement on the business day following the auction settlement date, the winning bids of the bank are annulled. There is a surcharge on the national currency settlement account of a bank: If a bank does not have sufficient funds in its national currency settlement account, the surcharge is taken from the bank's US dollar correspondent account and/or another foreign currency correspondent account at the NBG. The surcharge is calculated and charged using the official foreign exchange rates on the day of the transaction. Auction participants are not required to finance specific international transactions. Auctions are conducted in the interbank foreign exchange market in the Bloomberg system. All commercial banks licensed in Georgia may participate in this auction after receiving participating bank status from the NBG at their request.

The NBG introduced a new instrument—foreign exchange options. Foreign exchange options are sold via auctions in exchange for a fee. The auction mechanism for options is based on multiple price auction.

Foreign exchange option is a financial instrument, which gives the right to a holder (but not obligation) to buy national currency in exchange for foreign exchange (US dollar or EUR) during the predetermined period (usually the following month) at the official exchange rate. The condition of using the options is that the lari exchange rate should be stronger than the average of the previous 20 days. The strike price of the option is the official exchange rate of the day when an option is exercised, that is, average exchange rate of the previous day.

The foreign exchange option instrument is not used since July 2019, given the market conditions.

GEORGIA

Fixing	No.	Effective March 26, 2020, the NBG introduced rule-based interventions on the Bloomberg’s BMatch platform—when the volatility of the exchange rate exceeds a predetermined level, the intervention is carried out within the defined limits.
Interbank market	Yes.	The interbank spot exchange market, part of the foreign exchange spot market in Georgia, is based on the Bloomberg trading platform and is not operated by the CB. Any institution (financial and non-financial) that has the Bloomberg system can participate. There are no limits on bid-ask spread and commissions of market participants. As of December 31, 2020, 15 commercial banks and 4 microfinance organizations are participating in interbank foreign exchange market. There are also non-financial organizations that have Bloomberg terminals and can trade between themselves and with financial institutions, but they are not much active. Non-financial institutions are not part of interbank foreign exchange market. Effective March 1, 2020, the NBG introduced a new foreign exchange trading system—BMatch. BMatch is Bloomberg’s foreign exchange trading platform that is based on the principle of automatic “matching” of transactions. Market participants will place foreign currency buying and selling applications on the BMatch platform, and if the exchange rates between the buyer and seller of the currency coincide, then the currency transactions between the parties will be concluded automatically. At the first stage, only commercial banks participated in the BMatch platform. Effective October 1, 2020, companies are able to access the BMatch platform through a commercial bank.
Over the counter	Yes.	Any organization (financial and non-financial) may trade over the counter at freely determined rates.
Brokerage	No.	There is no restriction for brokers, but in practice there are no foreign exchange brokers; banks and other participants use the Bloomberg trading platform and participate in the foreign exchange market directly.
Market making	Yes.	The market operates on the basis of market makers. Participants are not obligated to serve as market makers.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	This market is not active. The NBG does not participate in the forward foreign exchange market. Foreign exchange turnover in outright forward and swap transactions is very shallow. The NBG introduced one-month put options that give banks the right to purchase the Georgian lari in exchange for US dollars or euros. Banks would exercise the option when the Georgian lari rate is above its average during the previous 20 working days. The foreign exchange option instrument is not used since July 2019, given the market conditions.

Exchange Arrangement

Classification

Floating	03/01/2020	The National Bank of Georgia (NBG) introduced a new foreign exchange trading system—Bloomberg’s BMatch. This foreign exchange trading platform is based on the principle of automatic “matching” of transactions. Market participants will place foreign currency buying and selling applications on the BMatch platform, and if the exchange rates between the buyer and seller of the currency coincide, then the currency transactions between the parties will be concluded automatically. At the first stage, only commercial banks participate in the BMatch platform. Companies are able to participate (from October 1, 2020) and can have access to the BMatch platform in two ways: directly through Bloomberg terminal and indirectly through a commercial bank. With the introduction of the BMatch system, the NBG started to implement rule-based interventions on the platform—when the volatility of the exchange rate exceeds

Free floating	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Germany participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks (ESCB). The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:30 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

Pursuant to Article 127(1) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, the primary objective of the ESCB is to maintain price stability. Without prejudice to the objective of price stability, the ESCB supports the general economic policies in the Union with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Union as laid down in Article 3 of the Treaty on EU.

GERMANY

The ESCB acts in accordance with the principle of an open market economy with free competition, favoring an efficient allocation of resources, and in compliance with the principles set out in Article 119 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU. These include “stable prices, sound public finances and monetary conditions and a sustainable balance of payments.”

Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. Previously, it was defined as inflation below but close to 2% over the medium term.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	ADs may determine freely their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Conducting banking business and providing financial services require a license from the ECB (see Article 4(1) (a) Regulation (EU) No. 1024/2013). Providing financial services requires a license from the Federal Financial Supervisory Authority (Section 32 of the Banking Act). Dealing in foreign notes and coins requires a license because of the risk of money laundering. This refers primarily to exchange bureaus as specialized financial institutions: A license to conduct the overall banking business already includes permission to deal in foreign currency. Hotels, travel agencies, and department stores dealing in foreign currency only as a secondary business do not need a license. As of June 30, 2020, about 1,401 deposit-taking credit institutions and 11 financial services institutions (non-microfinance institutions), and 5 other non-microfinance institutions were permitted to deal in foreign currency.

Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to money laundering or financing of terrorism, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU-member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders. According to Section 1(3a) Zollverwaltungsgesetz (ZollVG)—Customs Administration Act (German national law) additionally intra-EU cash flows must be monitored. Section 12a ZollVG stipulates an obligation to disclose cash verbally on request of the relevant authorities, when travelers enter or leave Germany from or to another EU-member country carrying cash or equivalent means of payment with a value of €10,000 or more. Procedural provisions, for example, regarding violations or possibilities to check compliance, are similar.

Pursuant to Article 12 of Council Regulation (EU) No. 2017/1509, it is prohibited to sell, supply, transfer, or export, directly or indirectly, newly printed or unissued DPRK-denominated banknotes and minted coinage, to or for the benefit of the Central Bank of DPRK.

Exchange Measures

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons

In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	12/08/2020	Restrictive measures were imposed against certain natural and legal persons, entities, and bodies in connection with serious human rights violations and abuses in accordance with Council Regulation (EU) No. 2020/1998 of December 7, 2020.
	03/03/2021	Restrictive measures against certain persons, entities, and bodies in view of the situation in Egypt were repealed with Council Regulation (EU) No. 2021/445.

Exchange Arrangement

Monetary policy framework

Other monetary framework	07/07/2021	Price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. Previously, it was defined as inflation below but close to 2%.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation with Ghana states that, as of November 21, 2019, Ghana maintained one exchange restriction and an MCP subject to IMF approval. The exchange restriction arises from the limitation/prohibition in purchasing and transferring foreign exchange for import transactions by importers who have not submitted to the commercial bank customs entry forms for any past foreign exchange transactions related to imports, and which are unrelated to the underlying transaction. An MCP also arises, because the Bank of Ghana (BOG) requires the use of its internal rate (that is, the previous day's weighted average interbank exchange rate) for government transactions and the surrender of foreign exchange proceeds from cocoa exports funded through the cocoa syndicated loan without having a mechanism in place to ensure that, at the time of the transaction, this exchange rate does not differ from the rate prevailing in the market rate (that is, the interbank exchange rate) and the rates used by banks in their transactions with their customers by more than 2%. (Country Report No. 19/367).

Other security restrictions	No.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency	Yes.	The currency of Ghana is the Ghana cedi (GHC).
Other legal tender	No.
Exchange rate structure
Unitary
Dual	Yes.	The BOG uses a reference rate for certain official transactions. This rate does not involve a mechanism to ensure that it does not differ from the prevailing market rate by more than 2%, thus giving rise to an MCP. The BOG publishes daily reference foreign exchange rates against cedis. The US dollar–cedi reference midrate is the weighted average of all the daily spot foreign exchange market transactions of at least US$10,000 reported by all banks until 2:30 p.m. to the BOG, excluding transactions where the BOG was a counterparty. The other currencies' reference rate to cedis is based on the current cross-rates in the international foreign exchange market from Reuters.

Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The exchange rate of the cedi is determined by market forces. Ghana joined the W-ERM II of the WAMZ, which requires that the spot exchange rate between the cedi and the US dollar be maintained within a margin of  $\pm 15\%$  around the central rate. The BOG does not publish information on its interventions.

During 2020, the following factors impacted the exchange rate: (1) The published foreign exchange forward auction calendar in January 2020 anchored expectations and boosted sentiments.

(2) The US$ 3 billion Eurobond issuance in February 2020 and the US$ 1 billion support under the IMF's Rapid Credit Facility (RCF) contributed to the cedi's stabilization.

(3) Foreign exchange demand from the local SMEs reduced significantly as a result of COVID-19. Again, election 2020 jitters were largely muted and not even the post-election disputes affected market sentiments. Overall, domestic conditions were fairly supportive of the foreign exchange market in 2020 coupled with the relatively favorable external environment.

From April 2020, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar, with one realignment in February 2021. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to "crawl-like" from "floating," effective April 21, 2020.

The BOG publishes daily reference foreign exchange rates against the cedi. The US dollar–cedi reference midrate is the weighted average of all the daily spot foreign exchange market transactions of at least US$10,000 reported by all banks until 2:30 p.m. to the BOG excluding, transactions where the BOG was a counterparty. All bank-bank and bigger size (above US$10,000) bank–customer deals concluded and reported are included. The other currencies' reference rate to the cedi is based on the current cross-rates in the international foreign exchange market from Reuters. The previous day's reference rate as computed is used for all transactions involving the BOG, except market intervention.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework	Yes.	The Inflation-Targeting Framework was formally adopted for the conduct of the Bank's monetary policy in 2007 and remains the monetary policy framework.
Government
Central Bank
Monetary Policy Committee
Central Bank Board
Other
Government and Central Bank	Yes.	The inflation target is set by consensus between the CB and the Government (MOF), taking into consideration prevailing macroeconomic conditions and policy consistency, and the need to provide certainty in the outlook. The current target of 8% was set in 2014 and has not been revised since. Prior to that, annual targets were set, given the prevalence of high inflation rates in the country.
Inflation target	Yes.
Target number	Yes.
Point target
Target with tolerance band	Yes.	The medium-term inflation target remains 8% with a tolerance band of $\pm 2\%$ .
Band/Range
Target measure	Yes.
CPI	Yes.	The CB targets inflation, which is defined as the year-on-year (y-o-y) change in the CPI. The CPI measures the change in the general price level of goods and services with August 2018 as the revised base year.
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The target horizon is four quarters ahead.
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	The policy rate was used in fixed-rate full allotment auctions of 14-day BOG bills. The monetary policy rate is currently at 14.5% (August 2020).
Target corridor band	Yes.	The interest rate corridor is the monetary policy rate $\pm 1\%$ .
Other	n.a.

GHANA

Open letter	n.a.
Parliamentary hearings	n.a.
Other	Yes.	The Bank is accountable to the legislature and is required to submit monetary and financial stability reports that provide extensive details on the monetary policy course of action to parliament in February and August each year. As conditions determine, the legislature may issue summons to the governor to appear before its Finance Committee to address specific issues bordering on the conduct of monetary policy and financial stability.
Publication of votes	No.	The BOG does not publish the votes.
Publication of minutes	No.	The BOG does not publish policy meeting minutes, but after each policy meeting the BOG publishes a MPC statement and transcript of the press conference.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	The BOG publishes the inflation forecast in the Inflation Outlook and Analysis Report after each MPC meeting.
Other monetary framework
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients; however, for funds sourced from the BOG, a 25 basis point cap on banks' subsequent trades with customers is expected. Offshore foreign exchange deals – buying and selling of foreign currency offshore – by resident and nonresident companies, including exporters, are strictly prohibited (BG/GOV/SEC/2014/03).
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange bureaus may operate and must be licensed by the BOG. As of December 31, 2020, and June 30, 2021, there were 415 authorized foreign exchange bureaus. They do not engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the BOG. However, foreign exchange bureaus may deposit and withdraw foreign exchange from their foreign exchange account (FEA) with their commercial banks. They may make spot transactions but may not hold accounts abroad or accept deposits in cedis or foreign exchange from any person or corporate body with the intent of obtaining or supplying foreign exchange or the cedi equivalent either wholly or in part at a future date, and their operations are limited to purchases and sales of banknotes. ADs may quote spot interbank exchange rates for trades settled within two business days or as agreed by counterparties. Foreign exchange bureaus quote rates for the same-day settlement. Foreign exchange bureaus may not sell or buy more than US$10,000 or its equivalent a transaction (BG/GOV/SEC/2014/01).
Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The BOG buys and sells foreign exchange at the interbank market average rates based on its annual cash flow projection.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	No.	The BOG has since July 2015 ceased to provide dedicated support to local banks to meet LC requirements for crude oil imports. Foreign exchange for oil imports is sourced from the open market.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.

GHANA

Interbank market	Yes.	A formal interbank foreign exchange market has been developing since 2006. Banks may trade among themselves at freely determined rates, and the market operates over the counter. As of December 31, 2020, there were 23 major banks participating in the market. There is a limit of 25 pips between the bid-ask exchange rate. ADs must show two-way quotes with a maximum spread of 25 basis points. The BOG buys and sells foreign currency to the banks at the interbank exchange rates.
Over the counter	Yes.	A formal interbank foreign exchange market has been developing since 2006. Banks may trade among themselves at freely determined rates on the interbank Reuters dealing platform.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	ADs may engage in forward foreign exchange transactions. The BOG has conducted a number of swaps with AD banks as a means of promoting and developing foreign exchange products on the market.

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.	Settlements related to transactions covered by bilateral payments agreements are made through government nostro accounts maintained at the BOG and other countries' CBs and commercial banks. All convertible currencies are accepted for all transactions.
Controls on the use of domestic currency	Yes.	Local currency may not be used in international current and capital transactions. All transactions in Ghana must be conducted in cedis, which is the sole legal tender (BOG/GOV/SEC/2012/12).
For current transactions and payments	Yes.	Local currency may not be used in international current transactions. All transactions in Ghana must be conducted in cedis, which is the sole legal tender (BOG/GOV/SEC/2012/12).
For capital transactions	Yes.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments	Yes.	Local currency may not be used in international capital transactions. All transactions in Ghana must be conducted in cedis, which is the sole legal tender (BOG/GOV/SEC/2012/12).
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	Local currency may not be used in international capital transactions. All transactions in Ghana must be conducted in cedis, which is the sole legal tender (BOG/GOV/SEC/2012/12).
Credit operations	Yes.	Local currency may not be used in international capital transactions. All transactions in Ghana must be conducted in cedis, which is the sole legal tender (BOG/GOV/SEC/2012/12).
Use of foreign exchange among residents	Yes.	Cash withdrawals over the counter from FEAs and Foreign Currency Accounts (FCAs) are permitted. For travel outside Ghana, cash withdrawals may not exceed US$10,000 or its equivalent in convertible foreign currency, a person, a trip (BG/GOV/SEC/2014/09 and BOG Press Release of August 8, 2014). Transactions among residents in foreign currency are prohibited, unless the BOG gives prior authorization to do so.
Bilateral payments arrangements	Yes.
Inoperative	Yes.	Ghana has bilateral payment agreements with Bulgaria, China, Cuba, the Czech Republic, Poland, Romania, and the Slovak Republic. There have been delays in the settlement of clearing balances on Regional arrangements	Yes.	Ghana is a member of the WAMA, WAMZ, and ECOWAS.

Clearing agreements	No.	A regional clearing system called Pan African Payment and Settlement System has been set up but is yet to be operationalized.
Barter agreements and open accounts	No.
Administration of control	Yes.	The BOG records and confirms foreign capital inflows and administers foreign exchange for official payments and travel. All other foreign exchange transactions by the private sector are approved and effected by ADs without reference to the BOG.
Official	No.
Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	No.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	No.	Residents may purchase, sell, and hold gold in all forms.
On external trade	No.	Gold bullion exports must be reported to the BOG.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	The exportation of Ghanaian banknotes is permitted up to, effective January 1, 2021, GHC10,000 (previously GHC500); larger amounts may not be exported. Residents and nonresidents travelling abroad are permitted to carry up to GHC10,000 in cash or bank drafts without declaration.
Foreign currency	Yes.	Residents and nonresidents traveling abroad are permitted to carry up to the equivalent of US$10,000 in cash, traveler's checks, or bank drafts for direct purchases. Nonresident travelers may reexport foreign currency in excess of US$10,000, provided the amount was declared on entry. ADs may freely export foreign currency but must provide documentation. Any person arriving in or departing from Ghana is permitted to carry up to US$10,000.00 or its equivalent in any monetary instruments without declaration. Any amount in excess of US$10,000.00 must be declared indicating the source and purpose for carrying such an amount.
On imports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Travelers may reimport up to, effective January 1, 2021, GHC10,000 (previously GHC500) they initially exported. Residents and nonresidents travelling abroad are permitted to carry up to GHS10,000 in cash or bank drafts without declaration. Banks and other financial institutions are not allowed to import banknotes in domestic currency. This is within the purview of the Central Bank.
Foreign currency	No.	Commercial banks are allowed to import foreign currency with notice to the BOG indicating the amount and currencies, for monitoring purposes only. Any person arriving in or departing from Ghana is permitted to carry up to US$10,000.00 or its equivalent in any monetary instruments without declaration. Any amount in excess of US$10,000.00 must be declared indicating the source and purpose for carrying such an amount.

GHANA

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	No.	Banks must report these transactions to the BOG.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	No.	Lending in foreign currency is not restricted by the law. Foreign-currency-denominated loans may be granted by resident banks to their customers, subject to their own internal procedures and processes and in compliance with the risk management guidelines of the BOG (BOG Press Release of August 8, 2014). The Capital Requirement Directive – 2018 imposes a capital add-on of 20% on banks with exposures in foreign currency where the obligor is not a foreign currency earner (currency mismatch).
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	No.
Reserve requirements	No.	Banks are required to maintain a mandatory, 10% reserve requirement on domestic and foreign deposit liabilities in cedis only (BOG letter # SF. 28 of November 17, 2014, on Revised Monetary Policy Measure). Banks do not hold reserves in different currencies. Effective March 18, 2020, through a MPC Press Release, BOG listed some policy measures aimed at containing the impact of the COVID-19 on the Ghanaian economy. The measures included a reduction in the primary reserve requirements from 10% to 8% for banks and Microfinance Institutions, as well as from 8% to 6% for Savings and Loans companies, Finance Houses, and Rural and Community Banks. These are in effect until further notice, which will be based on the monitoring of the pandemic as well as stress tests. Following the issuance of the policy measures, a Notice No. BG/GOV/SEC/2020/01 was issued effective March 20, 2020, to ensure that BOG's objective of enabling banks and SDIs to provide more liquidity and financial support to critical sectors of the economy to mitigate the adverse impact of COVID-19 on the Ghanaian economy was met. Restrictions such as suspension on the declaration or payment of dividends or distributing reserves to shareholders as well as desisting from utilizing the released liquidity based on the policy measures to purchase Government of Ghana and BOG Securities were introduced. In monitoring the impact of COVID-19, BOG issued Notice No. BG/GOV/SEC/2021/06 effective April 12, 2021, as a revision to the notice on the suspension of dividend payments. This Notice directs banks and SDIs to desist from paying dividends unless some conditions are met. The conditions include compliance to original CAR of 13%, Cash Reserve Ratio of 10% as well as NPL ratio of below industry average at all times.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the EU with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Union, as laid down in Article 3 of the Treaty on European Union.” These include “balanced economic growth,” “a highly competitive social market economy, aiming at full employment and social progress, and a high level of protection and improvement of the quality of the environment.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. (Previously, it was defined as inflation rate below but close to 2% over the medium term.)
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Credit institutions are authorized to carry out activities in the spot exchange markets, and they are the major participants in this market, either on their own account or on behalf of their customers. As of December 31, 2020, there were 15 credit institutions, 20 branches of banks incorporated in other EU countries under the “single license” regime (single EU “passport” of Law 4261/2014, Directive 2013/36/EU), and 2 branches of banks incorporated in third countries. In addition to credit institutions, foreign exchange bureaus are legal entities also authorized to carry out OTC spot activities with any natural person, keeping up with the general and specific money-laundering legal and regulatory framework. They are supervised by the BOG. The volume of their activities is insignificant. There is no parallel market. The requirements for the establishment and operation of exchange bureaus as sociétés anonymes (public limited companies) other than credit institutions are stipulated in Law No. 2515/1997, BOG Governor’s Act No. 2541/27 of February 2004, as amended by BOG Governor’s Act No. 2641/20 of April 2011. Pursuant to Article 15 of Law No. 2515/1997, as amended, the BOG is responsible for authorizing the establishment, operation, and supervision of exchange bureaus. As of June 30, 2020, there were 10 foreign exchange bureaus authorized to engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the BOG. They engage in purchasing and selling foreign banknotes and traveler's checks, money transfer intermediation, promotion of and intermediation in the supply of bank products and services (excluding commitments on behalf of credit institutions and the execution of payments or receipts on behalf of such institutions), advance payments to credit card holders, payment of bills issued by noncredit institutions, and so on. Subject to certain conditions, such companies may cooperate with credit institutions in the transfer of funds that (1) are credited to deposit accounts of the principals or beneficiaries; (2) maintained with the cooperating credit institution, either directly or through deposit accounts maintained by these companies with the cooperating credit institutions; or (3) concern the payment of bills/liabilities of the principals to credit institutions. Some of these conditions do not apply to cooperation with a parent credit institution based in Greece or another EEA country.

Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	According to Article 104 (prudent person principle) of Law No. 4364/2016 (Transposition of Directive No. 2009/138/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of November 25, 2009, on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of insurance and reinsurance (Solvency II) into Greek legislation), the following apply: Insurance and reinsurance companies invest all their assets in accordance with the prudent person principle, as specified in Paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 of this article. With respect to the whole portfolio of assets, insurance and reinsurance companies must invest only in assets and instruments whose risks the investor can properly identify, measure, monitor, manage, control, and report and appropriately take into account in the assessment of its overall solvency needs in accordance with Article 33 Paragraph 1 (a). All assets, in particular those covering the Minimum Capital Requirement and the Solvency Capital Requirement, must be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity, and profitability of the portfolio as a whole. In addition, the localization of those assets must be such as to ensure their availability. Assets held to cover the technical provisions must also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the insurance and reinsurance liabilities. Those assets must be invested in the best interest of all policyholders and beneficiaries, taking into account any disclosed policy objective. In the case of a conflict of interest, insurance companies, or the entity that manages their asset portfolio, must ensure that the investment is made in the best interest of policyholders and beneficiaries. Without prejudice to Paragraph 2, with respect to assets held with respect to life insurance contracts where the investment risk is borne by the policyholders, the second, third, and fourth subparagraphs of this paragraph apply. Where the benefits provided by a contract are directly linked to the value of units in a UCITS as defined in I. 4099/2012 (Government Gazette A 250) or in Directive No. 2009/65/EC, or to the value of assets contained in an internal fund held by the insurance companies, usually divided into units, the technical provisions with respect to those benefits must be represented as closely as possible by those units or, if units are not established, by those assets. Where the benefits provided by a contract are directly linked to a share index or some other reference value other than those referred to in the second subparagraph, the technical provisions with respect to those benefits must be represented as closely as possible either by the units deemed to represent the reference value or, if units are not established, by assets of appropriate security and marketability that correspond as closely as possible with those on which the particular reference value is based. Where the benefits referred to in the second and third subparagraphs include a guarantee of investment performance or some other guaranteed benefit, the assets held to cover the corresponding additional technical provisions are subject to Paragraph 4. Without prejudice to Paragraph 2, with respect to assets other than those covered by Paragraph 3, the second to fifth subparagraphs of this paragraph apply. The use of derivative instruments is possible insofar as they contribute to a reduction of risks or facilitate efficient portfolio management. Investment and assets that are not admitted to trading on a regulated financial market must be kept to prudent levels. Assets must be properly diversified in such a way as to avoid excessive reliance on any particular asset, issuer or group of companies, or geographical area and excessive accumulation of risk in the portfolio as a whole. Investments in assets issued by the same issuer, or by issuers belonging to the same group, must not expose the insurance companies to excessive risk concentration.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition

No.

According to Article 105 (freedom of investment) of Law No. 4364/2016, insurance and reinsurance companies must invest in accordance with this law without any other restriction, and their investment decisions must not be subject to the prior approval or systematic notification the Supervisory Authority.

Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange arrangement is floating. In accordance with the Monetary Law and the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law, Guatemala has a flexible exchange rate arrangement under which the rate is determined in the foreign exchange market by supply and demand. However, the Bank of Guatemala (Banco de Guatemala—BOG) may intervene in the foreign exchange market to limit volatility in the nominal exchange rate, without affecting its trend. The BOG intervenes through foreign exchange auctions based on a transparent rule, which limits daily volatility. The fluctuation band (added to or subtracted from the moving average exchange rate from the past five days) used to determine whether the BOG can participate in the foreign exchange market is 0.85%. The maximum amount of daily currency purchases or sales is US$50.0 million. The BOG may also intervene when the nominal exchange rate is unusually volatile, but this instrument has only been used twice: the first time during the world economic and financial crisis of 2008–2009 and the second during the third week of March 2020, when the nominal exchange rate overreacted in response to the high levels of uncertainty associated with the global spread of COVID-19 and concerns regarding the latter’s potential impact on health and the economy. Against this backdrop, economic agents reacted by displaying excessive demand for foreign currency on the institutional foreign exchange market (IFEM) on March 24 and 25, generating exceptionally high levels of volatility. Accordingly, the BOG’s Execution Committee found that although the criteria governing the foreign exchange rules for participation for sale were observed, on that occasion it was convenient to use the power of participation in an exceptional manner to be able to offer an amount greater than that established in accordance with said participation rule in light of the unusual volatility that was present. In fact, on March 25, the CB offered US$230.0 million, which reduced the excess volatility observed in the nominal exchange rate without changing the long-term trend in that variable associated with its fundamentals. Pursuant to the foreign exchange policy approved by the Monetary Board for 2020, the Implementing Committee authorized participation through the international monetary reserve accumulation mechanism up to the amount of US$1 billion in two phases. The first phase of the mechanism was implemented beginning in February in the amount of US$500 million until May 31, 2020, to reduce surplus foreign exchange present on the foreign exchange market; however, because the authorized amount was not achieved by the cutoff date, the first phase was extended until August 31, 2020. Later, the Implementing Committee considered that the first phase of the mechanism implemented had been effective in reducing the surpluses on the foreign exchange market while at the same time making it possible to continue to strengthen international monetary reserves; however, as there was still a surplus on the foreign exchange market, it was deemed important to continue with the second phase of the accumulation mechanism, that was implemented in September in the same amount as the previous phase (US$500 million) until December 31, 2020, or until the authorized amount was achieved. On December 31, 2020, through the reserve accumulation mechanism, US$734.0 million were bought, while under the foreign exchange participation rule, US$1.773 billion were bought and US$271.2 million were sold. As a result, BOG’s net participation on the IFEM was US$2.0101 billion, equivalent to 4.32% of the total traded on the IFEM during that year. On June 30, 2021, BOG implemented the foreign exchange rule to buy US$293.9 million and carried out sales of US$54.0 million; in addition, US$777.9 million were bought under the international monetary reserve accumulation mechanism. In accordance with the policy adopted by the Monetary Board, the Implementing Committee authorized participation with the accumulation mechanism of US$1 billion; the first phase of the mechanism, in the amount of US$500 million, was implemented in February, and was effective until this amount was achieved or until June 30 of the present year, whichever occurred first. In May, as the amount under the first phase was achieved, the Implementing Committee decided that a second phase should be implemented for an additional US$500 million with effect until August 31, to reduce the surplus foreign exchange present on the foreign exchange market. In this connection, the net participation of BOG on the IFEM on June 30, 2021, was US$1.0178 million, equivalent to 3.53% of the total traded on the market during that period. The nominal exchange rate on June 30, 2021, registered interannual depreciation of 0.57% (cumulative appreciation of 0.64%)—performance associated with its fundamentals. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement.

Yes.

The BOG calculates and publishes the reference exchange rate, which is equal to the weighted average of the exchange rates corresponding to all the foreign exchange buying and selling operations engaged in by the institutions in the IFEM. The reference exchange rate is applicable to, inter alia, the settlement of tax and other obligations entailing payments to or from the government and its entities and the resolution of administrative and/or legal disputes.

The target setting body is the Monetary Board (Junta Monetaria). Since 2005, the implementation of monetary, exchange rate, and credit policies in Guatemala has been based on the explicit inflation-targeting framework, which consists, in general terms, of a monetary policy strategy based on a commitment by the monetary authority and the BOG to set an explicit target for inflation, taking into account one or more time frames to reach the said target. Against this background, as a result of the inflation-targeting framework consolidation process, the Monetary Board (Junta Monetaria) set a medium-term inflation target, as of 2013, of 4.0% ±1 percentage point, with the aim of achieving the inflation convergence process to reach the said target by anchoring the inflationary expectations of economic agents. The decisions taken by the Monetary Board are adopted by a majority vote of those members present. In practice, the majority of Monetary Board decisions are taken by consensus (Organic Law of the BOG, Article 21).

CPI	Yes.	The BOG's mission is to promote general price stability, measured with year-on-year changes in the CPI at the end of each year. The main monetary policy tool is the lead rate, which is determined through the comprehensive analysis of the balance of medium-term inflation risks. According to the 2009–2010 National Survey of Household Income and Expenditure, the CPI is defined as the measurement of the weighted average of prices of a basket of consumer goods and services corresponding to the largest items of final consumption expenditure. The base month for this index is December 2010.
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The target horizon is medium term and has been applied since 2013.
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	The monetary policy rate used by the BOG is the lead rate, corresponding to the reference rate for overnight operations, that the BOG uses to indicate its monetary policy stance. On June 30, 2021, the monetary policy rate was 1.75%, the lowest level since the scheme of explicit inflation targets was adopted in 2005. The Monetary Board decided to reduce the monetary policy lead rate by 75 basis points in March 2020 and by 25 basis points in June 2020, to maintain an accommodating stance for that policy, so that the credit market would respond to the current conditions, to enable the CB to use the monetary policy transmission mechanism to support aggregate demand conditions, and in doing so, to reactivate Guatemala's economy in the wake of the health crisis caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. During the first half of 2021, according to the established schedule, the Monetary Board met in February, March, April, May, and June to decide the monetary policy interest rate; at these meetings, the Monetary Board decided to keep the rate at 1.75% to maintain its accommodating monetary policy stance.

Other monetary framework
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	In accordance with Article 1 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law, commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate and commissions for transactions with their customers.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	In accordance with Article 1 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law (Libre Negociación de Divisas), foreign exchange availability, holding, contracting, remittance, transfer, purchase and sale, and collection and payment are unrestricted. Holding and managing deposits and accounts and financial intermediation operations in foreign currency are unrestricted both in domestic banks and in banks abroad. The issuance of credit instruments or securities denominated in foreign currency requires authorization by the Monetary Board. Article 2 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law stipulates that the IFEM comprises the BOG, banks, private financial companies, stock exchanges, and foreign exchange bureaus. Currently, there are 17 banking institutions, 11 private financial companies, and 3 foreign exchange bureaus. Article 3 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law defines foreign exchange bureaus as nonbank institutions authorized by the Monetary Board to operate in the IFEM. In accordance with the Annex to Resolution No. JM-131-2001, foreign exchange bureaus may buy foreign currency in the form of banknotes, traveler's checks, bank drafts, electronic fund transfers, postal orders, and in other forms of payment denominated in foreign currency as well as in the form of documents drawn against their own accounts; such transactions are executed at prices freely agreed by the individuals and legal entities concerned.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.	Pursuant to Article 54 of the Organic Law of the BOG, the Executive Branch, autonomous and decentralized institutions and, in general, government entities and dependencies, unless otherwise specified by law, must conduct their financial transactions in domestic or foreign currencies, both within and outside of the country, through the CB.

exchange rates from the past five business days (Resolution No. JM-148-2020). In such cases, effective January 1, 2020, the BOG initiates an auction to buy or sell up to US$10 million in foreign currency (previously US$8 million). No more than five auctions a day are allowed (previously four auctions a day), and the maximum daily intervention is US$50 million (previously US$40 million). The BOG may also intervene in the foreign exchange market by buying or selling foreign currency whenever the nominal exchange rate shows unusual volatility. Auction participants are not required to finance specific international transactions. The IFEM is made up of the BOG, other banks, private finance companies, securities exchanges, and foreign exchange bureaus referred to in Article 3 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law, as well as any other institutions designated by the Monetary Board.

Noncompliance by any of the parties is deemed a serious sanctionable violation by the National Securities Exchange of Guatemala (Bolsa de Valores Nacional de Guatemala, S.A.). The sanction consists in a suspension for eleven to twenty trading days, plus a fine equivalent to 150 “fine units” for each trading day of suspension.

The results of public auctions are disclosed to the public by publication on the website of the BOG and through print mass media.

Interbank market	Yes.	The IFEM comprises the BOG, banks, private financial companies, stock exchanges, and foreign exchange bureaus (mentioned in Article 3 of the Free Foreign Exchange Convertibility Law), and other institutions designated by the Monetary Board. Currently, there are 32 such institutions. At June 30, 2021, 17 banks were participating in the interbank market. For statistical control purposes, they are required to report all foreign exchange operations to the BOG daily, in a manner established by the Monetary Board. The Superintendency of Banks supervises and inspects the institutions with regard to their foreign exchange operations, and they must comply with all pertinent Monetary Board rules. No limits are set on the spreads between buying and selling prices. The BOG is not directly involved in the exchange rates quoted between market participants. Authorization to operate on this market is granted by the Monetary Board.

In this regard, and in accordance with the provisions of Annex A of the General Treaty on Central American Economic Integration, the common regime for the five countries' trade in unroasted coffee is subject to import tariffs. Refined and unrefined sugarcane, flavorings and dyes, and other items are subject to import controls. Under the bilateral arrangements concerning Guatemala, trade in roasted coffee between Guatemala and Costa Rica is subject to import duties. Guatemala's tariff structure exempts certain manufactured products. The tariff on imports of most footwear and textile products is 15%, and rates on tires range from 5% to 15%. In addition, safeguard provisions apply to certain agricultural products, which are subject to tariff rate quotas under WTO rules that allow for tariffs above the maximum rate for imports in excess of quota. Yellow corn is subject to a quota of 200,000 metric tons a year, with a tariff of 0% for imports within quota and 15% in excess of quota. Rice is subject to a quota of 19,000 metric tons a year, with a tariff of 0% for imports within quota and 23.7% in excess of quota. White corn is subject to a quota of 200,000 metric tons a year, with a tariff of 0% for imports within quota and 15% in excess of quota. These quotas are adjusted annually after discussions between the private sector and the government. Within the framework of commitments under the WTO, Guatemala has a consolidated ad valorem tariff ceiling of 40% for agricultural products and 45% for other products (50% for the categories indicated in Chapters 50–64 of the Central American Tariff System); both ceilings are subject to the exceptions mentioned in List No. LXXXVIII. There are also separate bilateral trade agreements with Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Panama, and Taiwan Province of China. Under the CAFTA, among Central American countries, the Dominican Republic, and the United States (CAFTA-DR), which took effect in 2006, import duties are imposed on 6,307 items in 10 categories, among which the following relate to goods traded between Guatemala and the United States: (1) Category B contains products such as chicken breasts, fish, and vegetables that are being phased in over a five-year period and that are not subject to duty. (2) Category C contains 788 items for which duty will be eliminated in 10 equal annual phases, starting January 1 of year 1 of the treaty. (3) Category D contains products such as dairy products, green and decaffeinated coffee, and alcoholic beverages that will be phased in over 15 years, for which the duties are 6%, 9%, and 24%, respectively. (4) Category F contains products such as milk and yogurt, for which duties will remain the same for the first 10 years of the treaty; they will then be reduced in 10 equal annual phases and be duty free in year 20 of the treaty. (5) Category N contains products such as rum, precooked sausages, and wheat flour, for which duties will be reduced gradually until they are eliminated in 12 equal annual phases, starting on the date CAFTA-DR went into effect; duties applicable to rum, precooked sausages, and wheat flour are 20.0%, 6%, and 0%, respectively. (6) Category O contains black beans, for which duty will remain at its initial rate throughout the first six years of the treaty; on January 1 of year 7, the duty will be reduced by 8% of the base rate every year thereafter through year 11 of the treaty; on January 1 of year 12, the duty will be reduced further by 15% of the base rate and by an additional 15% of the base rate through year 14 of the treaty, and the goods will be duty free, on January 1 of year 15. (7) In addition, pursuant to the trade agreements, the following quotas are in force for 2016: vegetable oil (palm, sunflower, and soybean oil) 1,050 metric tons, dog and cat food 1,368 metric tons, chicken wings 12 metric tons, rice 96,100 metric tons, tuna 500 metric tons, beef 2,383 metric tons, pork 6,265 metric tons, preserved pig meat 1,035 units, white onions 351 metric tons, chicken leg quarters 9,970 metric tons, black beans 1,006.5, ice cream 261 metric tons, cured hams and bacon 1,035 units, condensed milk 625 metric tons, long-life milk 200,000 liters, powdered milk 1,744.5 metric tons, yellow corn 173,000 metric tons, white corn 24,400 metric tons, Manjar caramel spread 46 metric tons, butter 278 metric tons, cream 115 metric tons, other prepared or canned tomatoes 40 metric tons, potatoes 216 metric tons, cheeses 2,330.3 metric tons, and tomato sauce 143.8 metric tons.

Exchange Arrangement

Foreign exchange market

Operated by the central bank

Auction	01/01/2020	The Bank of Guatemala (BOG) can intervene on the foreign exchange market if the reference exchange rate reaches or exceeds the fluctuation band of $\pm 0.80\%$ around the moving average of the reference exchange rates from the past five business days. In such cases, the BOG initiates an auction to buy or sell up to US\$10 million (previously US\$8 million) in foreign currency. No more than five auctions a day are allowed (previously four auctions a day), and the maximum daily intervention is US\$50 million (previously US\$40 million).
	01/01/2021	The BOG can intervene on the foreign exchange market if the reference exchange rate reaches or exceeds the fluctuation band of $\pm 0.85\%$ (previously $\pm 0.80\%$ ) around the moving average of the reference exchange rates from the past five business days.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Payments arrangements

Regional arrangements	01/01/2021	The Association Agreement between Central America and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland entered into force.
-----------------------	-------------------	--

(Position as of June 30, 2021)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the First Review of the Arrangement Under the Three-Year Extended Credit Facility, Financing Assurances Review, and Request for Modification and for Waivers of Nonobservance of Performance Criteria with Guinea states that, as of June 8, 2018, the foreign exchange system gives rise to a MCP because the reference rate can potentially deviate by more than 2% from the commercial banks' purchase and sales rates on a given day. (Country Report No. 18/234)
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	No.
Other security restrictions	No.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency	Yes.	The currency of Guinea is the Guinean franc. Silver commemorative coins are also legal tender.
Other legal tender	No.
Exchange rate structure
Unitary
Dual
Multiple	Yes.	The exchange rate structure is classified as multiple, because the official exchange rate may differ from the market rate by more than 2%. Guinea maintains a MCP as the value of the official rate lags the weighted average commercial bank rate on which it is based by one day.

No separate legal tender
Currency board
Conventional peg
Stabilized arrangement
Crawling peg
Crawl-like arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating. Guinea announced its participation in the exchange rate mechanisms (ERM and ERM II) of the WAMZ, which formally limits the fluctuation of the franc to  $\pm 15\%$  around a central rate vis-à-vis the US dollar, but this has yet to be implemented. Effective November 13, 2020, the BCRG may organize an auction for the sale of US dollars for an amount not exceeding 8 million if the reference price of the day calculated and published by the BCRG is more than 0.25% higher than the moving average of the last 5 days. Previously, the BCRG operated a bi-weekly competitive bidding auction. The BCRG's intervention policy is based on a budget of foreign exchange sales. Banks are allowed to negotiate freely foreign exchange sales and purchases with their clients. From November 2019, the Guinean franc has stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar and then followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar from May 2020. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) retroactively to stabilized from crawl-like, effective November 12, 2019, and (2) to crawl-like from stabilized, effective May 28, 2020. While the exchange rate has appreciated since January 2021, more observations are necessary to determine its new trend. Until then, the de facto exchange rate arrangement remains classified as a crawl-like arrangement.

Yes.

The official or reference exchange rate since July 2012 is calculated as the volume-weighted average of the previous day's rates applied by the commercial banks with their customers. These rates are determined on the basis of supply and demand. Banks may purchase and sell foreign exchange with their customers at freely negotiated rates. The rates of other currencies are calculated on the basis of their previous day's rate vis-à-vis the SDR, as published by the IMF. The official rate is used by the government in its transactions.

Foreign exchange market Yes.

Spot exchange market Yes. There are 15 active commercial banks licensed to deal in foreign exchange and 19 foreign exchange bureaus in operation. The BCRG is the only institution authorized to grant licenses. Foreign exchange bureaus may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the BCRG; their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes. Exchange bureaus are prohibited from engaging in the following operations: (1) taking deposits on account for their clients;

GUINEA

		(2) forward buying and selling of foreign currency banknotes or traveler's checks in exchange for national currency; (3) forward buying and selling of foreign currency banknotes and checks in exchange for other foreign currencies; (4) making money transfers of any amount, either abroad or domestically; (5) importing or exporting banknotes; and (6) extending loans to clients. Foreign exchange bureaus may not maintain accounts abroad. The BCRG introduced Instruction No. 068/DGCC/DCH/16, which limits transactions conducted through licensed exchange bureaus to retail transactions up to a ceiling of US$100,000 a day.
Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The BCRG transacts with commercial banks only through bi-weekly preannounced foreign exchange auctions.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	No.
Auction	Yes.	Effective November 13, 2020, the BCRG may organize an auction for the sale of US dollars for an amount not exceeding 8 million if the reference price of the day calculated and published by the BCRG is more than 0.25% higher than the moving average of the last 5 days. Previously, the BCRG operated a bi-weekly competitive bidding auction. Participants are free to use the foreign currency obtained in the rules-based auctions to finance international transactions in accordance with the regulations in force. Banks may purchase and sell foreign exchange with their customers at freely negotiated rates. On the business day preceding the day on which an operation is scheduled, the BCRG communicates the details of the given operation to all eligible participants in two-sided foreign exchange auctions by means of a public announcement, through the press, or by any other means (letter and e-mail). The foreign exchange is allocated to the best bidders at the price they bid, up to a limit of 20% of the auction for a given counterparty. The minimum volume of an offer to purchase or sell foreign exchange is US $50,000. The BCRG reserves the right to cancel an auction session or to reject unrealistic offers. Immediately after an auction session, the participating banks must be notified of the results pertaining to their respective transactions. The aggregated results of an auction session must be published at the same time on the BCRG website. A bank that does not honor its commitments arising from the two-sided foreign exchange auction market must be subject to sanctions provided for in the regulations, in addition to a suspension between one and four auction sessions. In certain exceptional cases, the BCRG may announce in advance that an auction will be a one-sided auction at which the BCRG will be selling US dollars. In these circumstances, no single participant may acquire more than 20% of the amount being sold by the BCRG.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Sixteen active commercial banks are authorized by the BCRG to exchange foreign currency among themselves. Banks can trade with each other through the two-way auction system operated by the BCRG. There are no limits on the bid-ask spread and commission of market participants.
Over the counter	Yes.	The licensing commission is statutorily empowered to grant licenses to credit institutions. These transactions are used for official missions abroad.
Brokerage	No.

GUINEA

Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.	All current transactions effected in Guinea must be settled in Guinean francs. Settlements for transactions covered by bilateral payments agreements are made in currencies prescribed by, and through accounts established under, the provisions of the agreements. Settlements with countries other than members of the WAMZ are made in designated convertible currencies quoted by the BCRG.

On external trade	Yes.	The exportation of gold is subject to BCRG authorization and applicable taxes.

GUINEA

On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Regulations limit exports to GF 100,000 a person a trip.
Foreign currency	Yes.	The exportation of foreign currency is subject to BCRG authorization. Instruction No. 041/DGCC/RCH/12 raises the allowable foreign exchange account withdrawal from US$5,000 to US$20,000 (and established the Directorate for the Control and Monitoring of Foreign Exchange Regulations). There is no limit on exports; however, travelers must document amounts exceeding the equivalent of US$20,000.
On imports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Regulations limit imports to GF 100,000 a person a trip.

Resident Accounts

Held domestically	Yes.	Residents are free to open foreign exchange accounts with local banks. Exporters may hold all their earnings in foreign currency in local bank accounts. All withdrawals of funds in excess of US $20,000 require the presentation of appropriate supporting documents.
Approval required	No.
Held abroad	Yes.	These accounts are permitted, but prior BCRG approval is required for juridical persons, and a simple notification to the BCRG is required for physical persons.
Approval required	Yes.
Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency	Yes.	Accounts in Guinean francs may be credited with deposits in foreign exchange, regardless of their origin. The accounts may be debited freely and converted by commercial banks to foreign currencies without BCRG authorization.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.	Nonresident Guinean nationals are required to notify the CB whenever they open or close an account abroad. All withdrawals of funds in excess of US$20,000 require the presentation of appropriate supporting documents.
Approval required	No.
Domestic currency accounts	Yes.	The regulations governing resident accounts apply.
Convertible into foreign currency	Yes.
Approval required	No.

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Classification

Stabilized arrangement	01/01/2020	The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to stabilized from crawl-like, effective November 12, 2019. The change is reflected as of January 1, 2020, corresponding to the first day of the period covered in this year's Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions.
Crawl-like arrangement	05/28/2020	The de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from stabilized.
	11/13/2020	The BCRG may organize an auction for the sale of US dollars for an amount not exceeding 8 million if the reference price of the day calculated and published by the BCRG is more than 0.25% higher than the moving average of the last 5 days. Previously, the BCRG operated a bi-weekly competitive bidding auction.

Official exchange rate Yes. The CFA franc is officially pegged to the euro, the anchor currency, at the fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. Exchange rates for other currencies are cross-rates derived from the rate for the currency concerned in the Paris foreign exchange market vis-à-vis the euro. The official rate is used for accounting and valuation purposes. The Conference of Heads of State and Government may decide to amend the Monetary Cooperation Agreement between the WAEMU member countries and France.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor Yes.

U.S. dollar

Euro Yes. The monetary policy framework is an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the euro. The operational target of price stability is defined as an annual inflation rate in the WAEMU that falls within a band of  $\pm 1\%$  around a central rate of 2%. The Harmonized CPI is the benchmark rate to measure inflation.

Exchange tax	Yes.	The commission rate charged on transfers to all countries that are not members of the WAEMU area is 0.6%. This commission must be surrendered to the National Treasury and is a portion of its tax revenue.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Authorized intermediaries may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients, except for the euro, which must be traded against the CFA franc at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro. However, they can charge a commission of up to 2% of the transaction amount. Instruction No. 013-11-2015 on the terms and conditions for conducting rapid money transfers as a subagent within the WAEMU applies.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Authorized intermediaries must comply with the provisions in effect on the financial conditions for executing banknote foreign exchange transactions that involve foreign currencies and issue a transaction slip for all transactions with a client. Moreover, to provide satisfactory information to clients, they are required to (1) permanently post at their windows the rates actually charged for the different currencies and (2) post notification that a transaction slip must be issued for all foreign exchange transactions on presentation of the requestor's identity document. Banks and registered banknote exchange houses are intermediaries authorized by the Ministry of Economy and Finance (MEF) to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public. As of December 31, 2020, there were 11 authorized banknote exchanges. Exchange houses are authorized to conduct operations with the BCEAO in any currency except the euro. Authorized exchange houses are not authorized to make transfers or payments in foreign currency to other countries or to hold accounts abroad.

		Authorized intermediaries may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients, except for the euro, which must be traded against the CFA franc at the official fixed rate of CFAF 655.957 per euro and may charge a commission of up to 2% of the transaction amount.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The BCEAO supplies, at the official rate, the foreign currency that each authorized intermediary needs to make payments abroad, that is, in the import coverage framework. The CB only purchases foreign exchange on request from the commercial banks, but does not sell foreign exchange to them for purposes other than import coverage. The BCEAO exchanges foreign currency for CFA francs at the rates published on the international markets, with the exception of the euro, which is traded at the official fixed rate of 655.957 CFA francs per euro. The nonelectronic currency exchange windows are open to owners of accounts on the BCEAO books and to the general public. A commission of 0.5% is charged on all transactions with the public (purchases and sales) and all withdrawals by banks and financial institutions (including euro withdrawals). However, commissions are not charged on cash foreign exchange transactions conducted by governments, officials of Member States of the WAMU on missions abroad, officials of the CB and their beneficiaries, or on payments made by banks and financial institutions.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Transactions in CFA francs between authorized intermediaries are allowed. As of December 31, 2020, 5 banks were licensed for the domestic currency interbank market. Banks are not authorized to operate in foreign currency in the interbank market in the WAEMU.
Over the counter	Yes.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to conduct the following transactions in the foreign exchange derivatives market with authorized intermediary banks established in the WAMU or with foreign banks: outright forward foreign exchange contracts (over the counter), foreign exchange options, foreign exchange swaps, and cross-currency swaps. Transactions in foreign exchange options are limited to the following two types of transactions: options to purchase foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign bank, and options to sell foreign currency, purchased by residents of the WAEMU zone from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAMU or from a foreign credit institution. Authorized intermediary banks must simultaneously cover the exchange risk they incur with respect to derivative instruments traded with their customers. The underlying commercial and financial operations must relate to imports and exports of goods and services by a resident, foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments), or direct foreign investment in a resident company.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.	Payments with countries outside the WAEMU are made in foreign currencies. Trade with other WAEMU countries is settled in CFA francs.
Controls on the use of domestic currency	Yes.	The CFA franc may not be used as payment for current international transactions or capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU.
For current transactions and payments	Yes.	There is a multilateral clearing agreement between the WAEMU countries and the other ECOWAS countries (Cabo Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone) in the WAMA framework. Payments for current transactions between countries whose CBs are WAMU members may be made under the clearing arrangement.
For capital transactions	Yes.	The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Investments by residents of the WAEMU zone outside the WAEMU are subject to prior authorization by the minister of finance, and at least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments	Yes.	The CFA franc may not be used for capital transactions with countries outside the WAEMU. Foreign investment by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to authorization by the MOF. At least 75% of the investment must be financed through foreign borrowing. The interested party must request authorization through a letter designating the authorized intermediary to settle the payment. Purchases of foreign negotiable securities authorized by the regional capital markets authority to be issued or sold in WAEMU members do not require MEF authorization.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	Residents of WAEMU member countries may engage in the following operations on derivatives and other instruments with accredited banks established in the WAEMU or foreign banks: (1) forward contract, foreign exchange swaps, and options. Operation on derivatives with foreign banks outside the WAEMU can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.
Credit operations	Yes.	Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, any advances granted by authorized intermediaries to nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are subject to prior authorization by the Directorate of External Financial Relations of the MOF, after BCEAO approval.
Use of foreign exchange among residents	Yes.	The CFA franc is the only legal tender, and residents are not permitted to use foreign exchange for domestic transactions.
Bilateral payments arrangements	No.
Inoperative	No.
Regional arrangements	Yes.	An operations account is maintained with the French Treasury that links operations account countries. All purchases and sales of foreign currencies and euros against CFA francs are settled through a debit or credit to the operations account.
Clearing agreements	Yes.	There is a multilateral clearing agreement in the context of the

GUINEA-BISSAU

		WAMA among the WAEMU countries (Cabo Verde, The Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Mauritania, Nigeria, Sierra Leone). Payments for current transactions between the member countries may be effected under the clearing arrangement. However, this excludes transactions specified by the committee of governors of the CBs of ECOWAS members and payments for exports from one member country to another member country of finished products originating in countries whose CB or monetary authority is not a WAMA member.
Barter agreements and open accounts	No.
Administration of control	Yes.	The institutional reform of the WAEMU and the BCEAO went into effect April 1, 2010, with the adoption of the following new basic instruments: (1) the WAMU Treaty, (2) the BCEAO Charter, (3) the Bank Regulation Act, and (4) the Convention governing the WAMU Banking Commission. All WAEMU residents are treated as residents of Guinea-Bissau for the purposes of preparing the external position of banks, domiciliation and repatriation of export revenue, issuance and sales of securities, gold imports and exports, investment and lending transactions, and physical exports of means of payment and securities by postal package or ordinary mail. However, for statistical purposes with regard to the balance of payments, all countries other than Guinea-Bissau are considered foreign countries. Moreover, all transfers with other countries must be made through authorized intermediary banks, the postal service, or the BCEAO.
Official	No.
Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	No.
On external trade	Yes.	Gold imports and exports require MOF authorization, except (1) imports and exports by the Public Treasury and the BCEAO; (2) imports and exports of items with a low gold content (lined or plated objects); and (3) imports and exports, by travelers, of objects made of gold limited to a total weight of 500 grams.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Travelers may freely export CFA franc (XOF) banknotes from one WAEMU member country to another. Resident individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving CFA franc banknotes issued by the BCEAO.
Foreign currency	Yes.	The reexportation of foreign banknotes by nonresident travelers is permitted up to the equivalent of CFAF 500,000; the reexportation of foreign banknotes above this ceiling requires documentation demonstrating either the importation of the foreign banknotes or their purchase against other means of payment registered in the name of the traveler or through the use of nonresident deposit accounts in local banks. Residents of the WAEMU zone traveling to countries that are not WAEMU members are required to declare foreign currency on their person in excess the equivalent of CFAF 1 million. They may carry up to the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person in banknotes not issued by the BCEAO. Larger amounts may be exported in the form of traveler's checks, prepaid debit and payment cards, conventional debit and payment cards, or other means of payment. Foreign exchange allowances issued by authorized intermediaries in the form of traveler's checks or prepaid debit and payment cards must be based on the need to cover customary, personal travel expenses, if they exceed the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person. The issuance of foreign currency to resident travelers is subject to the presentation of travel documents and a valid passport or national identification card.

On imports Yes.

Domestic currency Yes. Residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone may freely import domestic currency (CFA Franc XOF) banknotes. However, individuals and legal entities other than the BCEAO and its banking and commercial correspondents outside the WAEMU are prohibited from sending and receiving banknotes in domestic currency. BCEAO redemption of banknotes exported outside its area of issuance has been suspended. Pursuant to this measure, registered intermediary banks are not authorized to receive shipments of CFA Franc XOF banknotes from their correspondents located outside the WAEMU area.

Foreign currency No. Residents of the WAEMU zone and nonresidents of the WAEMU zone may freely import means of payment denominated in foreign currencies. Such means of payment in excess of the equivalent of CFAF 5 million must be declared to customs. Nonresident travelers must declare to customs foreign currency exceeding the equivalent of CFAF 5 million on entry and exit.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Residents may open foreign exchange accounts with MOF authorization, after BCEAO consent.

Held domestically Yes.

Approval required Yes. Foreign exchange accounts in currencies other than the Euro may be opened domestically with MOF authorization after non-objection from the BCEAO. The authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on each such an account. These accounts are valid for a renewable term of up to one year. They cannot be credited with deposits of CFA banknotes or by debiting a CFA franc account. On expiration of the term set in the authorization, accounts are closed unless a new authorization is obtained.

Held abroad Yes.

Approval required Yes. Individuals who are residents of the WAEMU temporarily staying or traveling outside of WAEMU may open bank accounts outside the WAEMU to deposit foreign currency legally exported and any income acquired outside of the WAEMU during their travel or temporary stay outside of the WAEMU. These individuals are required to repatriate balances on such accounts within 30 days of return to the WAEMU. In any circumstance other than the foregoing, opening of foreign accounts by WAEMU residents is subject to MOF authorization by after non-objection from the BCEAO. The MOF authorization specifies the operations that may be credited or debited on such accounts. In the event of a failure to obtain a new MOF authorization, the accredited intermediary must request that the account be closed by the end of the term authorized and that any balance be repatriated to a WAEMU member country within eight days.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Approval required Yes. Intermediaries authorized in the WAEMU are authorized to open accounts in euros for the benefit of nonresidents, subject to proof of their status and actual residence. Nonresident accounts denominated in foreign currency other than euros are subject to BCEAO authorization. Nonresident foreign currency accounts are valid for a renewable period of two years. In the event of a failure to obtain renewal (through a new BCEAO authorization for foreign exchange other than the euro), these accounts must be closed. The balances of these accounts may be freely transferred abroad after verification.

Domestic currency accounts Yes.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. Authorized intermediaries may open nonresident accounts in CFA francs and in euros, under their own responsibility, depending on the status and actual residence of the applicant. These accounts may be debited for spot purchases of foreign exchange.

Approval required No.

Blocked accounts No.

Imports and Import Payments

Foreign exchange budget Yes.

Financing requirements for imports Yes.

Minimum financing requirements No.

Advance payment requirements Yes. Advance payments for imports require authorization, and importers may not acquire foreign exchange until the date of payment specified in the contract.

Advance import deposits No.

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports Yes. Importers may purchase foreign exchange for import payments after establishing bank payment order accounts and submitting supporting documents, but not earlier than eight days before shipment if a documentary credit is opened, or on the due date of payment if the products have already been imported.

Domiciliation requirements Yes. Import transactions from outside the CFA franc area exceeding CFAF 5 million must be effected through an authorized bank.

Preshipment inspection Yes. An inspection is required to verify the quantity, quality, and price of imported merchandise.

Letters of credit No.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses No.

Other Yes. Exchange authorization, invoices, and export-import cards are required.

Import licenses and other nontariff measures Yes. Imports, regardless of whether they involve the use of official or free-market foreign exchange, require an import license issued by the Ministry of Commerce and Tourism, primarily for statistical purposes. Licenses are issued automatically after verification of the invoiced prices of taxable goods.

Positive list	No.
Negative list	No.
Open general licenses	No.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	Yes.	Quantitative restrictions may be applied to products for public health and security reasons.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	The WAEMU CET consists of four tariff brackets: 0%, 5%, 10%, and 20%. Imports from countries outside the WAEMU area are also subject to a 1% statistical tax and a community solidarity levy of 0.8%. Moreover, a cyclical import tax ( taxe conjoncturelle à l'importation ) and a degressive protection tax ( taxe dégressive de protection ) may at certain times be charged on some products. Neither tax had been applied as at end-2018. Imports from non-ECOWAS members are subject to a 0.5% community levy (CL/ECOWAS).
Taxes collected through the exchange system	No.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Resident economic operators are required to collect and repatriate within one month of the payment due date the entire amount of sales of goods abroad in the country of origin with the bank with which the transaction is domiciled. The payment due date is specified in the trade agreement and normally falls within a period of 120 days after the goods are dispatched.
Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	Yes.	Export proceeds must be surrendered by ADs to the BCEAO within 30 days of the payment due date, which may not exceed 120 days after shipment of the goods. To cover its current foreign exchange needs, the domiciling bank may hold up to 20% of its export proceeds as own foreign exchange resources. However, it must ensure that its total foreign exchange resources to cover its requirements do not exceed 5% of total customer demand deposits; otherwise, the surplus must be surrendered to the BCEAO.
Surrender to authorized dealers	Yes.	Proceeds must be surrendered to authorized banks within 30 days of the payment due date. Authorized intermediaries must then surrender the foreign exchange to the BCEAO by transfer through the bank of issue. Export revenue may be surrendered to intermediaries other than banks with which the transaction is domiciled if authorized by the BCEAO.
Letters of credit	No.
Guarantees	No.
Domiciliation	Yes.	Export transactions of more than CFAF 10 million or its equivalent, except those between WAEMU countries, must be domiciled with an authorized intermediary bank.

Preshipment inspection	No.
Other	Yes.	A customs declaration is required.
Without quotas	Yes.	Exports require an export license. Only exporters registered with the Ministry of Commerce and Tourism may obtain these licenses, which are granted automatically in most cases and are for statistical purposes. No products are reserved for exportation by the public sector.
With quotas	No.
Export taxes	Yes.	Cashew nut exports, except to ECOWAS countries, are subject to a special export tax of 6% and advance payment of the industrial contribution levy of 3%; an additional 2% charged on cashew exports is classified as a rural property tax. Other agricultural exports are subject to an agricultural fee of 2%.
Collected through the exchange system	No.
Other export taxes	Yes.	There is an individual processing fee of 1%.

Payments for Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Controls on these transfers	Yes.	Payments and transfers for current transactions with WAEMU and non-WAEMU countries may be made freely through authorized intermediaries. Transfers exceeding CFAF 500,000 are subject to documentary requirements. Payments and receipts of foreign ships on stopovers in WAEMU countries or by WAEMU ships abroad are considered current transactions.
Trade-related payments	Yes.
Quantitative limits	No.
Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	Payments abroad relating to freight and insurance (including transfers of insurance not related to commercial transactions), unloading and warehousing costs, administrative costs, commissions, and customs duties and fees are permitted in general, subject to the presentation of supporting documentation to the authorized intermediary.
Investment-related payments	Yes.
Prior approval	Yes.	Payments for depreciation of direct investments require MOF authorization, because this type of depreciation is not specifically mentioned in the legislation.
Quantitative limits	No.
Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	Outward transfers of proceeds from the liquidation of investments may be made by authorized banks, subject to presentation of supporting documents.
Payments for travel	Yes.
Quantitative limits	Yes.	Residents traveling for tourism or business purposes to non-WAEMU countries may take out banknotes other than CFA franc notes up to the equivalent of CFAF 2 million a person; larger amounts may be taken out in the form of traveler's checks, certified checks, or other means of payment. The limit is applied to each trip.

Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	Resident travelers must present a travel document and a valid passport or a national identity card to an AD (authorized intermediary bank or exchange bureau) before foreign exchange will be issued.
Personal payments	Yes.
Prior approval	Yes.	Approval is required for payment of family maintenance expenses abroad.
Quantitative limits	No.
Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	All personal payments may be conducted through an authorized bank, subject to presentation of supporting documents. Payments abroad relating to pensions and benefits resulting from an employment contract, education costs, family maintenance, and alimony may be executed freely on presentation of documentation.
Foreign workers' wages	Yes.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be repatriated.
Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	Yes.	Holdings exceeding the current needs of the credit institution must be surrendered to the BCEAO immediately. Credit institutions may hold net claims in foreign exchange with their banking correspondents outside the WAEMU to cover their current foreign exchange requirements in connection with customer transactions. In addition, ADs must surrender to the BCEAO, at its request, all BCEAO-issued currency and all or part of their assets in euros and in other foreign currencies.

GUINEA-BISSAU

Surrender to authorized dealers	Yes.	All proceeds from invisible transactions with non-WAEMU countries must be surrendered to an AD within one month of the due date of payment. On their return to Guinea-Bissau, resident travelers must file a customs declaration for all means of payment greater than CFAF 300,000 and surrender them to a registered bank or to the BCEAO no later than one week after their return.
--	------	--

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions	Yes.	Capital transactions between WAEMU countries are unrestricted. Outward capital transfers require MOF authorization, except in the case of (1) amortization of debts and repayment of short-term loans granted to finance industrial and commercial operations; (2) payments for the purchase of options; and (3) transfers of the proceeds of liquidated investments or the sale of foreign securities by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone. Capital receipts from non-WAEMU countries, however, are generally permitted.
---	------	--

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of investments of a resident abroad must be repatriated, if the resident has no reinvestment authorization, within one month through an authorized intermediary.
---------------------------	------	--

Surrender to authorized dealers	Yes.	Proceeds from the sale or liquidation of investments of a resident abroad must be repatriated and surrendered to an AD within one month, if the resident has no reinvestment authorization. The surrender requirement applies to proceeds from all capital transactions.
---------------------------------	------	--

Controls on capital and money market instruments	Yes.	RCPSFM (Regional Council on Public Savings and Financial Markets) authorization is required for the following operations: (1) issuance or marketing of securities and real assets of foreign entities, (2) canvassing, and (3) publicity or advertising for investment abroad. Securities and mutual funds issued outside the WAEMU by a private or public entity that is not a resident of a member country may not be listed on a regional securities exchange. Soliciting the public of the WAEMU by nonresident entities is subject to authorization by the BCEAO in its capacity as the authority responsible for regulating the external financial relations of WAEMU countries. The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.

On capital market securities	Yes.	The CIMA Code requires insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest domestically a minimum of 50% of resources collected locally, with the remainder to be invested only in other CIMA member countries.
-------------------------------------	------	---

Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
--	------	--

Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Purchases in the country by nonresidents of the WAEMU zone are unrestricted. However, these purchases must be declared to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate and foreign securities by nonresidents are subject to RCPSFM authorization. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment by means of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. Settlement of securities transactions by transfer abroad or by credit to a nonresident account requires MOF approval of an exchange authorization and supporting documentation.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The purchase of foreign securities by residents and the transfer abroad of funds for this purpose are subject to MOF authorization. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM. The CIMA Code of the CFA franc area member countries does not allow insurance companies to invest abroad.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	No.	Residents may sell local corporate securities abroad. If these operations result in foreign control of resident entities, foreign investors must declare them to the MEF. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad is subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. Residents may issue securities abroad, unless the securities constitute a loan. Issuance of the latter to nonresidents must be made through an authorized bank and must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes.
Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	These purchases are subject to declaration to the MOF for statistical purposes. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. There is no minimum holding period.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance of securities and the sale of corporate or foreign securities by nonresidents are subject to authorization from RCPSFM. There are no controls on the sale of securities resulting from the divestiture of investment in the form of a transfer between a nonresident and a resident, but such sales are subject to the regulations governing the financial settlement of the operation. If these operations result in foreign control of domestic establishments, foreign investors must declare them to the MOF. The sale of securities to liquidate an investment abroad must be declared to the MOF for statistical purposes.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial and financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Foreign exchange derivatives can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial and financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Foreign exchange derivatives can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Residents of the WAEMU zone may hedge risk using foreign exchange derivatives for the following commercial and financial operations: (1) imports and exports of goods and services; (2) foreign borrowing operations by a resident (drawings and repayments); and (3) negotiation of FDI in a resident enterprise. Foreign exchange derivatives can only relate to the purchase or sale, by a resident, of foreign exchange other than the euro or another currency from the Franc Zone.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	These instruments are subject to general regulations that apply to securities and investments. Residents of the WAEMU zone may freely purchase abroad or from nonresidents of the WAEMU zone call or put options on primary commodities or securities transactions. Residents of the WAEMU zone may not purchase commodities or securities in foreign markets to be delivered in complying with a put option contract. Put options must be placed on assets that can be acquired locally by the resident seller for delivery abroad in execution of the contract. Residents of the WAEMU zone are permitted to purchase foreign currency purchase options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAEMU or from a foreign credit institution.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Residents are permitted to purchase foreign currency sell options on the foreign exchange derivatives market from an authorized intermediary bank established in the WAEMU or from a foreign (that is, nonresident of WAEMU) credit institution.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.	Borrowing by residents from nonresidents must be conducted through authorized intermediaries (whenever borrowed funds are made available for use in the country), unless otherwise indicated by the MOF.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally conducted without prior authorization, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered, as well as the payment due date, to the licensed intermediary bank responsible for handling the repayment.
To residents from nonresidents	No.	There are no controls, and repayments of commercial credits are generally approved by the BCEAO, subject to the presentation of documents attesting to the validity of the commercial operation or of the services rendered as well as the payment due date.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	These credits require MOF approval. Outward transfers necessary to service such facilities require an exchange authorization, subject to approval by the BCEAO acting on behalf of the MOF and substantiated by documentation.
To residents from nonresidents	No.	There are no controls on these credits, but they must be reported for statistical purposes to the MOF and the BCEAO when granted and when repaid, except for the following credits: (1) mail overdrafts: CFA franc overdrafts for durations not to exceed the normal mail delivery times; (2) LCs available by acceptance, issued to exporters at the request of the authorized intermediaries' foreign correspondent banks; and (3) credit provided pursuant to a financial agreement between a WAEMU member country and a foreign government or pursuant to an interbank arrangement approved by the Directorate of External Finance. The necessary funds must be transferred from abroad through an authorized agent. There are no controls on repayment of loans, provided the authorized agent handling the settlement is furnished with documentation attesting to the validity of the transaction. Borrowing abroad is unrestricted.

By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	The granting of guarantees and sureties is subject to MOF approval. Transfers abroad of funds to service these facilities require the issuance of an exchange authorization, subject to MOF approval, and the submission of supporting documents.
To residents from nonresidents	No.	These facilities may be granted freely, although the funds required for servicing them must be transferred abroad by an authorized bank. If, however, these transactions take place between a resident direct investment company and its parent company located abroad, they are considered to be direct investments and therefore require declaration to the MEF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.
Controls on direct investment	Yes.	Direct investment implies control of a company or enterprise. Mere participation is not considered direct investment, unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of a company whose shares are quoted on a stock exchange. All investment outside of WAEMU by residents of the WAEMU, including investment through foreign companies under the direct or indirect control of WAEMU residents and investment by foreign branches or subsidiaries of companies established in a WAEMU member country, requires MEF authorization.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	All investment abroad by residents is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for purchases of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	FDI, including by resident companies that are directly or indirectly under foreign control and by branches or subsidiaries of foreign companies, must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes. An equity holding is not considered a direct investment unless it exceeds 10% of the capital of the company in question.
Controls on liquidation of direct investment	No.	The liquidation of investments abroad must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes. Reinvestment of the liquidation proceeds is subject to MOF authorization. If reinvestment is not authorized, the liquidation proceeds must be repatriated within one month through an authorized intermediary. The sale of foreign investments by nonresidents is unrestricted but must be reported to the MOF and the CB for statistical purposes.
Controls on real estate transactions	Yes.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	These purchases require MOF authorization.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Purchases for purposes other than direct investment in a business, branch, or company are allowed, but they must be reported to the MOF for statistical purposes.
Sale locally by nonresidents	No.	Sales by nonresidents to residents require the submission of supporting documentation from the authorized intermediary that handles the settlement and must be declared to the MOF and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.
Controls on personal capital transactions	Yes.	Personal capital transactions between residents and nonresidents must be made through the BCEAO, the postal administration, or an authorized intermediary bank, unless authorization is obtained from the MOF.
Loans	Yes.	The regulations governing securities and investments apply.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	These transactions require MOF authorization. The individuals concerned may not engage in such operations as a professional occupation without first being licensed and included on the list of approved financial institutions.

To residents from nonresidents	No.	These transactions may be made freely, but must be declared for statistical purposes to the MOF when granted and when repaid.
Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Inheritances and dowries are generally allowed. Gifts and endowments, however, are subject to MOF and BCEAO authorization. These transactions must be conducted through an authorized intermediary and comply with the relevant anti-money-laundering and terrorism financing provisions.
To residents from nonresidents	No.	These transactions do not require authorization but are subject to declaration to the minister of finance and the BCEAO for statistical purposes.
Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants	Yes.	Immigrants who have received resident status must obtain MOF authorization to settle debts contracted abroad while they were nonresidents.
Transfer of assets	Yes.
Transfer abroad by emigrants	Yes.	These transactions are subject to MOF authorization if the value exceeds CFAF 500,000 a person. There are no restrictions on transfers of amounts below this threshold.
Transfer into the country by immigrants	Yes.	Foreign accounts (in foreign currencies or CFA francs) of nonresidents who become residents must be closed. However, these individuals may maintain abroad bank accounts opened and financial assets acquired while they were nonresidents. New transfers to these accounts require MOF approval.
Transfer of gambling and prize earnings	Yes.	These transfers are conducted freely through authorized intermediaries, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions on combating money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	The Uniform Law on the Treatment of Dormant Accounts on the Books of Financial Agencies of the Member States of the WAMU by the Council of Ministers of the Union took effect September 28, 2012. Decision No. CM/UMOA/023/2012 sets the deadline (December 31, 2013) for including this law in the domestic legislation of the WAMU members. It remains to be confirmed that this regulation was incorporated into Guinea-Bissau's legislation.
Borrowing abroad	No.	Loans abroad are unrestricted. For statistical purposes, these transactions must be declared to the MOF when they are granted and when they are repaid.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	Yes.	Banks and financial institutions are authorized to open accounts with their correspondent banks for settling transactions for their own account or the accounts of their customers. However, banks are not authorized to hold in these accounts amounts that exceed their current requirements. A bank's current requirement is calculated in relation to its equity and takes account of its history of fund movements abroad. The amount is used to meet the bank's short-term cash needs.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	Commercial lending is allowed. Financial credits are subject to MOF authorization, after BCEAO approval.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	There are no explicit regulations regarding these transactions, but MOF authorization and BCEAO approval are required.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	These purchases require RCPSFM authorization, after MOF approval.

GUINEA-BISSAU

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	No.	A reserve requirement of 3% applies to WAEMU banks. Demand deposits, other deposit accounts, and loan accounts are included in the base for the calculation of the required reserves. The base for the calculation of the required reserves to be held with the CB includes customer foreign currency deposits.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Credit controls	Yes.	Loans of any kind, CFA franc overdrafts, and, in general, all advances granted to nonresidents are subject to MOF authorization, after BCEAO approval. These claims are included in the external position of banks and financial institutions, which is subject to special monitoring.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	Yes.	Banking regulations make no distinction among resident accounts, nonresident accounts, and foreign currency deposit accounts.
Reserve requirements	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Credit controls	Yes.	Overdrafts and advances granted to nonresidents require MOF authorization and BCEAO approval.
Investment regulations	Yes.	The regulations governing direct investment apply.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	All investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MOF authorization. At least 75% of such investment must be financed by foreign loans. Authorization is not required for the purchase of foreign securities whose issuance or offering for sale in the WAEMU countries has been authorized by the RCPSFM.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	These transactions may require MOF authorization, depending on their volume. The banking law stipulates that investment by any person in a bank that would have the effect of changing the minority and/or majority voting rights requires MOF authorization.
Open foreign exchange position limits	No.	No prudential ratios apply. Because of the surrender requirement, banks are not allowed to maintain open foreign exchange positions. However, the BCEAO grants individual dispensations that allow banks to keep working balances in their correspondent accounts for the smooth completion of international payments, up to the equivalent of 5% of total customer demand deposits. To cover their foreign currency requirements, banks are authorized to hold in banking institutions located in non-WAEMU countries: (1) demand deposits that may not exceed the total amount of import payments domiciled by clients in their books, payable within a period of eight days, and (2) demand deposits that may not exceed the balance of their open foreign accounts denominated in foreign currencies other than the euro and their open resident accounts denominated in foreign currency.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	No.
Insurance companies	Yes.	Controls are imposed by the CIMA Code.

GUINEA-BISSAU

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	The CIMA Code allows insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest up to 50% of resources collected locally in other CIMA member countries.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	The CIMA Code allows insurance companies of each CIMA member country to invest up to 50% of resources collected locally in other CIMA member countries.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	According to the CIMA Code, a minimum of 50% of resources collected by insurance companies in a CIMA member country must be invested locally.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	The CIMA Code specifies that liabilities in a given currency must be covered by assets denominated in the same currency.
Pension funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance, presentation, and floating of securities of any kind by foreign governments, local authorities, foreign companies, or international institutions are subject to authorization by the RCPSFM.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	With the exception of foreign securities issued or sold with RCPSFM authorization in WAEMU member countries, all investment abroad by residents of the WAEMU zone is subject to MEF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance, presentation, and floating of securities of any kind from foreign governments, local authorities, foreign companies, or international institutions are subject to RCPSFM authorization.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	With the exception of foreign securities issued or sold in WAEMU member countries with RCPSFM authorization, all investment abroad by WAEMU residents is subject to MEF authorization and must be at least 75% financed with foreign borrowing.

Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The exchange rate of the Guyanese dollar is determined in the foreign exchange market. The Bank of Guyana (BOG) periodically purchases foreign currency from foreign exchange dealers to maintain international reserves at acceptable levels. In accordance with bilateral agreements with the CARICOM CBs, the BOG quotes weekly rates for certain CARICOM currencies. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement.

 The CB publishes interventions on a monthly basis on the BOG website – “Statistical Abstract Reports Table 2.16 (a).” These data are published on a one-month lag.

Spot exchange market	Yes.	In addition to transactions between ADs and their clients, a significant share of foreign exchange transactions takes place between the BOG and public entities with large export earnings. To reduce segmentation and facilitate price discovery, the authorities recently moved some official transactions to the foreign exchange market. Transactions between foreign exchange dealers and their customers represent a smaller share of the foreign exchange market and include conversion of remittances to people without bank accounts. All commercial banks have cambios; however, not all nonbank financial institutions are cambios. As of December 31, 2020, 13 nonbank financial institutions and 6 commercial banks were licensed to deal in foreign currency. The BOG grants licenses after consultation with the minister of finance. Nonbank foreign exchange dealers may sell specified CARICOM currencies to the CB; their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes and traveler's checks. These institutions may have accounts abroad. There is a cap on the bid-ask spread of G$1.50 for wires and G$3.00 for cash. This is applicable to all transactions conducted by both the bank and nonbank cambios with their customers.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The BOG conducts its transactions on the basis of the foreign exchange rate obtained by periodically averaging quotes from the three largest dealers. In response to heightened pressure resulting from seasonal factors, the BOG on occasion intervenes in the foreign exchange market.

Allocation	Yes.	The BOG exercises discretion with regard to its purchases of foreign exchange from exports of sugar and gold by the Guyana Sugar Corporation (GuySuCo, the government-owned sugar company) and the Gold Board and uses a “hard currency budget” for official transactions.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Banks may trade with each other freely. There are six commercial banks, but the interbank market has not been very active. Direct BOG intervention in the market is rare. The BOG occasionally processes requests from commercial banks for the sale of foreign currency at the average market rate. Interbank trades are infrequent, and the volume is insignificant. The market does not operate on a commission basis nor does the cap on the bid-ask spread apply to interbank transactions. During 2020, four commercial banks participated in the inter-bank market.
Over the counter	Yes.	Interbank transactions take place over the counter.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	No.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	No.
Other security restrictions	No.

Currency	Yes.	The currency of Haiti is the Haitian gourde.
Other legal tender	Yes.	The US dollar circulates freely and is generally accepted in Haiti. Several gold coins have been issued that are legal tender but do not circulate.

No separate legal tender
Currency board
Conventional peg
Stabilized arrangement
Crawling peg
Crawl-like arrangement
Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
Other managed arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The Bank of the Republic of Haiti (BRH) intervenes in the foreign exchange market to avoid excessive volatility. From December 2019, the exchange rate increased its flexibility while still being managed. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to other managed from crawl-like, effective December 11, 2019. The BRH publishes information on foreign exchange interventions monthly on its website after two months.

Floating

Free floating

Yes.

The reference rate is officially used by banks to convert US dollar amounts to gourdes on their books and in their financial statements and other reports. The CB does this to prevent banks from using different rates for the same date. As a result, financial and nonfinancial institutions have used this rate for their exchange transactions. The reference rate is published daily on the BRH website.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	Although base money is an indicative target for monetary policy, the CB looks at exchange rate movements (given the high pass-through to inflation), liquidity conditions, and growth.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The Haitian foreign exchange market is divided into a formal and an informal sector. According to an estimate by the CB, the global volume of transactions is divided up as follows: 60% is traded in the formal sector and 40% in the informal sector. Thus, the average rate used in the banking system and the average rate in the informal market are weighted by their sector weights to calculate the reference rate. Recognizing the need for a better calculation of the reference rate, the informal sector will be marginalized by the introduction of foreign exchange bureaus. The addition of foreign exchange bureaus will be a positive development to better capture transactions in the foreign exchange market.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	The BRH operates a US dollar clearinghouse mainly for checks drawn on local banks. Commercial banks quote buying and selling rates for certain other currencies based on the buying and selling rates of the US dollar for those currencies in exchange markets abroad. The market is dominated by banks, followed by money changers. According to the monetary authorities, all banks and certain nonbank financial institutions may conduct foreign exchange transactions. Foreign exchange bureaus must obtain licenses, following a process coordinated by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry (MCI), CB, and the Ministry of Economy and Finance. Authorized foreign exchange bureaus may conduct foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB. These bureaus may not hold accounts abroad and may not make foreign currency payments or transfers on behalf of their clients.
Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The CB buys and sells foreign exchange. Interventions are made in an effort to contain exchange rate fluctuations, to supply the market and build up reserves.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.
Allocation	No.	The CB does not allocate foreign exchange to finance-specific transactions. However, the CB pays oil bills on behalf of the MOF.

HAITI

Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Banks trade among themselves on a small scale; the interbank market is not well developed. The CB may intervene directly with banks. In case of sales or purchases of foreign currency, the CB does not intervene via market makers. The CB has issued licenses to eight commercial banks, all of which are active in the foreign exchange market.

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Classification

Other managed arrangement	01/01/2020	From December 2019, the exchange rate increased its flexibility while still being managed. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified retroactively to other managed from crawl-like, effective December 11, 2019. The change is reflected as of January 1, 2020, corresponding to the first day of the period covered in this year's Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	08/27/2020	Any deposit of or above 1,100,000 gourdes (previously 400,000 gourdes) or the equivalent in foreign currency requires a certificate of origin of funds.

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the Second Reviews Under the Stand-by Arrangement and the Arrangement Under the Standby Credit Facility, Requests for Augmentation and Rephasing of Access, and Modification of Performance Criteria with Honduras referencing the 2019 Article IV Consultation and Request for a Stand-By Arrangement and an Arrangement under the Standby Credit Facility with Honduras (Country Report No. 19/236), states that, as of June 1, 2020, Honduras maintained two multiple currency practices subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3: One MCP arises because there is no mechanism to prevent a potential deviation of more than 2% between the Reference Exchange Rate (TCR) of the day at which certain transactions take place and the exchange rates at which foreign exchange is sold at the foreign exchange auction or the foreign exchange interbank market at that day. A second MCP arises from the possible use of previous days' official exchange rates (TCR) in certain exchange rate transactions (for example, in foreign exchange sales by ADs to the Central Bank of Honduras (BCH) of amounts bought from customers or amounts that exceed the limits set by the BCH for such dealers) which rates may potentially deviate by more than 2% from the TCR and the interbank market rate on the day when foreign exchange rate transactions take place. Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is a crawling band. The TCR is calculated as the weighted average by amounts of the prices that result from the event of the day in the Mercado Interbancario de Divisas (MID) and the TCR of the day of the currencies retained by the exchange agents for the payment of own expenses, sale in the MID and direct sale to the clients of the private sector. The prices of the offers for the purchase and sale of foreign currency presented in the MID must be comprised in an exchange bank of 1% above and below the center of the exchange bank, which will be made up of the average of the base price used in the last seven (7) events of the MID plus the average of the absolute variation of the current TCR of the day with respect to that of the previous business day of the previous seven (7) business days. The base price will be calculated every five (5) MID events taking into consideration: (1) the differential between the domestic and external inflation rate; the external inflation rate is defined as the weighted average estimated inflation rates of Honduras's key trading partners; and domestic inflation will be measured with the CPI. The inflation differential will be determined by comparing the year-on-year change in the CPI recorded during the past month with external inflation weighted to reflect the external trade structure, to be subject to periodic review; (2) the nominal effective exchange rate index, that is, changes in the exchange rate of the key trading partners against the US dollar; and (3) international reserve coverage, number of months of imports covered by the official reserve assets of the BCH. The BCH publishes the results of the foreign exchange trading carried out on the MID on a daily basis at its website. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is a crawling peg arrangement.

Yes. Effective June 14, 2021, the BCH through Agreement No. 06/2021 issued on June 3, 2021, establishes that the TCR corresponds to the weighted average by price amounts that result from the event of the day in the MID and the TCR of the day of the currencies withheld by the exchange agents for the payment of their own expenses and direct sale to the clients of the private sector. Previously, effective January 6, 2020, the official or TCR was defined as the weighted average (by amounts) of the prices from the last foreign exchange auction, from the last interbank foreign exchange market (MID) event, and the TCR of the day of the foreign currencies held by the banks, for the payment of their own expenses and direct sales to private sector clients. Previous to that, the prices registered in the Electronic Foreign Exchange Trading System (SENDI) were part of the calculation of the TCR.

Spot exchange market	Yes.	Any individual or legal entity that is not a foreign exchange dealer may hold foreign exchange assets but may sell them only to the BCH or ADs. The BCH and ADs must buy foreign exchange at the TCR. The only institutions eligible to participate in electronic foreign exchange auctions are banks in the financial system (15), savings and loan associations (none), and exchange bureaus (1), this number of exchange agents remains accurate. Under the law and regulations, exchange bureaus may purchase the foreign exchange received by the private sector from any source, except what by law or resolution of the BCH board of directors must be traded in the domestic financial system. Exchange bureaus may sell foreign exchange for outward payments. To that end, they may manage deposit accounts abroad with first-class institutions. The average weighted exchange rate (TCPP) of the bids registered in the MID is part of the calculations to determine the TCR, and the maximum commission charged for the purchase is, effective June 14, 2021, 0.3% of the price offered by the banks in the MID (0.3% for the selling bank). Previously, the maximum commission charged for the purchase was 0.4% of the price offered by the banks in the MID (0.1% for the BCH and 0.3% for the selling bank). To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	The Law on Strengthening Income, Social Equity, and Rationalization of Government Expenditure states that all public sector external debt must be approved by the National Congress of Honduras.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	According to the Investment Promotion and Protection Law, foreign investors are entitled to access financial system credit. Furthermore, under the Law on the Financial System, BCH authorization is required to grant loans to individuals or legal entities domiciled abroad, except in the case of loans to Honduran citizens for the purchase of land, construction, or the purchase or improvement of housing in Honduras.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Article 46 of the Law on the Financial System states that financial institutions may contract loans or obligations with financial institutions abroad. In the Organic Budget Law, the public debt policy sets the overall external public debt levels and the minimum acceptable grant component of foreign loans contracted by the government. In addition, the Law for Strengthening Income, Social Equity and Rationalization of Public Expenditure, indicates that the contracting of each new external debt must be carried out when the conditions offered in the market define a minimum concessionality element of 35% in terms of present value. However, without prejudice to the provisions of the aforementioned law, in the General Budget of Income and Expenditures of the Republic for Fiscal Year 2021 and in the Law of Aid to the Productive Sector and Workers, Before the Effects of the Pandemic Caused by the COVID-19, it is determined that external financing non-concessional debt may be contracted as long as the total foreign debt portfolio in force maintains a minimum weighted concessionality of 20%, effective April 3, 2020. The BCH Law establishes that when official or semi-official institutions plan to contract loans within Honduras or abroad, the MOF or the respective institutions will require a prior opinion from the board of directors.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	The BCH board of directors determines the currencies (US dollars, yen, euros, Swiss francs, yuan, sterling, Canadian dollars) in which institutions in the domestic financial system may accept deposits from the public; the supranational institutions in which they may invest; and the minimum requirements for the first-class foreign financial instruments and institutions in which national institutions may invest their resources in foreign currency deposit accounts. The interest rate for permanent investment facilities is the monetary policy rate minus 5.25 percentage points; the interest rate for permanent credit facilities is the monetary policy rate plus 1 percentage point (Resolution No. 333-7/2015).
Borrowing abroad	Yes.	Article 46 of the Law on the Financial System stipulates that financial institutions may contract loans and obligations with institutions in financial systems abroad.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	Yes.	The Regulation on management of foreign exchange deposit accounts stipulates that, to meet any additional reserve requirements that the BCH may establish, or to make investments with surplus resources from deposit accounts, depository institutions may open special accounts or make investments with first-tier foreign banks.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	BCH authorization is required for lending to individuals or legal entities domiciled abroad, except in the case of loans granted to Honduran citizens for the purchase of land, construction, and the purchase or improvement of housing in Honduras.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Prudential norms are applied by financial system institutions when lending in foreign currency. To that end, they classify borrowers in the following categories: generators and nongenerators of foreign exchange. Institutions authorized to grant foreign currency loans must have policies and procedures in place for evaluating the credit and liquidity risk of borrowers classified in the aforementioned

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	The Regulation on Trading in Government Securities authorized the BCH to issue foreign-currency-denominated securities (foreign-currency-denominated paper), which may be purchased by financial system institutions.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	For authorized financial institutions the reserve requirement, which must be held in demand deposits in the BCH, for foreign currency and mandatory investment of all their foreign currency liabilities is 12%. Resources that financial system institutions obtain through international loans or in the form of loans or deposits from other institutions subject to the reserve requirement are exempt from this requirement. Financial system institutions may also issue foreign currency treasury bills, which are subject to the reserve requirement. Institutions in the financial system may not offset deficits in their reserve requirements, as established by the BCH board of directors. Likewise, no offsetting is allowed in case of noncompliance with the mandatory investment requirement. The foreign currency reserve requirement is composed entirely of demand deposits at the BCH and must be maintained at a minimum daily amount equivalent to 80%.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The additional reserve requirement for liquid investments in first-class foreign financial institutions is set at 0%. Similarly, domestic depository institutions that are Bladex shareholders may maintain investments there up to 5% of their total foreign currency investments.
Interest rate controls	No.	The interest rates applied by financial system institutions in their transactions are determined on the basis of prevailing market conditions. However, the BCH may regulate them if necessary. Mandatory foreign currency investments must be deposited in the BCH; the balances on these investment accounts are remunerated at the annual equivalent of the fortnightly (catorcenal) average of the one-month London Interbank Bid Rate (LIBID). In accordance with the Law on Credit Cards, credit card interest rates are established and regulated by the BCH, if there is no guarantee of free competition in the sector, on the basis of a report issued by the Commission for the Defense and Promotion of Competition.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.
Reserve requirements	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Investment regulations	Yes.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	Investments abroad by depository institutions pursuant to the Regulation on the management of deposit accounts in foreign exchange may only be held only in (1) demand, overnight, and term deposits; CDs; bankers' acceptances, and other instruments issued by foreign first-tier foreign banks or financial institutions; (2) bills, notes, and bonds and other instruments issued and guaranteed by a government; (3) negotiable instruments of government agencies and other public entities or financial institutions guaranteed by governments or government institutions; (4) deposits, notes, and fixed-income bonds issued by supranational financial institutions; and (5) money market MFs, having maturities not exceeding one year. Specified investments must meet the requirements and exposure limits authorized by the BCH. Investments in the “other instruments” mentioned in Item (1) may not exceed 5% of the depository institution’s total foreign currency deposits.

Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	Financial system institutions are subject to an asymmetric open position limit. The net open foreign exchange position for banks is up to 5% of their own funds for the short position and up to 20% of their own funds for the long position.
On resident assets and liabilities	Yes.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.
Insurance companies	Yes.	The BCH board of directors regulates the types of investments for insurance companies, the limits for each issuer, and the classification of asset categories.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Investment in mutual or investment funds established outside Honduras and in mutual or investment funds constituted in Honduras, whose assets are invested in foreign securities and in financial instruments that meet the minimum qualification, may not in total exceed 15% of total investment resources. Reserves corresponding to contracts or policies issued in foreign currency may be invested in their entirety in foreign first-class financial institutions. Investments abroad may not in total exceed 25% of investment resources, except as provided for in Article 88 of the Law on Insurance and Reinsurance Institutions.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Investments held abroad may not in total exceed 25% of investment resources.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.	Investments in domestic instruments are governed by Article 3 of the Regulation on Investments by Insurance Companies.
Pension funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to Article 42(e) of Decree No. 17-2017, investments in securities issued by foreign enterprises, institutions, and governments are allowed up to 10% of the fund resources with the possibility of increasing up to an additional 10% with the prior approval of the CNBS.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Pension funds may not invest more than 5% of their resources in assets abroad, pursuant to the Regulation on the Investment of Government Pension Funds by Provident Institutions.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	Investments in instruments issued by domestic institutions are governed by the provisions of Articles 42 and 43 of Decree No. 17-2017 of the Regulation on the Investment of Government Pension Funds by Provident Institutions.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.	There are no collective investment funds in Honduras. However, the Law on the Stock Market and the Regulation on Fund Management Companies regulate the functioning and operations of MFs, investment funds, and fund management companies.

HONDURAS

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.	Article 128 of the Law on the Stock Market states that these investment funds may hold deposits in banks abroad as well as in self-issued instruments of such banks issued abroad, in keeping with the provisions established by the CNBS.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	Investment funds must hold at least 50% of their investments in securities guaranteed by the government, the BCH, or authorized financial system institutions and must not hold more than 15% of the subscribed and paid-up capital of any one company or more than 25% of the issued securities guaranteed by the same economic grouping (Article 106 of the Law on the Stock Market).
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.	The Law on the Stock Market and the Regulation on Fund Management Companies do not contain any articles on this issue.

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Exchange Arrangement

Official exchange rate	01/06/2020	The official or reference exchange rate (TCR) was defined as the weighted average (by amounts) of the prices from the last foreign exchange auction, from the last interbank foreign exchange market (Mercado Interbancario de Divisas) event, and the TCR of the day of the foreign currencies held by the banks, for the payment of their own expenses and direct sales to private sector clients. Previously, the prices registered in the Electronic Foreign Exchange Trading System were part of the calculation of the TCR.
	06/14/2021	The Central Bank of Honduras through Agreement No. 06/2021 issued on June 3, 2021, establishes that the reference exchange rate (TCR) corresponds to the weighted average by price amounts that result from the event of the day in the Mercado Interbancario de Divisas and the TCR of the day of the currencies withheld by the exchange agents for the payment of their own expenses and direct sale to the clients of the private sector. Previously, effective January 6, 2020, the official or TCR was defined as the weighted average (by amounts) of the prices from the last foreign exchange auction, from the last interbank foreign exchange market (MID) event, and the TCR of the day of the foreign currencies held by the banks, for the payment of their own expenses and direct sales to private sector clients.
Foreign exchange market
Spot exchange market
Operated by the central bank
Auction	06/14/2021	Through the approval of Agreement Nos. 06/2021 and 7/2021, both on June 3, 2021, the Central Bank of Honduras suspended foreign currency auctions for the sale of foreign currency to natural and legal entities. Previously, foreign exchange auctions were held weekdays, excluding holidays.
Interbank market	06/14/2021	The maximum commission charged for the purchase is 0.3% of the price offered by the banks in the Mercado Interbancario de Divisas (MID) (0.3% for the selling bank). Previously, the maximum commission charged for the purchase was 0.4% of the price offered by the banks in the MID (0.1% for the Central Bank of Honduras and 0.3% for the selling bank).

Currency board	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement is a currency board. The currency board system in Hong Kong SAR, adopted October 17, 1983, requires that the monetary base be backed at least 100% by, and that changes in it be matched 100% by corresponding changes in, the reserve currency (US dollar) at a fixed exchange rate of HK$7.80 per US dollar. A symmetric convertibility zone of HK$7.75–HK$7.85—within which the Hong Kong Monetary Authority (HKMA) may choose to conduct market operations consistent with currency board principles—has been in place since May 18, 2005. The monetary base includes issued notes and coins, the balance at the HKMA of banks' clearing accounts (that is, the aggregate balance), and outstanding Exchange Fund Bills and Notes. Consistent with currency board principles, the HKMA may adjust the issuance sizes of Exchange Fund paper, and the program may expand along with the interest payments on such paper. The issuance and redemption of certificates of indebtedness, which back banknotes issued by note-issuing banks (NIBs), must be made against US dollars at a fixed exchange rate of HK$7.80 per US dollar. The issuance and withdrawal of government-issued notes and coins are settled against US dollars at the same fixed rate. The legal documents that establish the currency board include the Basic Law (Chapter V, Section 1, Articles 110 and 111); the Exchange Fund Ordinance (Chapter 66); and an exchange of letters between the Financial Secretary and the Monetary Authority specifying the monetary policy objective and the structure of the monetary system under the Exchange Fund Ordinance. The letters specify that the Financial Secretary is responsible for determining the monetary policy objective and the structure of the monetary system, including the linked exchange rate. Section 3(1) of the ordinance, as amended, specifies that the Exchange Fund “must be under the control of the Financial Secretary and must be used primarily for such purposes as the financial secretary thinks fit affecting, either directly or indirectly, the exchange value of the currency of Hong Kong SAR and for other purposes incidental thereto.” The HKMA is responsible for achieving the monetary policy objective, including determining the strategy, instruments, and operational means for doing so, and for maintaining the stability and integrity of the monetary system. The HKMA makes prompt announcements of the impact on the aggregate balance arising from purchases or sales of US dollars by the currency board via various information vendors, including Reuters and Bloomberg. The information is also available on the HKMA website.

Official exchange rate

Yes. The official exchange rate is set at HK$7.80 per US dollar. The issuance and redemption of certificates of indebtedness, which back banknotes issued by NIBs, must be against US dollars at the official exchange rate of HK$7.80 per US dollar. The issuance and withdrawal of government-issued notes and coins are settled against US dollars at the same rate. In accordance with the accounting principles generally accepted in Hong Kong SAR, prevailing exchange rates on the balance sheet date are used for accounting and valuation purposes.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks are free to set their exchange rates, including bid-ask spreads, and commissions in transactions with their clients. Apart from commercial banks, money service operators (namely remittance agents and money changers) may also conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Authorized institutions (AIs) are not required to obtain a separate license to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the public. They may enter into foreign exchange transactions in the interbank market on their own account or on behalf of their clients. AIs, which maintain a Hong Kong dollar clearing account within the real-time gross settlement system, are eligible for transactions with the HKMA under the currency board arrangement. Money service operators (formerly known as remittance agents and money changers) must obtain a license from the commissioner of customs and excise. As of June 30, 2021, there were 834 licensed money service operators in Hong Kong SAR. They are subject to regulatory requirements under the Anti-Money-Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing (Financial Institutions) Ordinance.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The HKMA redeems certificates of indebtedness acquired by NIBs in compensation for banknotes on demand and at a fixed exchange rate of HK$7.80 per US dollar. The spot exchange rate has fluctuated within the convertibility zone of HK$7.75–HK$7.85 since May 18, 2005. The HKMA operates convertibility commitments on both the strong side and the weak side of the linked rate of HK$7.80. Under the strong-side convertibility commitment, the HKMA buys US dollars from licensed banks at HK$7.75; under the weak-side convertibility commitment, it sells US dollars at HK$7.85.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	There are no official limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants. No separate licenses are required for AIs to participate in the foreign exchange market. In addition to AIs, other financial institutions operating in Hong Kong SAR or overseas may participate in the interbank market. As of July 31, 2021, there were 189 AIs in Hong Kong SAR, including 161 licensed banks, 16 restricted license banks, and 12 deposit-taking companies. The HKMA may conduct discretionary foreign exchange operations consistent with currency board principles within the convertibility zone. These are normal foreign exchange transactions consistent with the currency board principles. The HKMA makes prompt announcements of the impact on the aggregate balance arising from these transactions via various information vendors, including Reuters and Bloomberg. The information is also available on the HKMA website. The interbank foreign exchange market operates on an OTC basis as well as a brokerage system. The HKMA does not designate any market makers. Prices are determined by market dynamics.
Over the counter	Yes.	AIs enter into foreign exchange transactions in the interbank market by phone or some other electronic trading means. They deal with each other based on credit lines that these AIs extend among themselves. Such deals may be done on their own account or on behalf of their clients, such as major corporations, hedge funds, CBs, and high net worth individuals. There is no centralized system to regulate such trades.

Brokerage	Yes.	The brokerage systems in Hong Kong SAR operate on private sector initiatives. Deals are done via phone or electronic networks (such as Electronic Broking Services, Reuters Matching). Money brokers operating in Hong Kong SAR must acquire approval from the HKMA. As of July 31, 2021, there were 31 approved money brokers in Hong Kong SAR.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The forward exchange markets operate on private sector initiatives, and the government has no official role. The HKMA does not intervene in the forward foreign exchange market.

The disclosure and position limits are also stipulated in the subsidiary legislation. The position limits for Hang Seng Index and Hang Seng China Enterprises Index futures and options contracts are determined at a combined delta limit of 10,000 and 12,000 contracts, respectively. Market participants may apply for an excess position limit for Hang Seng Index and Hang Seng China Enterprises Index futures and options contracts. The excess limit was increased to 300%, bringing more flexibility into the existing position limit regime by enabling the Securities and Futures Commission to authorize exchange participants or their affiliates, as well as asset managers to exceed the statutory position limits for Hang Seng Index and Hang Seng China Enterprises Index futures and options contracts to meet their specific business needs as set out in the subsidiary legislation.

Unless otherwise specified in the Stamp Duty Ordinance (Cap 117), residential properties acquired on or after October 27, 2012, by any person except a Hong Kong Permanent Resident (HKPR) acting on his or her own behalf are subject to Buyer's Stamp Duty at a flat rate of 15%. Unless otherwise specified in the Stamp Duty Ordinance, residential properties acquired from February 23, 2013, to November 4, 2016, are subject to Doubled Ad Valorem Stamp Duty (that is, ad valorem stamp duty at the then Scale 1 (which was later rearranged as Part 2 of Scale 1 following the introduction of New Residential Stamp Duty) of the First Schedule to the Stamp Duty Ordinance), except for those residential properties acquired by a HKPR acting on his or her own behalf and does not own any other residential property in Hong Kong SAR at the time of acquisition. For the latter scenario, ad valorem stamp duty at Scale 2 of the First Schedule to the Stamp Duty Ordinance (that is, the original stamp duty rate before the introduction of Doubled Ad Valorem Stamp Duty) will apply. Unless otherwise specified in the Stamp Duty Ordinance, residential properties acquired on or after November 5, 2016, are subject to the New Residential Stamp Duty at a flat rate of 15%, except for those residential properties acquired by a HKPR acting on his or her own behalf and does not own any other residential property in Hong Kong SAR at the time of acquisition. For the latter scenario, ad valorem stamp duty at Scale 2 of the First Schedule to the Stamp Duty Ordinance will continue to apply. Nonresidential properties acquired on or after November 5, 2016, are not affected and continue to be subject to Doubled Ad Valorem Stamp Duty. ### Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	The limits and restrictions stated below are set by the HKMA for prudential reasons only.
Borrowing abroad	No.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	Yes.	The HKMA may prohibit AIs from maintaining accounts (including for the purpose of granting loans and credits) with foreign banks if transactions conducted through these accounts are not made in the interest of the depositors of these institutions.
		This restriction is only intended to be applied under an extreme situation and is not a general restriction.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	AIs incorporated in Hong Kong SAR may extend loans and credit facilities to a single customer group up to 25% of their Tier 1 capital. This limit also governs other financial exposures, including securities issued by the company.
		This is a general large exposure limit which is not designed as a special restriction for nonresidents.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	AIs incorporated in Hong Kong SAR may extend loans and other credit facilities to a single customer group (irrespective of the currency) up to 25% of their Tier 1 capital. This limit also governs other financial exposures, including securities issued by the company.
		This is a general large exposure limit which is not designed as a special restriction on lending locally in foreign exchange.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	AIs incorporated in Hong Kong SAR may hold the securities of one company up to 25% of their Tier 1 capital. This limit also governs other financial exposures, including loans and other credit facilities extended to the company, irrespective of the currency.

This is a general large exposure limit which is not designed as a special restriction on purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Credit controls	No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.
Reserve requirements	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Investment regulations	Yes.	No distinction is made between local and overseas investments.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	AIs incorporated in Hong Kong SAR must not (1) establish or acquire an overseas banking subsidiary without the HKMA approval; (2) acquire share capital in a company worth more than 5% of the Tier 1 capital of the institution at the time of acquisition without the HKMA approval; (3) incur equity exposures in aggregate more than 25% of the Tier 1 capital of the institution (this restriction does not apply if the equity exposure in the form of share capital (a) is held as security for facilities granted; (b) was acquired through an underwriting or a sub-underwriting contract for a period not exceeding seven days; or (c) was acquired through debt satisfaction, in which case the share capital must be disposed of as soon as possible, but no later than 18 months after its acquisition); or (4) purchase or hold an interest in foreign or domestic land of an aggregate value exceeding 50% of the adjusted Tier 1 capital of the institution and purchase or hold interest in foreign or domestic land, other than for self-use, of an aggregate value exceeding 25% of the Tier 1 capital of the institution (these restrictions do not apply to (a) interest in land that was mortgaged to the institution to secure a debt or (b) interest in land acquired by the institution in the course of satisfaction of debts due to it, provided the interest is disposed of as soon as possible, but no later than 18 months after acquisition).
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	No person may become a majority shareholder controller, minority shareholder controller, or indirect controller of an AI incorporated in Hong Kong SAR without the HKMA approval. Any person who becomes such a controller must notify the HKMA within 14 days. Note-issuing activity is subject to review, and the license may be withdrawn if a foreign government or foreign-government-controlled entity holds 20% or more of the shares in a bank. This requirement is intended to prevent close association between NIBs and foreign sovereign controllers, which is a unique concern, because in Hong Kong SAR notes are issued by commercial banks rather than the CB. In most other countries, foreign investment is not allowed in this activity because the issuance of banknotes is the responsibility of the monetary authority. This condition affects only the issuance of notes and does not affect banks' other activities.

Open foreign exchange position limits	No.	AIs are expected to set internal limits on their open position in each foreign currency and their aggregate open position in all foreign currencies. No regulatory foreign exchange position limits have been set by the HKMA. However, the HKMA will review AIs' internal limits as part of its ongoing supervision. Locally incorporated AIs must provide justification to the HKMA if their aggregate open foreign exchange position limits are very large (for example, higher than 25% of their capital base). Foreign exchange limits of foreign banks' branches in Hong Kong SAR are monitored by their head offices centrally and home supervisory authorities centrally. However, a foreign bank's branches in Hong Kong SAR may be required to demonstrate the effectiveness of its risk management systems if its aggregate open foreign exchange position limit is higher than 5% of the bank's capital base. All AIs are required to report their foreign exchange positions as well as any breach of relevant internal limits to the HKMA on a monthly basis.
		The above benchmark thresholds are intended to facilitate the HKMA supervisory monitoring of AIs' foreign exchange risk and are not a general restriction.
On resident assets and liabilities	No.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	No.
Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	There is no minimum amount that insurers must hold in investments in locally issued securities. However, insurers carrying out general (or non-life) insurance business locally, other than as professional reinsurers or captive insurers, are required to maintain assets in Hong Kong SAR to match their liabilities from such insurance business. The eligible assets are not limited to local securities and may be in the form of cash, bank deposits, or landed properties.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurers carrying on long-term business (life insurers) are required to have their assets matched with the insurance liabilities as regards currency. Where there is currency mismatch in the assets and liabilities, life insurers are required to set aside prudent provision against the effects of changes in exchange rates on the adequacy of assets.
Pension funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	For Mandatory Provident Fund (MPF) plans, at least 30% of the assets of a constituent fund must be held in Hong-Kong-dollar-denominated currency investments, as measured by effective currency exposure.

Investment firms and collective investment funds	No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Hungary maintains certain exchange restrictions related to the freezing of funds and economic resources of the following: (1) certain officials of Belarus; (2) certain individuals and entities in the Democratic Republic of the Congo; (3) certain individuals and entities in Lebanon, Myanmar, Sudan, and Syria; (4) certain individuals and entities in the Islamic Republic of Iran and Libya; (5) certain individuals, entities, and bodies in view of the situation in Ukraine; and (6) certain individuals undermining or threatening the territorial integrity, sovereignty, and independence of Ukraine.
Other security restrictions	Yes.	Within the framework of the Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP), the EU applies restrictive measures either autonomously or implementing binding resolutions of the UNSC with regard to the Treaty on EU (in particular, Article 29) and the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU (in particular, Article 75 or 215). Restrictive measures imposed by the EU may target governments of third countries, entities, and individuals. They may comprise specific or general trade restrictions (import and export bans), financial restrictions, restrictions on admission (visa or travel bans), and other measures. EU Council regulations imposing sanctions and related Council decisions and Commission regulations are part of the EU law and take precedence over conflicting legislation of Hungary as a member of the EU. Floating	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating because of discretionary intervention by the Magyar Nemzeti Bank (MNB) in the foreign exchange market. The general aim is to avoid disruptive market fluctuations and exchange rate overshooting. However, the MNB emphasizes that the Bank generally refrains from intervening in the foreign exchange market. The MNB converts foreign currency for the government and net current and capital transfers from the EU at market rates. These transactions change the foreign exchange reserve position of the MNB. If the resulting reserve dynamics are not in line with the MNB's reserve management objectives, the Bank will take the necessary measures. The MNB does not publish intervention data.
Free floating
Official exchange rate	Yes.	In some cases, the law (for example, Accountancy Act, Act on the Rules of Taxation, Act on Enforcement Proceedings to be Implemented by the Tax Authority, Act on the Implementation of Community Customs Law) requires or allows companies to use the official exchange rate when evaluating assets/liabilities or revenues/expenditures or transferring funds denominated in foreign currency. Official MNB foreign exchange rates are fixed each weekday, except national holidays. These rates are valid until publication of the next day's rates and are fixed at 11:00 a.m. The official euro–forint fixing rate is the simple arithmetic average of the euro–forint quotes of the 10 most active domestic banks in the forint foreign exchange market, after the two highest and two lowest quotes are eliminated. The US dollar–forint fixing rate is calculated using the euro–forint fixing rate and the euro–US dollar market rate at 11:00 a.m. The forint exchange rates against other currencies are derived from the US dollar–forint fixing and the foreign exchange cross-rates at 11:00 a.m.

Target measure Yes. In August 2005, the Bank adopted an explicit medium-term (“continuous”) inflation target for the period starting in 2007, after year-end targets between 2001 and 2006. The time horizon relevant for the Monetary Council is 1.5–2 years.

CPI Yes. The CPI is the measure of the price changes of goods and services intended for household consumption and is calculated on the basis of the same month of the previous year. It is published monthly by the Hungarian Central Statistical Office.

HUNGARY

Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The time horizon relevant for the Monetary Council is 1.5–2 years.
Operating target (policy rate)
Policy rate	Yes.	The MNB’s base rate (rate on required reserves) is the policy rate. Given the excess liquidity in the banking system, the MNB overnight deposit rate, which was increased to 25 basis points on July 27, 2021, provides a floor.
Target corridor band	Yes.	MNB maintains asymmetric overnight interest rate corridor to prevent extreme fluctuations in interbank rates, the interest rate paid on overnight CB deposits equals the base rate minus 95 basis points, and the interest to be paid on overnight collateralized loans equals the base rate (plus 95 basis points).
Other	Yes.	To manage the liquidity in the banking system, the Bank still regularly holds liquidity providing foreign exchange swap tenders; however, the Bank relies on these swap instruments to a decreasing extent. On July 1, 2019, a purchase program for corporate bonds began.  In response to the coronavirus pandemic, the MNB adjusted its policy instruments and modified its operational framework on April 7, 2020. These changes allowed the MNB to provide liquidity to the major sub-markets and to influence monetary conditions in a targeted manner. Effective April 7, 2020, a government security purchase program was launched in the secondary market to restore the stable liquidity position of the government securities market and to relaunch its mortgage bond purchase program to improve the long-term supply of funding to the banking sector. The MNB will continue to use the government bond purchase program by maintaining a lasting presence in the market, taking a flexible approach to changing the quantity and structure of weekly securities purchases, to the extent and for the time necessary.  To ensure access to required, affordable funding for domestic small- and medium-sized enterprises available for a wide variety of purposes during the COVID-19 crisis, the Funding for Growth Scheme (FGS) Go! was launched effective April 20, 2020. With the exhaustion of the available amount, the MNB announced the termination of the FGS Go! Program, effective June 22, 2021. Effective March 24, 2020, the Bank introduced a new, fixed-rate collateralized long-term credit instrument. The Bank discontinues the use of the long-term collateralized lending facility effective July 27, 2021.  As for the mortgage bond purchase program, effective November 16, 2020, the Bank decided to focus on green mortgage bond purchases and suspended the purchases of the “non-green” mortgage bonds. The liquidity effect of all these programs has been sterilized.
Accountability
Open letter	No.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	The governor of the MNB reports to the parliament’s Standing Committee for Economic Affairs in writing semiannually on the MNB’s semiannual activity. On request, the governor must be obliged to attend in person and supplement the report orally. On request, the governor of the MNB must provide information to the competent committee of the parliament.
Other	No.

HUNGARY

Publication of votes	Yes.	The MNB has been publishing individual voting records since 2005. The voting records of the Monetary Council published in the minutes are also available in time series format.
Publication of minutes	Yes.	Abridged minutes of the Council's rate-setting meetings are released regularly after two weeks, before the next policy meeting takes place. The minutes present the decision-makers' assessment of current economic conditions and the factors they consider when deciding on the base rate, including votes cast by individual members of the Council. To provide more detailed information, background materials appear as a separate publication with enhanced content under the title "Macroeconomic and financial market developments," at the same time as the abridged minutes.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	Inflation forecasts are published quarterly in the Inflation Report.
Other monetary framework
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may set the exchange rate freely in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	The Act on Credit Institutions and Financial Enterprises states that currency exchange activities are subject to authorization by the MNB. According to the law, authorization to engage in currency exchange activities is granted to credit institutions and their agents. On December 31, 2020, there were 146 foreign exchange bureaus in Hungary and 40 credit institutions. Licensing requires the fulfillment of several technical and personnel criteria. The MNB website provides more detailed information, including a list of authorized agents. Agents may only purchase and sell banknotes, but credit institutions may also make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. Foreign exchange bureaus may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the MNB.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	The foreign exchange market operates based on broker systems (Reuters D-3000 Spot Matching and Electronic Broking Services) and on the OTC bilateral market. There are market makers in both markets. Because there are no controls on foreign exchange transactions, financial institutions do not need a license to trade. All banks and financial institutions are free to participate in the interbank market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants. As of December 31, 2020, according to the data provided by domestic credit institutions, 160 credit institutions dealt in the forint/foreign exchange spot market, of which 58 were domestic credit institutions.
Over the counter	Yes.	The foreign exchange market is an OTC bilateral market.
Brokerage	Yes.	The foreign exchange market is based in part on broker systems (Reuters D-3000 Spot Matching and Electronic Broking Services).
Market making	Yes.	Market makers are present in the OTC and brokerage markets.

HUNGARY

Forward exchange market	Yes.	All banks may engage in forward transactions at exchange rates negotiated freely with their customers. As part of its monetary policy operations, the MNB has a euro liquidity arrangement that provides foreign exchange swap instruments with maturities up to and including 12 months.

Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. Also, the sender or the addressee has to make the similar declaration if cash is transferred via mail or a parcel service. Based on the provisions of Act XLI of 2021, on detection of the unaccompanied cash the customs authority will require the declaration from either the sender or the addressee. The authorities must keep a record of such information and in case of suspicion of money laundering report it to their national FIU. The Hungarian FIU maintains statistics of suspicious transaction reports by Customs, including all relevant information. According to the EU regulation, an incorrect or incomplete declaration does not fulfill the obligation. If the cash is not made available for control, the obligation is not fulfilled either. To check compliance with the regulation, national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transport. The EU regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EU regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EU regulation. To comply with the new EU legislation, Act No. XLI of 2021 on the Execution of Regulation (EU) No. 2018/1672 of the European Parliament and of the Council on Controls of Cash Entering or Leaving the Union and Repealing Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005 replaced the former Act No. XLVIII. of 2007 on the Execution of Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005. The new “Cash Control Act” keeps the effective, proportionate, and dissuasive sanctions for failure to declare or false declaration of cash set out in the former act. It includes an administrative fine of up to 50% of the undeclared amount. The customs authority may retain the object of the procedure (the amount of cash equal to the fine) if there is a risk of nonpayment of the fine. In case of non- or false declaration, on request the fine may be reduced by 50%, if the delinquent presents substantive proof of the origin of the cash in question (equity).

Inward direct investment

Yes. With respect to nonresidents, controls apply to (1) airlines established in the country that must be majority owned and effectively controlled by EU countries and/or nationals of EU countries, unless otherwise provided for through an international agreement to which the EU is a signatory; (2) acquisition of a shipping license to operate in international waters, which is reserved for companies established in Hungary and operating shipping vessels registered in EU member countries (however, there are no restrictions preventing the establishment by nonresidents of a company in Hungary through which a shipping license is available); (3) asset management services by branches of nonresident investors located outside the EU for domestic mandatory and voluntary private pension funds; (4) the extent that under EU Directive No. 2009/65/EC, a depositary of a UCITS must either have its registered office or be established in the UCITS home member state; and (5) nonresident investors located outside the EU through acquiring or establishing directly or indirectly more than 25% of the shares of companies (or more than 10% of shares of publicly listed company) established in Hungary which engaged in activities described by the Act No. LVII of 2018.

The provisions of Act No. LVII of 2018 were modified to ensure the practical implementation of Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 effective December 4, 2020. The Act. No. CXXI of 2020 on amending certain laws relating to records and electronic administration contains the details as follows. A foreign investor may acquire (or establish) directly or indirectly more than 25% of the shares of a company (or more than 10% of shares of public limited company) or according to the Civil Code may acquire a controlling influence in a company established in Hungary carrying out the activities specified in the Act only after the notification to the Minister of the Interior (hereinafter referred to as “Minister”) and confirmation of acknowledgment of such notification. A foreign investor may commence the activity specified in the law after notification to the Minister and confirmation of acknowledgment of the notification. The foreign investor is obliged to provide information to the Minister on the change of the data subject to the notification obligation within the term specified in the Government decree. The detailed rules of the procedure of the Minister, in particular the procedural deadlines, must be established by a Government decree. On the basis of the notification, the Minister examines whether the acquisition of ownership or the right of operation by the foreign investor or the continuation of the newly acquired activity violates the security interests of Hungary. On receipt of the notification, the Minister must immediately verify that the notification complies with the legal requirements and, in light of the Member State’s comments under Article 6 of the FDI or the European Commission’s opinion under Article 6 or 8 of the FDI, examines whether there is a violation of Hungary’s security interests. If so, it will issue a prohibition decision; if not, it will acknowledge receipt of the notification in writing. In particularly justified cases, or if it is necessary to fulfill the obligations specified in the FDI, the Minister may extend the duration of the inspection by a maximum of 60 days, of which the foreign investor must be notified in writing before the expiry of the 60-day period. The Minister notifies the foreign investor in writing of the prohibition decision containing the simplified justification, and the foreign investor may challenge it in an administrative lawsuit. The Metropolitan Court has exclusive jurisdiction over the lawsuit. Anyone who violates his or her obligation under the Act in connection with the notification or the provision of data must be examined by the Minister, after examining all the circumstances of the case, order the payment of the fine set out as follows: in case of a natural person foreign investor from HUF 100,000 to HUF 1,000,000 and in case of legal person foreign investor from HUF 1,000,000 to HUF 10,000,000. The Minister must also take measures provided by the Act if this is justified under Section 7 of the FDI. The personal data processed may be transmitted to the national contact point in accordance with Article 11 (1) of the FDI; such data must be deleted immediately following the procedure described in Section 6-8 of FD. The scope of its addressees to be notified as a foreign investor in accordance with Act No. LVII of 2018 has been extended to nationals of the EU, another state belonging to the EEA and the Swiss Confederation, or to legal persons or other entities registered in such a state (Act. No. XCIX of 2021 on transitional emergency rules, Section 114; the modification is effective for 12 months from the end of the emergency).

Effective June 28, 2021, insurance and reinsurance activities and activities directly related to insurance activities which are subject to reporting in accordance with the provisions of Act No. LXXXVIII of 2014, are notifiable activities (Act. No. XCIX of 2021 on transitional emergency rules, Section 299).

Effective June 18, 2020, controls apply to investments by foreign investors to (1) acquire (directly or indirectly) a majority influence in a strategic company, (2) acquire at least 10% of all shares, provided the overall value of the investment reaches or exceeds HUF 350 million, and (3) acquire 15%, 20%, or 50% in a strategic company or if the joint shareholding of all the foreign investors would exceed 25% in a strategic company, require the approval. If the transaction involves a Hungarian strategic company, but that Hungarian strategic company was already foreign-owned, then the indirect change of that foreign ownership falls outside of the Interim Measures Act (Interim Measures Act, Section 277). This provision expired effective June 30, 2021.

Effective June 28, 2021, a limited liability company, private limited company, public limited company, or higher education institution established in Hungary qualifies as a strategic company, in case the main or additional field of its activity defined in the Government Decree belongs to a sector of strategic importance, in particular in the energy, transport, communications sectors, or in the sectors defined in Article 4 (1) (a) to (e) of FDI, excluding financial infrastructure (Act. No. XCIX of 2021 on transitional emergency rules, Section 160 (2)).

Effective October 11, 2020, Regulation (EU) No. 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, which established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments came into effect.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	The foreign exchange funding adequacy ratio (FFAR) is calculated as the ratio of the available amount of stable foreign currency funding divided by weighted foreign-currency-denominated assets outstanding. The FFAR regulation based on the NSFR methodology is in force since July 1, 2012, and has been amended three times to comply with evolving international standards and market developments. The measure aims to reduce the maturity mismatch of the banking sector's foreign exchange position. The required level of the FFAR is 100%. To further reduce denomination mismatches in the balance sheet of credit institutions and to assist the regulatory objectives of the FFAR, the MNB as macroprudential authority also introduced the foreign exchange coverage ratio (FECR), which limits the on-balance-sheet denomination mismatch of credit institutions to 10% of the balance sheet total. Since July 1, 2018, the interbank funding ratio (IFR) was introduced to prevent excessive reliance on funding originated from financial corporations. Wholesale funding from financial corporations—weighted according to currency and maturity with some exemptions not to hamper normal banking operations—must not exceed 30% of total liabilities excluding own funds. The MNB took a comprehensive package of financial measures to mitigate the impacts of the emergency situation related to the coronavirus outbreak on the financial intermediary system. This package modified the FFAR and the FECR. Effective March 24, 2020, for the FFAR, foreign exchange liabilities from financial customers with a residual maturity of over one year were subdivided into groups according to residual maturity, with higher (more favorable) weights for longer maturities. This was to strengthen the banking system. According to the modification, elements to be included in the calculation in case of foreign currency deposits and foreign currency liabilities with a remaining maturity of 1 year or more were (1) foreign currency bonds with a remaining maturity of 1 year or more (weight=100%), (2) foreign currency deposits and liabilities of households, non-financial corporations (small- and medium-sized enterprises included), and other sectors with a remaining maturity of 1 year or more (weight=100%), (3) foreign currency deposits and liabilities of financial corporations with a remaining maturity of 1–2 years, including deposits of money market funds (weight =70%), (4) foreign currency deposits and liabilities of financial corporations with a remaining maturity of 2–5 years, including deposits of money market funds (weight=90%), and (5) foreign currency deposits and liabilities of financial corporations with a remaining maturity of 5 years or more (weight=100%). Previously, the FFAR regulation accepted foreign exchange funds with a residual maturity over one year as 100% stable funds, regardless of the funding partner or fund type. Effective September 17, 2020, the MNB restored the regulation to its form in effect before March 24, 2020, so all foreign currency deposits and foreign currency liabilities with a remaining maturity of 1 year or more can be taken into account with a 100% weight again.

Effective March 24, 2020, the FECR determining a limit on the foreign exchange mismatches between assets and liabilities relative to the balance sheet total was narrowed from 15% to 10%, thus constraining bank’s on-balance-sheet currency mismatch. Effective September 17, 2020, the MNB restored the regulation to its original form, with a 15% limit in effect again.

Effective September 17, 2020, the MNB also decided to amend the requirements on the IFR. Accordingly, on-balance-sheet liabilities arising from derivative transactions with financial corporations and from the revaluation of such transactions are exempt when determining the IFR requirement, as these show significant volatility for banks active in the foreign exchange swap market, and therefore, they may limit the predictability of compliance and trigger unwanted adjustments.

Borrowing abroad No.

Maintenance of accounts abroad No.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits) No.

Notification is required pursuant to EU Directive No. 2013/36/EC in case of cross-border services.

MNB Decree No. 32/2014 (IX. 10) (modified by MNB Decree No. 29/2018 (VIII. 21)) on the regulation of DSTI and LTV ratios introduced new DSTI and LTV limits. The Decree requires that the earnings of the borrower be properly documented, regardless of the currency. The following stricter LTV restrictions differentiate according to the type and the currency of loans: (1) real-estate-backed mortgage loans: 50% for loans in euros, 35% for loans in other foreign currencies, and 80% for loans in Hungarian forint (HUF); (2) financial real estate leasing: 55% for loans in euros, 40% for loans in other foreign currencies, and 85% for loans in HUF; (3) vehicle financing: 45% for loans in euros, 30% for loans in other foreign currencies, and 75% for loans in HUF; and (4) vehicle leasing: 50% for loans in euros, 35% for loans in other foreign currencies, and 80% for loans in HUF. These restrictions do not affect loan conversions in the same foreign currency (for example, a Swiss franc loan may be converted to another Swiss franc loan). The MNB Decree differentiates the DSTI limits for new mortgage loans denominated in HUF with over 5 years of maturity based on the length of the interest rate fixation period and the net monthly income of the borrower. The limits are as follows: For borrowers with net income below HUF 500,000, the limit for (1) floating or fixed interest rates for less than 5 years is 25%; (2) for interest rates fixed for at least 5 years but less than 10 years, the limit is 35%; and (3) for interest rates fixed for at least 10 years or for the whole term, it is 50%. For borrowers with net income of HUF 500,000 or above, the limit for (1) floating or fixed interest rates for less than 5 years is 30%; (2) for interest rates fixed for at least 5 years but less than 10 years, the limit is 40%; and (3) for interest rates fixed for at least 10 years or for the whole term, it is 60%. EUR limits for the relevant income categories: for below 5 years interest fixation period 15/20% and for 5 years or longer interest fixation period 25/30%. Limits for mortgage loans denominated in other foreign currencies for below 5 years interest fixation period 5/10% and for 5 years or longer interest fixation period 10/15%.

HUNGARY

The applicable DSTI limits for uncovered loans or mortgage loans with a maturity of up to 5 years depending on the verified net monthly income of the borrower and the currency of the loan: (1) 50% for net income less than HUF 500,000, 25% for loans in euros, and 10% for loans in other foreign currencies and (2) 60% for net income higher than HUF 500,000, 30% for loans in euros, and 15% for loans in other foreign currencies.

to strengthen the banking system. Previously, the FFAR regulation accepted foreign exchange funds with a residual maturity over one year as 100% stable funds, regardless of the funding partner or fund type.

The measure introduced on March 24, 2020, with respect to the foreign exchange funding adequacy ratio where foreign exchange liabilities from financial customers with a residual maturity of over one year were subdivided into groups according to residual maturity, with higher (more favorable) weights for longer maturities, ended. The Magyar Nemzeti Bank restored the regulation to its form in effect before March 24, 2020, so all foreign currency deposits and foreign currency liabilities with a remaining maturity of 1 year or more can be taken into account with a 100% weight again.

The Magyar Nemzeti Bank restored the regulation to its original form, with the foreign exchange coverage ratio determining a limit on the foreign exchange mismatches between assets and liabilities relative to the balance sheet total is restored to 15% from 10%.

Yes. Every trading day at 14:15 hrs. Central European Time (CET), the CBI determines the official exchange rate of the króna against other currencies, which is used as the rate for official agreements, court cases, and other agreements between parties when no other rate is specified (Article 19 of Central Bank Act No. 36/2001). The reference exchange rate is published on the CBI's website each business day at 4:00 p.m. Icelandic time. The official rate is based on the price of the euro against the króna, as quoted in the domestic foreign exchange market, and price developments in the market. These monetary policy instruments are its interest rate decisions, transactions with credit institutions other than loans of last resort, decisions on reserve requirements, purchases of treasury bonds in the secondary market, and foreign exchange market transactions aimed at affecting the exchange rate of the króna. Members of the MPC are the Governor, the Deputy Governor for Monetary Policy, the Deputy Governor for Financial Stability, and two external experts in the fields of economics and monetary policy who are appointed by the prime minister for a term of five years.

ICELAND

The Act on the CBI requires that the Bank's MPC meet at least six times a year, make public the minutes of its meetings, and explain its decisions and the rationale behind them. Each monetary policy decision is published in a statement released by the MPC before the market opens on the day the decision is announced. The MPC publishes the minutes of its meetings two weeks after each interest rate decision. The minutes contain the Committee's assessment of economic and monetary developments and prospects and MPC members' reasons for their votes. Further information can be found in the MPC Rules of Procedure which are approved by the CBI's Supervisory Board.

By law, the CBI may declare a quantitative target for inflation, with the approval of the minister. According to the joint declaration made by the CBI and the government in 2001, Iceland's inflation target is defined as an inflation rate of 2½%. If inflation deviates by more than ±1½ percentage points from the target, the CBI is obliged to submit a report to the government explaining the reasons for the deviations from the target, how the CBI intends to react, and how long it will take to reach the inflation target again in the CBI's assessment. The report must be made public.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may set freely their exchange rates in transactions with their customers.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	In accordance with the Foreign Exchange Act No. 70/2021, only the CBI and those parties that either (1) are authorized by law or in accordance with the provisions of international agreements to which Iceland is a party or (2) have been granted specific authorization by the CBI to operate a foreign exchange market, may act as intermediaries in foreign exchange transactions.
		The former category includes commercial banks (there are currently four commercial banks operating in Iceland), savings banks (currently four), and other financial companies that provide foreign exchange services in connection with their services. It also includes other currency exchange providers (foreign exchange bureaus) that may offer foreign exchange services, provided they register with the CBI's Financial Supervisory Authority in accordance with Article 35 of the Act on Measures against Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing No. 140/2018). Currently, one currency exchange provider is operating in Iceland.
Operated by the central bank	No.	There is currently no entity operating a foreign exchange market with a specific authorization from the CBI.

Effective June 29, 2021, because of the repeal of the older Act on Foreign Exchange, and its replacement by a new Act on Foreign Exchange No. 70/2021, the restrictions on derivative transactions involving the Icelandic króna for the purposes of speculation and/or in connection with glacier bond issuance are no longer in effect. Effective June 30, 2021, the CBI introduced limits on the derivative positions of Icelandic banks, by issuing rules No. 765/2021. The limits are twofold: (1) Commercial banks' forward foreign currency position vis-à-vis each individual counterparty (long or short) may not exceed 10% of their capital base and (2) commercial banks' gross forward foreign currency position may not exceed 50% of their capital base. These limits apply only to derivatives in which the Floating Yes. The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The exchange rate of the rupee is largely market determined, but the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) intervenes in the domestic foreign exchange market to manage excessive volatility and maintain orderly conditions without any fixed target or band for the exchange rate. The RBI publishes monthly data on its interventions (foreign exchange purchases and sales) in its monthly bulletin with a six-week lag.

Free floating

Official exchange rate Yes. Financial Benchmarks India Private Limited (FBIL) has the responsibility of computation and dissemination of reference rate for USD/INR and exchange rate of other major currencies.

The FBIL reference rate for spot US dollar against the Indian rupee is computed on the basis of the volume-weighted average of the actual market transactions that have taken place during a randomly selected 15-minute window between 1130 hours and 1230 hours every weekday. A +/- 3 standard deviation rule is applied to the transaction data, as above, to remove outliers. For calculation of EURO/INR, GBP/INR, and JPY/INR reference rates, the closing prices of each cross-currency pair, that is, EURO/USD, GBP/USD, and USD/JPY as depicted in the one-minute charts over the 15-minute time period, are obtained from any electronic platform. All the cross-currency rates are taken from the same randomly selected time period of 15 minutes between 1130 hours and 1230 hours that is used for the calculation of USD/INR reference rate. The mean of the closing prices (closing price of each minute during the 15-minute window), so obtained, is crossed with the USD/INR reference rate to calculate the EURO/INR, GBP/INR, and JPY/INR reference rates. The reference rates are used for the settlement of exchange-traded currency futures and options. The foreign exchange transactions of the Government of India (GOI) undertaken through RBI take place at the reference rate. The RBI's foreign currency assets and liabilities are revalued at weekly and monthly intervals using the reference rate. The IMF also uses the rate for revaluation of SDRs. As stated by the Notification RBI/2018-19/34 of August 2, 2018, banks are advised to use the conversion rate announced by FBIL for the purpose of converting foreign assets/liabilities for reporting in Form "A" return and Form VIII return. As regards conversion of assets/liabilities in other currencies, for which reference rate is not available from FBIL, banks may use New York closing rate pertaining to the day end of the Reporting Friday, for converting such currencies to USD. Banks may use the reference rate of FBIL for USD/INR of the same day for conversion to INR.

Monetary Policy Committee
Central Bank Board
Other
Government and Central Bank	Yes.	The RBI Act provides for the inflation target to be set by the GOI, in consultation with the RBI, once in every five years. The RBI Act, 1934, also provides for a six-member MPC to determine the policy interest rate required to achieve the inflation target. The MPC was constituted on September 29, 2016, and it held its first meeting on October 3 and 4, 2016. Effective October 5, 2020, on expiry of the term of the three non-ex-officio members, the Central Government reconstituted the MPC with appointment of three external members for a period of four years or until further orders, whichever is earlier.
Target number	Yes.
Point target
Target with tolerance band	Yes.	Inflation target for the period beginning from April 1, 2021, and ending on March 31, 2026, is as follows: Inflation target: 4%. Upper tolerance level: 6%. Lower tolerance level: 2%.
Band/Range	Yes.	4% +/- 2% (upper tolerance level: 6%; lower tolerance level: 2%).
Target measure	Yes.	CPI combined inflation rate.
CPI	Yes.	CPI inflation (defined as year-wise change in monthly CPI expressed in terms of percentage).
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The 4% CPI inflation target is for the period from April 1, 2021, to March 31, 2026.
Policy rate	Yes.	The policy repo rate is the (fixed) interest rate at which the RBI provides overnight liquidity to banks against the collateral of government and other approved securities under the liquidity adjustment facility. The policy repo rate was changed to 4.0% on May 22, 2020.
Target corridor band	Yes.	The weighted average call rate (WACR) is the operating target of monetary policy. The reverse repo rate, at which the RBI absorbs liquidity, on an overnight basis, from banks against the collateral of eligible Government securities (G-Secs), constitutes the lower band, and the marginal standing facility rate, at which scheduled commercial banks can borrow additional amount of overnight money from the RBI, constitutes the upper band of the target corridor. The reverse repo rate under the liquidity adjustment facility stands at 3.35% and the marginal standing facility at 4.25% as on August 12, 2021. The marginal standing facility rate and the reverse repo rate determine the corridor for the movement in the weighted average call money rate.

Parliamentary hearings	No.
Other	Yes.	The Central Government announced the following as factors that constitute failure to achieve the inflation target: (1) the average inflation is more than the upper tolerance level of the inflation target for any three consecutive quarters or (2) the average inflation is less than the lower tolerance level for any three consecutive quarters. In the event of failure to achieve the target, the RBI will report to the government on: (1) reasons for the deviation of inflation from the target over three consecutive quarters, (2) remedial measures, and (3) an estimated time frame over which inflation will be brought back to the target.
Transparency	Yes.
Publication of votes	Yes.	According to Section 45ZL of the amended RBI Act, 1934, the Reserve Bank publishes, on the fourteenth day after every meeting of the MPC, the minutes of the proceedings of the meeting which include the following: (1) the resolution adopted at the meeting of the MPC; (2) the vote of each member of the MPC, ascribed to such member, on the resolution adopted in the said meeting; and (3) the statement of each member of the MPC under Subsection (11) of Section 45ZI on the resolution adopted in the said meeting.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	ADs may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions and margin with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	The RBI issues licenses to “authorized persons” (which include Category-I, Category-II, Category-III ADs and full-fledged money changers, etc.) for foreign exchange transactions, depending on the scope and type of activities allowed to be undertaken. Full-fledged money changers numbering about 2000 may purchase foreign exchange from residents as well as nonresidents and may sell foreign exchange for private and business travel purposes only up to the prescribed ceiling. A few select entities which include (1) upgraded full-fledged money changers, (2) select Regional Rural Banks (RRBs); (3) select Urban Cooperative Banks (UCBs); and (4) select Small Finance Banks have been issued Category-II AD licenses and may undertake transactions as specified in A.P. (DIR Series) Circular No. 25 of March 6, 2006.

Systemically Important Non-Deposit taking Non-Banking Financial Company-Investment and Credit Companies can also apply for AD Category-II license. ADs may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions and margin with their clients.

Operated by the central bank No.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction No.

Fixing No.

Interbank market Yes.

There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants. ADs are authorized by the RBI to deal in foreign exchange. There are currently 88 licensed AD Category-I banks. For its intervention operations, the RBI deals with selected AD banks.

Over the counter Yes.

The foreign exchange market is largely an OTC market. In addition, exchange-traded currency futures and options (including cross-currency futures) are permitted. The Legal Entity Identifier (LEI) system is applied to all participants in the OTC markets for rupee interest rate derivatives, foreign currency derivatives, and credit derivatives in India. Entities without an LEI code are not eligible to participate in the OTC derivative markets. The LEI code was conceived as a key measure to improve the quality and accuracy of financial data systems for better risk management. The LEI is a 20-character unique identity code assigned to entities who are parties to a financial transaction.

Effective September 1, 2020, the directions have been revised (announced April 7, 2020) to make it easier for users, both residents and nonresidents, to access the domestic foreign exchange derivative markets, through (1) merging facilities for residents and nonresidents into a single unified facility for all users; (2) allowing users having valid exposures to hedge the same by using any available instrument; (3) introducing facility to hedge anticipated exposures; (4) no restriction on rebooking of cancelled contracts; and (5) simplifying procedures for ADs to offer foreign exchange derivatives. According to these directions, AD banks must classify the user either as a retail user or as a non-retail user. Retail user can only enter into Forwards, purchase of call and put options (only European options), purchase of call and put spreads, swaps. Non-retail users can be offered any derivative contract including covered options.

Brokerage Yes.

Banks are allowed to undertake foreign exchange transactions through brokers. Such brokers are accredited by the Foreign Exchange Dealers Association of India, a self-regulated organization, to operate in the market.

Market making No.

All AD banks may function as market makers. There are no market-making agreements or other similar agreements.

Forward exchange market Yes.

ADs may deal forward in any permitted currency. The RBI may enter into swap transactions with ADs, under which it buys and sells

US dollars spot and forward at maturities available in the market. Effective June 1, 2020, residents and nonresidents may enter into derivative contracts involving INR as per their classification as retail or non-retail with the ADs to hedge anticipated or contracted exposure. Further, for residents and nonresidents, there is no restriction in terms of purpose to enter into derivative contracts not involving INR. Users can freely cancel and rebook the derivative contracts.

Currency futures and options are traded on the National Stock Exchange (NSE), Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE), and Metropolitan Stock Exchange of India (MSEI). Effective June 1, 2020, residents and nonresidents may access the domestic exchange-traded currency derivatives (ETCD) market to hedge contracted exposures. Residents as well as nonresidents can take positions (long or short), without having to establish existence of underlying exposure, up to a single limit of US$100 million equivalent across all currency pairs involving INR, put together, and combined across all exchanges. A long position exceeding these limits in any exchange requires establishment of an underlying exposure. Previously, these provisions were in place as separate facilities for residents, on the one hand, and for foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) eligible to invest Indian debt and equity assets under the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA) of 1999, on the other hand. The facilities for residents and nonresidents for hedging of foreign exchange risk have now been merged into a single unified facility.

Official cover of forward operations Yes.

The Export Credit Guarantee Corporation of India Ltd. insures against exchange rate fluctuation for deferred receivables from the date of a bid up to 15 years after a contract is awarded. Exchange rate cover is offered in Australian dollars, euros, Japanese yen, pounds sterling, Swiss francs, UAE dirhams, and US dollars. For payments specified in other convertible currencies, cover is provided at the discretion of the Export Credit Guarantee Corporation of India Ltd.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements Yes.

For prescription of currency purposes, countries are divided into two groups: (1) ACU members and (2) the external group (all other countries). For the first group, except Bhutan and Nepal, payments for eligible current international transactions must be settled through the ACU. For Nepal and Bhutan, these are settled in Indian rupees. In other cases, payments may be settled in any permitted currency. Payment for imports of oil and gas is permitted outside the ACU mechanism, and all eligible current account transactions, including trade transactions with the Islamic Republic of Iran, must be settled in any permitted currency outside the ACU mechanism. Trade settlements can be made through ACU dollar or ACU euro accounts or, effective March 6, 2020, through ACU yen accounts (Notification No. FEMA 14(R)/(2)/2020-RB of March 4, 2020), which are replenished through the RBI. Members of ACU can use nostro accounts of the commercial banks of ACU countries, that is, ACU dollar or ACU euro accounts or ACU yen accounts, for settling the payments of both exports and imports. Operations in ACU euro are, however, temporarily suspended since July 1, 2016. Payments to countries in the second group may be made in rupees to the account of a resident of any of these countries or in any permitted currency, and receipts from these countries may be obtained in rupees from banks in any of these countries or in any permitted currency. However, special rules may apply to exports under lines of credit

Regional arrangements	Yes.	India is a member of the ACU.
Clearing agreements	Yes.	AMU is the common unit of the ACU account. AMU is denominated as ACU dollar, ACU euro, and ACU yen which is equivalent in value to US$1, €1, and ¥ 1, respectively. Although Bhutan and Nepal are members of the ACU, trade with these countries is settled outside the ACU. At present, trade with the Islamic Republic of Iran is also settled outside the ACU mechanism. Transactions with Nepal and Bhutan are settled in Indian rupees. Transactions with Nepal may also be settled in any freely convertible currency if permitted by the Nepal Rastra Bank. Transactions with all other ACU members are currently being settled through ACU dollar and ACU yen. All eligible current account transactions including trade transactions in euro are permitted to be settled outside the ACU mechanism from July 1, 2016, until further notice.

Barter agreements and open accounts	No.	Presently, there are no barter trade agreements with any country. All trade transactions with Myanmar can be settled in any freely convertible currency in addition to the ACU mechanism. It was decided, in consultation with GOI, to do away with the barter system of trade at the Indo-Myanmar border and switch over completely to normal trade from December 1, 2015.
Administration of control	Yes.	Exchange management is administered by the RBI in accordance with the FEMA, 1999, and the general policy established by the government, in consultation with the RBI. Much of the routine work of exchange control is delegated to authorized persons. Import and export licenses, where necessary, are issued by the director general of foreign trade.
Official	No.
Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	Yes.	Domestic gold sales must be made against up-front payments. Banks may grant gold metal loans. While imports of gold coins and medallions are no longer prohibited, pending further review, the restrictions on banks regarding selling gold coins and medallions have not been removed.
On external trade	Yes.	Mutual funds (MFs), namely gold Exchange Traded Funds, may invest in gold and gold related instruments since 2019. Specified categories of MF schemes are also allowed to participate in Exchange Traded Commodity Derivatives having gold as underlying. Guidelines related to restrictions/control regarding exports and imports of gold are mentioned in the Foreign Trade Policy (FTP) issued by the Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT), GOI. RBI guidelines in respect of import of gold are as given below: The 20:80 scheme of import of gold was withdrawn on November 28, 2014. However, the obligation to export under the 20:80 scheme would apply to the unutilized gold imported before November 28, 2014. Nominated banks and nominated agencies, as notified by the DGFT, are permitted to import gold on consignment basis. All sale of gold domestically will, however, be against up-front payment. Nominated banks are free to grant gold metal loans. The status holder exporters must adhere to the guidelines contained in extant FTP, as amended from time to time. The import of gold coins and medallions is permitted. However, prohibition on sale of gold coins and medallions by banks continues pending further review.
On exports	Yes.

balances held in such accounts, to the extent they represent exports from India, must be repatriated to India within the period prescribed for realization of exports, in Foreign Exchange Management (Export of Goods and Services) Regulations, 2015, of January 12, 2016, as amended from time to time.

Approval required Yes. Certain transactions as well as remittances in excess of specified limits require approval.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad No.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Foreign currency nonresident (FCNR) accounts (Banks-Scheme B) in freely convertible foreign currency are permitted for nonresident Indians (NRIs) and people of Indian origin (PIOs). These must be in the form of term deposits of one- to five-year maturity in any foreign currency that is freely convertible.

Diplomatic missions and their staff and nondiplomatic staff with official passports may open foreign exchange accounts with ADs without RBI approval, subject to certain conditions. Accounts related to countries other than Bhutan and Nepal are treated as nonresident accounts. NRIs in Nepal and Bhutan may open foreign exchange accounts, provided they are funded with permitted foreign exchange. FDI proceeds may be credited to an FCNR (B) account, provided the original acquisition was from inward remittance or funds in a nonresident external (NRE)/FCNR (B) account. Balances may be repatriated at any time without RBI approval. NRIs may use new remittances or funds in FCNR accounts for (1) portfolio investment with repatriation benefits of up to 5% of the paid-up capital, provided total holdings of shares and convertible debentures under the Portfolio Investment Scheme (PIS) do not exceed 10% (24% with a special board resolution passed at a general meeting of the company) of the paid-up capital of the company or of the total paid-in value of each series of its convertible debentures; (2) existing JV companies to raise the ratio of foreign equity shares to prescribed percentages of their capital through expansion of their capital base or through preferential allocation of shares to foreign investors; and (3) investment (only NRIs) on a non-repatriation basis in money market MFs.

The interest rate ceiling on FCNR (B) deposits of maturities between one and three years is LIBOR/swap rates plus 200 basis points (bps), and for maturities between three and five years, it was decreased from LIBOR/swap rates plus 400 bps to LIBOR/swap rates plus 300 bps.

Banks may grant loans, in rupees and foreign exchange, against FCNR (B) fixed deposits to the depositors or to third parties without limit, subject to margin requirements.

Residents may be joint holders in FCNR accounts. NRIs and PIOs may open FCNR (B) accounts with a resident close relative(s) as joint holder(s) on a “former or survivor” basis.

Borrowing not exceeding US$250,000 or its equivalent by residents from close relatives outside India of the borrower is permitted by the RBI, provided the loan is interest-free and the minimum maturity is one year, subject to certain conditions. AD Category-I banks may allow repayment of such loans to the NRE/FCNR (B) account of the lender concerned, subject to conditions.

Convertible into foreign currency	Yes.	Diplomatic missions and their personnel and family members may open rupee accounts with ADs. Foreign companies may not open new NRE accounts. NRIs and PIOs may maintain NRE rupee accounts with a resident close relative(s) as joint holder(s) on a “former or survivor” basis. The interest rates offered by banks on NRE deposits may not exceed those offered by them on comparable domestic rupee deposits. FDI proceeds may be credited to an NRE account, provided the original acquisition was from inward remittance or funds held in an NRE/FCNR (B) account. Balances may be repatriated at any time without RBI approval. NRIs may use funds from new remittances or in their NRE accounts for (1) portfolio investments with repatriation benefits of up to 5% of the paid-up capital, provided their total holdings of shares and convertible debentures under the PIS do not exceed 10% (24% with a special board resolution passed at a general meeting of the company) of the paid-up capital of the company or of the total paid-in value of each series of its convertible debentures; (2) existing JV companies to raise the ratio of foreign equity shares to prescribed percentages of their capital through expansion of their capital base or preferential allocation of shares to foreign investors; and (3) investment on a non-repatriation basis in money market MFs (only NRIs). Balances in such accounts are freely convertible. Banks may freely set their interest rates on savings deposits and term deposits with maturities of one year or more. However, interest rates may not exceed those offered on comparable domestic rupee deposits. Gifts to NRIs may be credited to nonresident ordinary (NRO) accounts in rupees. Residents may make rupee gifts up to US$250,000 a financial year, as permitted under the LRS to an NRI or PIO who is a close relative through a cross-checked/electronic transfer to an NRO account. NRIs may transfer funds from NRO accounts within the overall ceiling of US$1 million a financial year subject to payment of applicable taxes (that is, when the funds are remitted abroad). Any person resident outside India, having a business interest in India, may open a special nonresident rupee account (SNRR account) with an AD for the purpose of putting through bona fide transactions in rupees, not involving any violation of the provisions of the Act, rules and regulations made thereunder. Scope of “SNRR” has been enhanced by allowing persons residing outside India to open such accounts for purposes like ECBs in INR; Trade Credits in INR; Trade (Export/Import) Invoicing in INR; and Business-related transactions outside International Financial Service Centre by International Financial Service Centre units at GIFT city.

Financing requirements for imports	Yes.	The RBI allows requests from exporters through their AD Category-I banks to offset export receivables against import payables of the same foreign buyer and supplier, subject to certain terms and conditions.

INDIA

Minimum financing requirements	No.	There are no minimum financing requirements for imports. AD Category-I banks may, however, need to obtain information from importers and verify the bona fide of the transactions before remittance.
Advance payment requirements	Yes.	ADs may allow unlimited advance remittances against imports of goods, but importers must provide a standby LC (SBLC) or bank guarantee for amounts over US$200,000. ADs, at their discretion, may allow advance remittance up to US$5 million without a bank guarantee or SBLC if the importer is legitimate and has a satisfactory track record. ADs may make advance remittances without a bank guarantee or SBLC for the import of rough diamonds from certain mining companies and for aircraft, helicopter, or other aviation-related purchases up to US$50 million. ADs may allow unlimited advance remittances against imports of services, though importers must provide a bank guarantee if the amount exceeds US$500,000. Government and public sector companies require a specific waiver of the bank guarantee from the MOF for advance payments above US$100,000 for imports of both goods and services. In case of merchanting trade transactions, merchanting traders may make advance payment for the import leg if required by the overseas seller. However, effective January 23, 2020, for making advance beyond US$500,000, a bank guarantee/standby LC (SBLC) from a reputable international bank is required. Previously, if inward remittance from the overseas buyer was not received before the outward remittance to the overseas supplier, the AD bank could handle such transactions by providing a facility based on commercial judgment. It must, however, have been assured that any such advance payment for the import leg beyond US$200,000 a transaction will be paid against a bank guarantee/LC from a reputable international bank, except in cases and to the extent payment for the export leg was received in advance.
Advance import deposits	No.

State import monopoly

Yes. Import policy of certain items is canalized through the state trading enterprises.
DGFT may, however, grant an authorization to any other person to import or export any of the goods notified for exclusive trading through state trading enterprises.

Exports and Export Proceeds*Repatriation requirements

Yes. The period of realization and repatriation of export proceeds is nine months from the date of export, and it includes all exporters, including units in SEZs, status holder exporters, Export Oriented Units (EOUs), units in electronic hardware technology parks (EHTPs), software technology parks (STPs), and biotechnology parks (BTPs). Exporters must obtain permission from an AD if the export proceeds are not collected within the prescribed period. ADs may extend the period of realization of export proceeds beyond the stipulated period of realization from the date of export up to six months at a time, regardless of the invoice value of the export, subject to conditions. In case of goods exported to Indian-owned warehouses established outside India, the proceeds must be realized within 15 months from the date of shipment of goods. The RBI also administers a program referred to as "Project Exports" under which engineering goods may be exported under deferred payment terms. Project Export also includes execution of turnkey projects and civil construction contracts aboard. Indian exporters are required to obtain the approval of AD Category-I banks/EXIM Bank (Export-Import Bank of India) at post-award stage before undertaking execution of such contracts.
Effective April 1, 2020, in view of COVID outbreak, the period of realization and repatriation to India of the amount representing the full export value of goods or software or services exported was extended from nine months to fifteen months from the date of export, for the exports made up to or on July 31, 2020.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions	Yes.	The Foreign Exchange Management (Non-debt Instruments) Rules, 2019, of October 17, 2019, issued by the Central Government, regulate investments in India by person resident outside India. Foreign Exchange Management (Mode of Payment and Reporting of Non-debt Instruments) Regulations, 2019, of October 17, 2019, issued by the RBI regulates mode of payment and reporting requirements for investment in India by a person resident outside India. The Foreign Exchange Management (Debt Instruments) Regulations, 2019 regulate investments in India by a person resident outside India, with respect to debt instruments. On October 17, 2019, the Foreign Exchange Management (transfer or issue of security by a person resident outside India) Regulations, 2017, has been superseded by the Foreign Exchange Management (Non-debt Instruments) Rules, 2019 and Foreign Exchange Management (Debt Instruments) Regulations, 2019. Resident individuals may remit abroad within the limit equivalent of US$250,000 a financial year for all permissible capital transactions under the LRS.
Repatriation requirements	Yes.	ECB proceeds meant for rupee expenditure should be repatriated immediately for credit to their rupee accounts with AD Category-I banks in India. Proceeds meant only for foreign currency expenditures may be retained abroad until used.
Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	No.
Surrender to authorized dealers	Yes.
Controls on capital and money market instruments	Yes.
On capital market securities	Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	A person resident outside India may purchase equity instruments (equity shares; compulsory convertible debentures (CCDs); compulsorily convertible preference shares; share warrants; and partly paid-up shares) issued by an Indian company in permitted sectors subject to entry route, sectoral cap/regulatory limits, and other attendant conditionalities. (The term “capital instruments” have been replaced with “equity instruments” in Non-debt Instruments Rules, 2019.) FPIs must register with the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) before they invest in the Indian capital market. (All categories of foreign institutional investors (FIIs) and subaccounts are merged into a single investor type, FPI.) Registered FPIs may invest in permissible equity and/or debt securities issued by an Indian company whose equity and/or debt is listed on recognized stock exchanges in India. Details of securities in which FPIs can invest are also provided in the SEBI (Foreign Portfolio Regulations), 2019. (Non-debt Instruments Rules and Debt Instruments Regulations are issued separately.)

There is no cap on the total amount of investment by FPIs in the equity shares of an Indian company, but there are caps on the FPIs percentage of paid-up capital in individual Indian companies. The holdings of a single FPI or FPI group in an Indian company must be less than 10% of total paid-up capital on fully diluted basis. Effective April 1, 2020, the aggregate limit for foreign investment by FPIs is the sectoral cap applicable to the investee company as laid out in sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph 3 of Schedule I of the Non-debt Rules. However, the aggregate limit may be decreased by the Indian company to a lower threshold limit of 24% or 49% or 74% as deemed fit, with the approval of its Board of Directors and its General Body through a resolution and a special resolution, respectively, before March 31, 2020.

Provided further that, the Indian company which has decreased its aggregate limit to 24% or 49% or 74% may increase such aggregate limit to 49% or 74% or the sectoral cap or statutory ceiling, respectively, as deemed fit, with the approval of its Board of Directors or its General Body through a resolution and a special resolution, respectively. Previously, the aggregate limit for investment by all FPIs could not exceed 24% of the total paid-up capital on fully diluted basis of the Indian company. The overall ceiling of 24% could be raised to the sectoral cap by a company through a special resolution passed by the Board of Directors and special resolution passed in the meeting of shareholders.

NRIs and Overseas Citizens of India (OCIs) may invest in equity instruments. Individual NRIs and OCIs may purchase equity instruments of Indian companies listed on the stock exchange, up to 5% of the paid-up capital on fully diluted basis of the Indian company. The aggregate limit for investment by all NRIs and OCIs may not exceed 10% of the paid-up capital on fully convertible basis of the Indian company. This limit may be raised to 24% through a special resolution passed by the Board of Directors followed by an extraordinary general meeting.

Nonresidents, including NRIs and OCIs, may invest in equity instruments of a listed Indian company on the stock exchange through a registered broker under the FDI scheme, provided they have already acquired and continue to hold control in accordance with SEBI (Substantial Acquisition of Shares and Takeover) regulations. Pricing norms for transfer of equity instruments between residents and nonresidents for listed companies must comply with SEBI's guidelines and for unlisted companies internationally accepted pricing methodology for valuation of shares done on arm's length basis.

A person resident outside India (other than a citizen of Pakistan or Bangladesh) or an entity incorporated outside India (other than an entity in Pakistan or Bangladesh), not being a FPI or Foreign Venture Capital Investor registered in accordance with SEBI guidelines, may contribute foreign capital either by way of capital contribution or by way of acquisition/transfer of profit shares in the capital structure of a Limited Liability Partnership, subject to the terms and conditions as specified in Schedule VI of the Foreign Exchange Management

INDIA

Equity instruments of Indian companies held by nonresidents under an FDI arrangement may be sold on the stock exchange. Transfers to residents under private arrangements (off market) do not require RBI permission and may be handled by authorized banks in accordance with the requirements in the regulations, including pricing and reporting requirements. Transfers of sale proceeds are permitted, subject to payment of applicable tax, provided no controls were imposed on the repatriation of sale proceeds at the time of the original investment. Transfers between two nonresidents generally do not require any approval, except for the sector where the investment is under Government route.

Purchase abroad by residents Yes.

Resident individuals may remit abroad up to the equivalent of US$250,000 a financial year for any permissible capital transaction under the LRS of 2015–2016.

General permission has been granted by the RBI to residents to hold, own, transfer, or invest in foreign currency or foreign securities outside India, if the currency or security was acquired or held by the person while residing outside India or received through inheritance from a person residing outside India.

SEBI-registered venture capital funds and alternative investment funds may invest in equity and equity-linked instruments of foreign venture capital undertaking, subject to an overall limit of US$750 million and SEBI regulations. Individual venture capital fund/alternative investment fund limits are set by the SEBI, subject to its terms and conditions. Residents may invest in companies listed or otherwise abroad on recognized stock exchanges up to an overall limit of US$250,000 in a financial year under the LRS. A listed Indian company may invest in (1) shares of an overseas company listed on a recognized stock exchange and (2) rated bonds/fixed-income securities issued by companies in up to 50% of its net worth on the date of its latest audited balance sheet.

ADs may allow remittances by resident employees of foreign companies and their JVs or wholly owned subsidiaries (WOS) in which the foreign company holds equity, either directly or indirectly, for acquisition of shares of the foreign company under an employee stock option plan, subject to certain conditions. ADs may also allow remittances from resident individuals for acquisition of qualified shares for the position of director in the overseas company according to the laws of the host country. The limit of these remittances is within the overall ceiling prescribed for resident individuals under the LRS in effect at the time of acquisition. Resident individuals may acquire shares of a foreign entity in part/full consideration of professional services rendered to the foreign company or in lieu of director's remuneration within the overall ceiling under the LRS in effect at the time of acquisition.

Sale or issue abroad by residents Yes.

An Indian company may raise capital by issue of American Depository Receipts (ADRs)/global depository receipts (GDRs) with the underlying of an eligible instrument under Schedule IX of FEM (Non-debt Instruments) Rules, 2019, notified on October 17, 2019.

Bonds or other debt securities Yes.

Purchase locally by nonresidents Yes.

Investment by FPIs in government and corporate securities is subject to the following limits:

(1) The overall limit for FPI investment in Central G-Secs was 5.5% of outstanding stock of securities in fiscal year 2018–2019, and was 6% in fiscal year 2019–2020.

(2) Effective April 1, 2020, the overall limit for FPI investment in corporate bonds was increased to 15% in fiscal year 2020–2021. Previously, it was set at 9% of outstanding stock of corporate bonds from fiscal year 2018–2019. All the sub-categories under the category of corporate bonds were discontinued and replaced with a single limit for FPI investment in all types of corporate bonds in the fiscal year 2018–2019.

(3) The limit for FPI investment in State Development Loans (SDLs) is 2% of outstanding stock of securities.

(4) FPIs are permitted to invest in municipal bonds within the limits set for FPI investment in SDLs.

(5) The cap on aggregate FPI investments in any Central Government security is 30% of the outstanding stock of that security.

(6) Effective April 1, 2020, certain specified categories of Central G-Secs were opened fully for nonresidents investors without any restrictions, apart from being available to domestic investors as well, under the Fully Accessible Route. Additionally, all new issuances of Central G-Secs of 5-, 10-, and 30-year tenors from the financial year 2020–2021 will be eligible for investments under the Fully Accessible Route as “specified securities.”

FPIs are permitted to invest in Central G-Secs, including in T-Bills and SDLs without any minimum residual maturity requirement, subject to the condition that short-term (maturity up to one year) investments by an FPI under either category may not exceed, effective January 23, 2020, 30% (previously 20%) of the total investment of that FPI in that category.

FPIs are permitted to invest in corporate bonds with minimum residual maturity of above one year, subject to the condition that short-term investments in corporate bonds by an FPI may not exceed, effective January 23, 2020, 30% (previously 20%) of the total investment of that FPI in corporate bonds. These stipulations will not apply to investments in “Exempted Securities” by FPIs.

FPIs investments in debt instruments in India – Central G-Secs, SDLs, and corporate debt securities, are also subject to the following concentration limits:

(1) Long-term FPIs: 15% of prevailing investment limit for that category.

(2) Other FPIs: 10% of prevailing investment limit for that category. FPI investment in corporate bonds is also subject to the following requirements:

(1) Investment by any FPI, including investments by related FPIs, may not exceed 50% of any issue of a corporate bond.

(2) The limit that an FPI could not have an exposure of more than 20% of its corporate bond portfolio to a single corporate (including exposure to entities related to the corporate) was removed.

FPIs are also allowed to invest in Indian debt instruments through a separate channel called the Voluntary Retention Route (VRR). Broadly, investments under VRR are exempt from macroprudential controls; however, FPIs are required to stay invested for at least of 75% of their committed portfolio for a minimum period of three years. Revisions to VRR, included, inter alia, the introduction of a separate category, viz. VRR-Combined; the removal of the requirement to invest at least 25% of the Committed Portfolio Size within one month of allotment; and an additional option provided to FPI at the end of the retention period, viz. continue to hold their investment until the date of maturity or the date of sale, whichever is earlier. Further, effective January 23, 2020, the VRR amended to

Under the ECB framework, ECBs may be availed as per the guidelines given under:

- (1) Currency of borrowing: FCY-denominated (freely convertible) ECB and rupee-denominated ECB.
- (2) Amount: Eligible borrowers can raise up to US$750 million or equivalent a financial year under the automatic route.
- (3) Eligible Borrowers: All entities eligible to receive FDI. Additionally, Port Trusts, Units in SEZ, SIDBI, EXIM Bank, registered entities engaged in micro-finance activities can also borrow under this framework.
- (4) Recognized Lender: The lender should be resident of FATF or IOSCO compliant country. Multilateral and Regional Financial Institutions, Individuals (if they are foreign equity holders) and foreign branches/subsidiaries of Indian banks can also be lenders.
- (5) End-use: Negative end-use list which includes real estate activities, investment in capital market, equity investment, working capital purposes, general corporate purposes, repayment of rupee loans and on-lending for the above activities.
- (6) All-in-Cost ceiling: Benchmark rate plus 450 bps spread. Benchmark rate in case of FCY ECB is 6-month LIBOR or any other 6-month interbank interest rate applicable to the currency of borrowing. In case INR ECB it is the yield of the G-Sec of corresponding maturity.
- (7) Minimum average Maturity and Corresponding end-use: Under the extant ECB framework ECB can be raised for a MAMP of 3 years.

However, the following exceptions are provided to the above end-use and MAMP requirements as given below:

Manufacturing sector companies can raise ECBs with MAMP of 1 year for ECB up to US$50 million or its equivalent a financial year. ECB with MAMP 5 years can be raised from foreign equity holder can be utilized for working capital purposes, general corporate purposes, or repayment of rupee loans.

ECBs for repayment of rupee loans, working capital purposes and general corporate purposes from all eligible ECB lenders (except foreign branches/overseas subsidiaries of Indian banks) with a higher MAMP of 7/10 years.

ECBs for repayment of rupee loans availed domestically for capital expenditure in manufacturing and infrastructure sector if classified as SMA-2 or NPA, under any one time settlement and selling of such loans through assignment to ECB lenders. Such ECBs can be availed from all recognized lenders except foreign branches/overseas subsidiaries of Indian banks.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities

Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes. Banks can issue guarantees/SBLCs for trade credits. However, they cannot issue the same for ECBs availed by residents.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes. The RBI allows ADs to grant rupee loans to residents against guarantees from nonresidents under the general permission. Borrowing and lending between two residents are not affected by any provisions of the FEMA, 1999. If a rupee loan is granted against a guarantee by a nonresident, there is no transaction involving foreign exchange until the guarantee is invoked and the nonresident guarantor is required to meet the liability under the guarantee. Nonresident guarantees under the general permission are allowed for non-fund-based facilities (such as LCs and guarantees) between two residents.

Controls on direct investment	Yes.	Credit enhancement by eligible nonresident entities has been extended to domestic debt raised through issues of capital market instruments, such as debentures and bonds, by Indian companies in all sectors.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	An IP (a company incorporated in India, or a body created under Act of Parliament, or a partnership firm registered under the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, or a Limited Liability Partnership) may invest ODI by undertaking financial commitment in the form of equity. To support business operations, financial commitment extended to/issued on behalf of JV/WOS may also take the form of loan, guarantee, and any other non-fund-based commitment. The limit of financial commitment undertaken by IPs under the automatic route is 400% of the net worth of the IP on the date of the last audited balance sheet or the equivalent of US$1 billion in a financial year (clarification), whichever of the two is lower. Resident individuals may set up/acquire JV/WOS abroad within the limit of the LRS, subject to conditions including that the investment can only be made in equity of the JV/WOS and no multi-layered structure is incorporated/acquired. Overseas investments by unregistered partnership and proprietorship firms, trusts, and societies, are subject to prior RBI approval and are not eligible for automatic route. IPs may fund ODI in JVs or WOS with remittances in freely convertible currency through market purchases, capitalization of exports/other receivables, balances held in EEFC accounts, ECB, and ADR/GDR proceeds, swap of shares, etc. No IP can make any direct investment in a foreign entity engaged in real estate business or banking business. The ODI in Pakistan and those jurisdictions which are identified by the FATF as high risk and non-cooperative is under the approval route. ODI in Nepal is allowed only in Indian rupees; ODI in Bhutan is allowed in rupees and freely convertible currencies. The following criteria need to be met to be eligible for auto route: The person should not be (1) on the export caution list; (2) under investigation by any investigation/enforcement agency or regulatory body; and (3) a defaulter to the banking system in India. The other procedural requirements for ODI under auto route include: (1) transactions which are made through a designated AD bank. (2) Submission of Form ODI Part I. (3) Submission of all annual performance reports for existing JV/WOS. (4) Loan/Guarantee to/on behalf of an overseas entity which can be extended by the IP if IP has equity/compulsorily convertible preference shares participation in such overseas entity. There are additional compliance requirements for overseas investment in the financial services sector such as the net profit track record of IP during the preceding three financial years; IP being registered with the Regulatory Authority in India for conducting the financial services activities; approval from the concerned regulatory authorities both in India and abroad, and the IP fulfilling the prudential norms relating to capital adequacy as prescribed by the concerned Regulatory Authority in India. The IP must receive share certificates or other document as evidence of investment within six months, repatriate dues receivable to India within 60 days of falling due, submit annual performance report for the financial year to AD latest by December 31, and report all post-investment changes in capital structure of JV/WOS. Disinvestment by the IP from its JV/WOS abroad may be undertaken by way of transfer/sale of equity shares to a nonresident/resident or by way of liquidation/merger/amalgamation of the JV/WOS/IP. Such disinvestment can be undertaken under auto route or approval route. The conditions for auto route are as follows: (1) The sale is effected through a stock exchange or by a private arrangement at a price not less than the fair value of the JV/WOS; (2) the IP does not have any outstanding dues from the JV or WOS and is not under any investigation; (3) the overseas JV/WOS has been in operation for at least one full year from the date of first investment; and (4) the write off of the investment, if any, is within the prescribed limit.

Other methods of acquisition of foreign entity's shares include: (1) gift from a person resident outside India; (2) cashless employee stock option scheme; (3) inheritance from a person resident in or outside India; (4) individual who resident in India, being an employee or a director of Indian office, may acquire shares under employee stock ownership (ESOP) by an overseas parent; (5) acquisition of qualification shares to become a director of overseas company subject to LRS limit; and (6) acquisition of right shares/bonus shares of overseas company.

IP must make no direct investment in an overseas entity (set up or acquired abroad directly as JV/WOS or indirectly as step down subsidiary) located in the countries identified by the FATF as "non-co-operative countries and territories" as per list available on FATF website www.fatf-gafi.org or as notified by the RBI from time to time. Clarification was issued by way of frequently asked questions (FAQ) that it is applicable only on countries identified by FATF as "call for action."

Yes.

The FDI in India is subject to policy guidelines framed by the GOI from time to time and implemented through Foreign Exchange Management (Non-debt Instruments) Rules, 2019, as amended. Persons resident outside India are permitted to invest in India, subject to the FDI Policy except in those sectors/activities which are prohibited. However, effective April 22, 2020, government approval is required for investment by an entity of a country which shares land border with India or where the beneficial owner of an investment into India is situated in or is a citizen of any such country (whereas previously, the approval requirement applied only to citizens or entities incorporated in Bangladesh or Pakistan). Further, an Indian company receiving FDI from Pakistan may not engage in sectors or activities pertaining to defense, space, and atomic energy or sectors or activities prohibited for foreign investment.

Foreign investment is permitted under two routes: the government route and the automatic route, subject to sector-specific caps and guidelines, except for prohibited activities, viz. (1) lottery business; (2) gambling and betting; (3) chit funds; (4) nidhi companies; (5) trading in transferable development rights; (6) real estate business or construction of farmhouses; (7) manufacturing of cigars, cheroots, cigarillos, and cigarettes of tobacco or tobacco substitutes; (8) activities/sectors not open to private sector investment, for example, (a) atomic energy and (b) railway operations (other than permitted activities mentioned in paragraph (3) of Schedule I of Non-debt Instruments Rules, 2019); and (9) foreign technology collaboration in any form including licensing for franchise, trademark, brand name, and management contract is also prohibited for lottery business and gambling and betting activities.

Further, there are other sectors where foreign investment is permitted with certain terms and conditions as stated in paragraph (3) of Schedule I of Non-debt Instruments Rules, 2019. If the activity is not stated in paragraph (3) of Schedule I and not under financial services specifically indicated in the Rules, foreign investment up to 100% is permitted under the automatic route. Foreign investment in financial services not specifically indicated in the Rules requires prior approval of GOI.

FDI is permitted in following sectors with prior approval of the government:

(1) Defense, air transport service (scheduled and regional air transport), telecom services, up to 49% under automatic route; (2) brownfield pharmaceuticals up to 74% under automatic route and beyond 74% under government route; (3) private sector banking up to 49% under automatic route and beyond 49% and up to 74% under government route; (4) private security agencies up to 49% under government route; (5) mining and mineral separation of titanium-bearing minerals and ores, food product retail trading, publishing and printing of scientific and technical magazines, publication of facsimile edition of foreign newspapers, and establishment and operation of satellite, capped at 100%; (6) multi-brand retail trading, capped at 51% under government route; (7) investment by foreign airlines and broadcasting content service, capped at 49% under government route; (8) publication of newspapers and periodicals dealing with news and current affairs and publication of Indian editions of foreign magazines dealing with news and current affairs, capped at 26% under government route; and (9) public sector banking, capped at 20% under government route.

Under the automatic route, there are only six sectors in which investments are subject to a cap of 49%: petroleum refining by public sector companies, infrastructure company in the securities market, commodity spot exchanges, insurance companies, pension sector, and power exchanges.

Foreign investment is allowed up to 100% through the automatic route in the following sectors: (1) agricultural activities such as floriculture and horticulture; (2) pisciculture; (3) plantation sector; (4) mining of metals and non-metal ores, coal, and lignite; (5) manufacturing; (6) broadcasting carriage and content service; (7) airports (greenfield and brownfield), airport transport service (non-scheduled flights and helicopter services), ground handling services and maintenance and repair and flying training organizations; (8) construction development; (9) new and existing industrial parks; (10) wholesale and B2B e-commerce trading, and duty-free shops; (11) railway infrastructure (though proposals involving FDI beyond 49% may be considered on a case-to-case basis); (12) asset reconstruction companies, credit information companies, other financial services regulated by financial sector regulators; (13) pharmaceuticals (greenfield); (14) exploration activities of oil and natural gas fields; (15) single-brand product retail trading; (16) real estate broking service; and (17) investing companies if it is registered with the RBI and accordingly regulated.

The following criteria are mentioned under the automatic route subject to certain terms and conditions: (1) creation of charge over shares of JV/WOS/SDS in favor of domestic/overseas lenders; (2) creation of charge over the domestic assets in favor of overseas lenders to the JV/WOS/SDS; and (3) creation of charge over overseas assets in favor of domestic lenders.

NRIs and OCIs may use funds derived from new remittances or held in their NRE or FCNR accounts (1) to make portfolio investments with repatriation benefits of up to 5% of the paid-up capital, provided their total holdings of shares and convertible debentures held under the PIS do not exceed 10% (extendable to 24% if the general meeting of the investing company passes a special board resolution) of the paid-up capital of the company or of the total paid-in value of each series of its convertible debentures issued by the company; (2) for

existing JV companies to raise the ratio of foreign equity shares to prescribed percentages of their capital through expansion of their capital base or through preferential allocation of shares to foreign investors; and (3) to invest on a non-repatriation basis in money market MFs (only NRIs). Any funds payable by the Indian company to a person resident outside India, the remittance of which is permitted under the Act or the rules and regulations framed or directions issued thereunder or does not require prior permission of the Central Government or the Reserve Bank under the Act or the rules and regulations framed or directions issued thereunder or has been permitted by the Reserve Bank under the Act or the rules and regulations framed or directions issued thereunder, may be converted to equity subject to specified conditions (Res. No. 3. Notification No. FEMA 315/2014-RB of July 10, 2014). Indian companies may issue capital instruments against swap of capital instruments; imports of capital goods, machinery, equipment (excluding second-hand machinery), and preoperative/pre-incorporation expenses up to a limit of 5% of its authorized capital or US$500,000 whichever is less (including payments of rent, etc.), subject to specified conditions.	Yes.	Shares may be sold freely on the stock exchange and the sale proceeds may be repatriated. Other sales of shares, securities, and immovable property may be allowed by authorized banks after complying with conditions prescribed by the RBI. RBI approval is required only for sales of shares when preconditions and norms have not been fulfilled. Repatriation of after-tax sales proceeds is generally permitted. Investment on a non-repatriation basis is permitted only for NRIs and OCIs where for investment on non-repatriation basis, the sale proceeds cannot be repatriated outside and have to be credited only to the NRO account of the investor.
Controls on liquidation of direct investment	Yes.	These transactions require RBI permission.
Controls on real estate transactions	Yes.	Residents may hold, own, or transfer immovable property outside India, provided such property was acquired while the person resided outside India or was obtained through inheritance or as a gift from a person resident in India holding it in accordance with FEMA provisions. That person is also free to dispose of such property or acquire new property from the sale proceeds of such property. Residents may buy immovable property abroad using RFC accounts. A resident individual may make remittances for the acquisition of immovable property within the LRS limit of US$250,000, subject to verification of the transactions by the AD bank. General permission has been granted to Indian companies with established offices abroad to acquire immovable property abroad for their business use and for staff residences.

ADs can also extend loans to clients maintaining RFC account, against the security of funds held in such account; and to other ADs subject to the directions or guidelines issued by the RBI from time to time. ADs can also borrow from financial institutions outside India for the purpose of granting pre-shipment or post-shipment credit to their exporter clients in India.

INDIA

Select institutions, other than ADs, may extend loans to their clients in India for the purpose of onward lending, on the condition that these loans are out of the foreign currency borrowings raised by these institutions and subject to the approval of the Central Government.

Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange n.a.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange Yes.

Reserve requirements No.

There is no differential treatment of foreign exchange deposits. Effective March 28, 2020, the cash reserve ratio (CRR) was set at 3% (previously 4%) of the net demand and time liabilities (NDTL) of scheduled commercial banks. The CRR was increased to 3.50%, effective March 27, 2021, and to 4.00%, effective May 22, 2021. Credit balances in ACU dollar accounts, net interbank liabilities, and liabilities of banks' offshore banking units etc. are exempt. The daily minimum CRR maintenance is 90% of requirement. However, this was reduced to 80% effective March 28, 2020. This dispensation is available for a period up to September 2020.

Effective February 14, 2020, deduction of an amount equivalent to the incremental loans extended in specific sectors (that is, retail loans to automobiles, residential housing, and loans to micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSME)) during February 2020 to July 2020 has been allowed. This dispensation for the reservable liabilities (NDTL) is available for a maximum period of 5 years, that is, up to the fortnight ending January 24, 2025, or the tenure of the loan, whichever is earlier. Banks can claim the first such deduction from the NDTL of February 14, 2020, for the amount equivalent to the incremental credit extended to the sectors indicated above over the outstanding level of credit as at the end of the fortnight ended January 31, 2020.

Effective February 5, 2021, scheduled Commercial Banks have been allowed to deduct the amount equivalent to credit disbursed to "New MSME borrowers" from their NDTL for calculation of the CRR. For the purpose of this exemption, "New MSME borrowers" are defined as those MSME borrowers who have not availed any credit facilities from the banking system as on January 1, 2021. This exemption will be available only up to ₹25 lakh a borrower disbursed up to the fortnight ending October 1, 2021 (extended till December 31, 2021), for a period of one year from the date of origination of the loan or the tenure of the loan, whichever is earlier.

"Scheduled bank" is defined as a bank included in the Second Schedule of the RBI Act, 1934. Scheduled banks must keep a CRR with the RBI under Section 42 of that law. Other banks must maintain a prescribed CRR under the Banking Regulation Act, 1949.

Liquid asset requirements No.

There is no differential treatment of foreign exchange deposits. Banks are subject to a statutory liquidity ratio (SLR), which is based on both domestic and foreign currency liabilities and is set at 18% of NDTL.

Interest rate controls Yes.

Banks' interest rates on FCNR (B) deposits (held by NRIs) are subject to a ceiling of LIBOR/swap rate plus 200 bps (for maturities of 1–3 years) and LIBOR/swap plus 300 bps (for maturities of 3–5 years).

The LIBOR/swap rate as of the last business day of the preceding month, as quoted by Foreign Exchange Dealers Association of India, is used as the basis for the ceiling rates.

Credit controls No.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents Yes.

Liquid asset requirements	No.	There is no differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents.
Interest rate controls	Yes.	Interest rates on resident deposits are not regulated. However, banks are required to set uniform interest rates on savings-deposit balances of up to Rs 100,000 (irrespective of the amount in the account), but are allowed to provide differential rates on balances above Rs 100,000 (as long as it does not discriminate between deposits accepted on the same date). Banks can also offer differential rates on bulk term deposits. Banks are free to determine interest rates on NRE/NRO (rupee-denominated) savings and term deposits. However, interest rates on NRE/NRO savings deposits should be set following the same conditions as for rupee deposits, while interest rates on NRE/NRO term deposits should not exceed those offered on comparable domestic rupee deposits. Banks' interest rates on FCNR (B) (foreign-currency-denominated) deposits are subject to a ceiling of LIBOR/swap rate plus 200 bps (for deposits with maturities of 1–3 years) and LIBOR/swap rate plus 300 bps (for deposits with maturities of 3–5 years).

and portfolio balancing purposes; (7) short-term deposits with overseas investment-grade banks; and (8) units/securities issued by overseas MFs or unit trusts registered with overseas regulators.

Effective June 3, 2021, MFs registered with SEBI are permitted per MF to invest abroad up to a maximum of US$1 billion (previously US$300 million a MF), within the overall industry limit of US$7 billion.

Investments are permitted in: (1) ADRs/GDRs of Indian and foreign companies; (2) equities of overseas companies listed on recognized overseas stock exchanges, including initial and follow-up public; (3) foreign investment-grade debt securities in countries with fully convertible currencies; (4) money market investment-grade investments, including repos with investment-grade counterparties; (5) G-Secs of countries rated at investment grade; (6) derivatives traded on recognized overseas stock exchanges, but only for hedging and portfolio balancing purposes; (7) short-term deposits with overseas investment-grade banks; and (8) units/securities issued by overseas MFs or unit trusts registered with overseas regulators. MFs are also subject to an aggregate investment ceiling on exposures to overseas ETF(s) that invest in securities of US$1 billion, subject to a maximum of US$300 million a MF.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally

Yes.

MFs are subject to investment concentration limits as provided in the SEBI (MFs) Regulations, 1996, and circulars issued thereunder. Excerpts of the broad provisions in this regard are as under:

A MF scheme may not invest in unlisted debt instruments including commercial papers, except G-Secs, other money market instruments, and derivative products such as interest rate swaps, IRF, etc., which are used by MFs for hedging. However, MF schemes may invest in unlisted non-convertible debentures up to a maximum of 10% of the debt portfolio of the scheme subject to certain conditions.

All investments by a MF scheme in equity shares and equity related instruments must only be made, provided such securities are listed or to be listed.

Effective May 1, 2020, investment in unrated debt and money market instruments, other than G-Secs, treasury bills, and derivative products such as interest rate swaps and IRF by MF schemes is capped at 5%.

Effective January 1, 2020, restrictions have been specified on Investment in debt instruments having Structured Obligations/Credit Enhancements.

Effective April 1, 2020, restrictions have been specified on Investment in debt instruments with special features like subordination to equity (loss absorption before equity) and/or convertible to equity on trigger of a pre-specified event for loss absorption. Effective April 1, 2021, prudential limits have been updated so that a MF under all its schemes should not own more than 10% of such instruments issued by a single issuer and having special features as mentioned above, and an individual MF scheme may not invest more than 10% of its NAV in such instruments with special features as mentioned above and more than 5% of its NAV in such instruments issued by a single issuer.

A MF scheme may not invest more than 10% of its NAV in debt instruments comprising money market instruments and non-money market instruments issued by a single issuer which are rated not below investment grade by a credit rating agency authorized to carry out such activity. The limit may be raised to 12%, subject to prior approval by the Board of Trustees and the Board of Directors of the asset management company (AMC).

A MF under all its schemes should not own more than 10% of units issued by a single issuer of Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT) and Infrastructure Investment Trust (InvIT), and an individual MF scheme may not invest more than 10% of its NAV in the units of REIT and InvIT, and more than 5% of its NAV in the units of REIT and InvIT issued by a single issuer.

MF schemes are also subject to a limit on exposures to a single sector in debt-oriented MF schemes (excluding investments in bank CDs, collateralized borrowing and lending obligation (CBLO), G-Secs, T-Bills, and AAA-rated securities issued by Public Financial Institutions, Public Sector Banks, and short-term deposits of scheduled commercial banks) set at 20% of NAV effective April 1, 2020, for existing schemes and October 1, 2019, for new schemes and fresh exposures by existing schemes (previously 25%). A further exposure to the financial services sector (over the 20% limit), but not exceeding 10% of the scheme's NAV, is allowed only via an increase in exposure to Housing Finance Companies (HFCs), provided the HFCs are rated at AA or above and are registered under Section 29A of the National Housing Bank, 1987. Further, effective April 1, 2020, for existing schemes and October 1, 2019, for new schemes and fresh exposures by existing schemes, an additional exposure of 5% of the net assets of the scheme has been allowed for investments in securitized debt instruments based on retail housing loan portfolio and/or affordable housing loan portfolio, and the aggregate investment exposure to HFCs cannot exceed 20% (previously 25%). The additional exposure limits provided for HFCs in financial services sector have been capped at 10% (previously 15%).

A MF scheme should not park more than 10% of NAV in short-term deposits at a single scheduled commercial bank including its subsidiaries. No MF scheme must park more than 15% of their net assets in short-term deposits of all scheduled commercial banks put together. This limit, however, may be raised to 20% with prior approval of the Trustees.

No MF under all its schemes should own more than 10% of any company's paid-up capital carrying voting rights.

No MF scheme must make any investment in:

- (1) any unlisted security of an associate or group company of the sponsor or
- (2) any security issued by way of private placement by an associate or group company of the sponsor or
- (3) the listed securities of group companies of the sponsor which is in excess of 25% of the net assets.

No MF scheme must invest more than 10% of its NAV in the equity shares or equity-related instruments of any company.

MFs/AMCs must ensure that total exposure of debt schemes of MFs in a group (excluding investments in securities issued by Public Sector Units, Public Financial Institutions, and Public Sector Banks) do not exceed 20% of the net assets of the scheme. Such investment limit may be extended to 25% of the net assets of the scheme with the prior approval of the Board of Trustees.

However, the investments by debt MF schemes in debt and money market instruments of group companies of both the sponsor and the asset management company may not exceed 10% of the net assets of the scheme. Such investment limit may be extended to 15% of the net assets of the scheme with the prior approval of the Board of Trustees.

A MF scheme's exposure to repo transactions in corporate debt securities is capped at 10% of the scheme's NAV. The cumulative exposure through repo transactions in corporate debt securities, equity, debt, and derivatives should not exceed 100% of the scheme's NAV.

MF schemes may participate in ETCDs of a particular goods (single), not exceeding 10% of NAV of the scheme. However, the limit of 10% is not applicable for investments through Gold ETFs in ETCDs having gold as underlying. In case of multi assets allocation schemes, the exposure to ETCDs may not be more than 30% of the NAV of the scheme. In case of other hybrid schemes excluding multi-assets allocation scheme, the participation in ETCDs may not exceed 10% of NAV of the scheme.

Over the counter

09/01/2020

The directions were revised (announced April 7, 2020) to make it easier for users, both residents and nonresidents, to access the domestic foreign exchange derivative markets, through (1) merging facilities for residents and nonresidents into a single unified facility for all users; (2) allowing users having valid exposures to hedge the same by using any available instrument; (3) introducing facility to hedge anticipated exposures; (4) no restriction on rebooking of cancelled contracts; and (5) simplifying procedures for ADs to offer foreign exchange derivatives. According to these directions, AD banks must classify the user either as a retail user or as a non-retail user. Retail user can only enter into Forwards, purchase of call and put options (only European options), purchase of call and put spreads, swaps. Non-retail users can be offered any derivative contract including covered options.

Forward exchange market

Residents and nonresidents may access the domestic exchange-traded currency derivatives market to hedge contracted exposures. Residents as well as nonresidents can take positions (long or short), without having to establish existence of underlying exposure, up to a single limit of US$100 million equivalent across all currency pairs involving INR, put together, and combined across all exchanges. A long position exceeding these limits in any exchange requires establishment of an underlying exposure. Previously, these provisions were in place as separate facilities for residents, on the one hand, and for foreign portfolio investors eligible to invest Indian debt and equity assets under the Foreign Exchange Management Act of 1999, on the other hand. The facilities for residents and nonresidents for hedging of foreign exchange risk have now been merged into a single unified facility.

Residents and nonresidents may enter into derivative contracts involving INR as per their classification as retail or non-retail with the ADs to hedge anticipated or contracted exposure. Further, for residents and nonresidents, there is no restriction in terms of purpose to enter into derivative contracts not involving INR. Users can freely cancel and rebook the derivative contracts.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements

Trade settlements can be made through ACU yen accounts, in addition to ACU dollar and ACU euro accounts. Trade settlements for members of ACU are permitted through nostro accounts of the commercial banks of ACU countries, that is, ACU dollar or ACU euro accounts or ACU yen accounts. Operations in ACU euro are, however, temporarily suspended since July 1, 2016.

Trade settlements for members of ACU are permitted through nostro accounts of the commercial banks of ACU countries, that is, ACU yen accounts, in addition to ACU dollar and ACU euro accounts. Operations in ACU euro are, however, temporarily suspended since July 1, 2016.

Imports and Import Payments

Financing requirements for imports

Advance payment requirements

01/23/2020

For making advance beyond US$500,000, a bank guarantee/standby LC from a reputable international bank is required. Previously, if inward remittance from the overseas buyer was not received before the outward remittance to the overseas supplier, the AD bank could handle such transactions by providing a facility based on commercial judgment. It must, however, have been assured that any such advance payment for the import leg beyond US$200,000 a transaction will be paid against a bank guarantee/LC from a reputable international bank, except in cases and to the extent payment for the export leg was received in advance.

Previously, the aggregate limit for investment by all FPIs could not exceed 24% of the total paid-up capital on fully diluted basis of the Indian company. The overall ceiling of 24% could be raised to the sectoral cap by a company through a special resolution passed by the Board of Directors and special resolution passed in the meeting of shareholders.
Bonds or other debt securities
Purchase locally by nonresidents	01/23/2020	The short-term investment limit (maturity up to one year) by foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) in Central Government securities and in corporate bonds was increased from 20% to 30%. These stipulations will not apply to investments in “Exempted Securities” by FPIs.
	01/23/2020	The Voluntary Retention Route was amended to introduce additional relaxations and an increase of the investment limit from Rs 75,000 crores to Rs 150,000 crores.
	04/01/2020	Certain specified categories of Central Government securities (G-Secs) were opened fully for nonresident investors without any restrictions, apart from being available to domestic investors as well, under the Fully Accessible Route. Additionally, all new issuances of Central G-Secs of 5-, 10-, and 30-year tenors from the financial year 2020–2021 will be eligible for investments under the Fully Accessible Route as “specified securities.”
	04/01/2020	The overall limit for foreign portfolio investor investment in corporate bonds was increased to 15% in fiscal year 2020–2021. Previously, it was set at 9% of outstanding stock of corporate bonds from fiscal year 2018–2019.
On money market instruments
Purchase locally by nonresidents	01/23/2020	The short-term investment limit by foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) in Central Government securities and corporate bonds was increased from 20% to 30%. These stipulations will not apply to investments in “Exempted Securities” by FPIs.
Purchase abroad by residents	06/03/2021	Mutual funds (MFs) registered with Securities and Exchange Board of India are permitted per MF to invest abroad up to a maximum of US$1 billion (previously US$300 million a MF), within the overall industry limit of US$7 billion.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	06/01/2020	All residents and nonresidents are permitted to participate in foreign exchange derivative markets for the purpose of hedging their foreign exchange exposure, that is, notional of derivatives cannot exceed the notional of underlying exposure. Previously, resident individuals, firms, and companies could book foreign exchange forward contracts up to US$1 million on the basis of a simple declaration without further documentation. Importers were permitted to book forward contracts, under the past performance route, up to 100% of the eligible limit. There was no prohibition against passing foreign exchange gain to the customer in the event of cancellation of a contract, and only contracts in excess of 75% were required to be delivered.
	09/01/2020	Similar to exchanges, users (residents and nonresidents) can book derivative contracts up to US$10 million equivalent of notional value (outstanding at any point in time) without the need to establish the existence of underlying exposure.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange
Reserve requirements

	02/14/2020	Deduction of an amount equivalent to the incremental loans extended in specific sectors (that is, retail loans to automobiles, residential housing, and loans to micro, small, and medium enterprises) during February 2020 to July 2020 has been allowed. This dispensation for the reservable liabilities (net demand and time liabilities (NDTL)) is available for a maximum period of 5 years, that is, up to the fortnight ending January 24, 2025, or the tenure of the loan, whichever is earlier. Banks can claim the first such deduction from the NDTL of February 14, 2020, for the amount equivalent to the incremental credit extended to the sectors indicated above over the outstanding level of credit as at the end of the fortnight ended January 31, 2020.
	03/28/2020	The cash reserve ratio (CRR) is set at 3% (previously 4%) of the net demand and time liabilities of scheduled commercial banks.
	03/28/2020	The daily minimum CRR maintenance was temporarily reduced to 80% from 90% until September 2020.
	02/05/2021	Scheduled Commercial Banks have been allowed to deduct the amount equivalent to credit disbursed to “New micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSME) borrowers” from their net demand and time liabilities for calculation of the cash reserve ratio. For the purpose of this exemption, “New MSME borrowers” are defined as those MSME borrowers who have not availed any credit facilities from the banking system as on January 1, 2021. This exemption will be available only up to ₹25 lakh a borrower disbursed up to the fortnight ending October 1, 2021 (extended till December 31, 2021), for a period of one year from the date of origination of the loan or the tenure of the loan, whichever is earlier.
	03/27/2021	The cash reserve ratio percentage is increased to 3.50% from 3.00%.
	05/22/2021	The cash reserve ratio percentage is increased to 4.00% from 3.5%.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	06/03/2021	Mutual funds (MFs) registered with Securities and Exchange Board of India are permitted per MF to invest abroad up to a maximum of US$1 billion (previously US$300 million a MF), within the overall industry limit of US$7 billion.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	01/01/2020	Restrictions have been specified on Investment in debt instruments having Structured Obligations/Credit Enhancements.
	04/01/2020	Existing open-ended mutual fund (MF) schemes must comply with the revised limits for sector exposure: MF schemes are subject to a limit on exposures to a single sector in debt-oriented MF schemes (excluding investments in bank CDs, collateralized borrowing and lending obligation, Government securities, T-Bills, and AAA-rated securities issued by Public Financial Institutions, Public Sector Banks, and short-term deposits of scheduled commercial banks) set at 20% of NAV for existing schemes (previously 25%). The aggregate investment exposure to Housing Finance Companies (HFCs) cannot exceed 20% (previously 25%). The additional exposure limits provided for HFCs in financial services sector have been capped at 10% (previously 15%). In addition to 10% exposure to HFC, an additional exposure of 5% of the net assets of the scheme has been allowed for investments in securitized debt instruments based on retail housing loan portfolio and/or affordable housing loan portfolio.
	04/01/2020	Restrictions have been specified on Investment in debt instruments with special features like subordination to equity (loss absorption before equity) and/or convertible to equity on trigger of a pre-specified event for loss absorption.
	05/01/2020	Investment in unrated debt and money market instruments, other than government securities, treasury bills, and derivative products such as interest rate swaps and interest rate futures by mutual fund schemes is capped at 5%.
	04/01/2021	Prudential limits have been updated so that a mutual fund (MF) under all its schemes should not own more than 10% of such instruments issued by a single issuer and having special features as mentioned above, and an individual MF scheme may not invest more than 10% of its NAV in such instruments with special features as mentioned above and more than 5% of its NAV in such instruments issued by a single issuer.

Floating	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating (adopted August 14, 1997). The exchange rate is determined by supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. Bank Indonesia (BI), however, may intervene—as part of a policy mix—whenever necessary to achieve the inflation target and to maintain macroeconomic stability.

The COVID-19 pandemic, which began to spread worldwide at the beginning of 2020, has caused global financial market uncertainty that spiked in March 2020. In response, the global policy was directed and was able to ease global financial market uncertainty and reduced the intensity of capital outflows from developing economies, accompanied by milder pressures on exchange rates in emerging market economies, including Indonesia.

In 2020, the Indonesian balance of payments recorded a US$2.6 billion surplus, continuing from a US$4.7 billion surplus in the previous year. This development was supported by a decrease in the current account deficit and surplus in the capital and financial account. The current account deficit in 2020 stood at US$4.5 billion (–0.4% of GDP); it declined from US$30.3 billion (–2.7% of GDP) in 2019. The narrower current account deficit resulted from limited export performance as a result of lower demand from trading partner countries affected by COVID-19 amid restrained imports due to weak domestic demand. Meanwhile, the capital and financial account in 2020 still recorded a surplus of US$7.9 billion in line with continued investor optimism regarding the domestic economic recovery and less uncertainty in global financial markets, especially in the second half of 2020. Congruently, the reserve asset position increased to US$131.7 billion, recorded at the end of December 2020, equivalent to 8.1 months of imports and service of the government’s external debt.

The trend continued until the second quarter of 2021 as the balance of payments remained solid, thereby reinforcing external resilience. The balance of payments recorded a low deficit of US$0.4 billion in the second quarter of 2021 on the back of a continued low current account deficit and continued capital and financial account surplus. The current account deficit in the second quarter of 2021 remained low despite increasing in line with the improvement in domestic economic activity. The current account recorded a US$2.2 billion deficit (0.8% of GDP) in the reporting period, higher than the previous quarter deficit of US$1.1 billion (0.4% GDP). The primary income deficit increased in line with a rise in yield payments in the form of dividends, which was influenced by better corporate performance during the reporting period. The services trade balance deficit also widened, partly because of an increasing transportation services deficit affected by rising import freight services payments. The capital and financial account remained in surplus in the second quarter of 2021, supported by direct investment and portfolio investment. The capital and financial account in the second quarter of 2021 posted a US$1.9 billion surplus (0.7% GDP), maintaining the previous quarter’s surplus of US$5.5 billion (2.0% GDP). The surplus stemmed from increasing net inflows of direct investment to US$5.3 billion, primarily attributable to equity capital instruments in line with the promising domestic economic outlook. Portfolio investments maintained net inflows of US$4.4 billion, slightly down from US$4.9 billion recorded in the previous quarter. This reflected the persistence of global financial market uncertainty because of increased US Treasury yield volatility and anticipation of Federal Reserve tapering. Other investment recorded a deficit, partly induced by rising repayment on maturing foreign loans. Indonesia’s official reserve assets stood at US$137.1 billion as of the end of June 2021, equivalent to the financing of 8.8 months of imports and service of the government’s external debt.

The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. The BI does not disclose data on its interventions.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes. Rates are as follows: The official foreign exchange reference rate is the Jakarta interbank spot dollar rate (JISDOR) for US dollars. The JISDOR represents the weighted average of US dollar–rupiah spot transactions in the interbank market within a specific window, captured in real time through the BI monitoring system. The JISDOR has been published since May 20, 2013, and is intended to be a market reference for US dollar–rupiah spot transactions in the domestic market. The JISDOR is published on every Indonesian business day. The official foreign exchange reference rate for non–US dollar currencies is the midrate of other BI foreign exchange transaction rates. The JISDOR and other foreign exchange midrates are used for BI accounting purposes. The BI foreign exchange transaction rates represent the bid–ask prices of foreign exchange rates against rupiah used for BI transactions with the government and other parties. The BI announces these rates every Indonesian business day. Since May 20, 2013, the calculation of BI foreign exchange transaction rates has been based on the JISDOR. The BI does not publish banknote rates since banknote transactions with third parties are no longer provided.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework

Yes. The BI’s monetary policy framework continues to adhere to an inflation target as the overriding objective (inflation-targeting framework/ITF). The ITF is implemented by applying policy interest rates as the monetary policy stance and interbank money market (PUAB) rates as operational targets. The experience of the 2008–09 global financial crisis made the central bank require sufficient flexibility to respond to the complexities of economic development and the strengthening role of the financial sector in influencing macroeconomic stability. Considering the lesson learned from the global financial crisis, the BI strengthened the ITF framework to the Flexible ITF, which continued to be based on important ITF elements such as public announcement of the inflation target and forward-looking monetary policy. The essence of the Flexible ITF is the flexibility to integrate monetary and financial system stability frameworks through a policy mix including monetary and macroprudential instruments, exchange rates, capital flows, and institutional strengthening, as well as optimal policy coordination and communication. Effective January 1, 2020, the government, in coordination with the BI, set the annual inflation target for 2020 at 3.0% ±1%, lower than the 2018–19 target of 3.5% ±1%. Specifically, the inflation target is year-over-year headline consumer price index (CPI) inflation at the end of the year. The BI announces inflation target accomplishment through the BI Annual Report,

Government and Central Bank	Yes.	The inflation target is set by the government (Ministry of Finance) in coordination with the BI. The inflation target is preceded by a discussion at the high-level meeting, attended by the BI governor and the government, represented by the Ministry of Finance, the coordinating minister for economic affairs, and other relevant ministries and institutions. The target is based on consensus at the high-level meeting forum discussing current inflation conditions, the risk of inflation pressure in the future, and the long-term inflation target. Furthermore, the BI addressed an official letter to the Ministry of Finance for the issuance of regulations for setting the inflation target. If the inflation target is not achieved during any given year, the BI must issue an explanation to the government as material for open explanations presented jointly by the government and the BI to the Indonesian Parliament and the public. There is no operational freedom to decide the target, but under extraordinary conditions that render the inflation target unrealistic, the government may change it after coordinating with the BI.

		(BI 7DDR). At the operational level, BI 7DDR is reflected in short-term money market interest rates, which are the operational targets of monetary policy. As of June 9, 2008, the BI uses the overnight interbank money market (PUAB O/N) interest rate as the operational target of monetary policy.
Policy rate	Yes.	The policy rate is the BI seven-day reverse repo rate (BI7DRR).
Target corridor band	No.
Other	No.
Accountability	Yes.	The BI communicates its monetary policy through various channels and publications, including press releases and press conferences after board meetings; the Monetary Policy Review/Report presenting the background for decisions made; Economic Report on Indonesia; and explanations provided directly to the public, the media, economic actors, market analysts, and academics.
Open letter	No.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	The BI submits the Policy Accountability Report on a quarterly basis to the House of Representatives (DPR) as a form of accountability for carrying out the duties and authorities set out in the law. Accountability for monetary policy is carried out through written submissions and verbal explanations of the implementation of monetary policy each quarter and of specific aspects of monetary policy as may be deemed necessary. The Policy Accountability Report was also submitted to the government and made available to the public for the purposes of transparency and coordination. Moreover, the BI also conducts a hearing with the Parliament regarding the BI's annual budget.
Other	Yes.	The BI announces accountability for inflation target accomplishment through the BI Annual Report, Monetary Policy Review/Report, Indonesian Economic Report, Quarterly Report to the Indonesian Parliament, and press releases, which can be accessed publicly.
Transparency	Yes.	BI policy communications use several channels of communication; that is, press releases of decisions of the board meeting; a press conference after the board meeting; publication of policy reports—that is, the Monetary Policy Review/Report, Financial Stability Report, Economic Report on Indonesia, and so forth; a quarterly report to the Parliament as part of accountability based on the Central Bank Act; and policy dialogue with the Parliament. Monetary policy communications provide information about recent economic developments, policy decisions pursued by the BI, and the outlook for the economy. Such information is provided to the public, Parliament, the media, business actors, market analysts, and academics.
Publication of votes	No.	Votes are not published. After board meetings, monetary policy decisions appear in the first paragraph of the press release. The paragraph outlines decisions made at the board meeting and reveals the policy direction that will be taken by the BI. There is no information published regarding voting of board members, whether on individual votes or on votes in favor or against a decision.
Publication of minutes	No.	Minutes are not published. The BI does not publish minutes for board meetings. All information regarding the meeting is published in a press release. Comprehensive information regarding economic development and prospects, as well as policy decisions, including background based on board meeting materials, is provided in monetary policy reviews and reports.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may freely set their exchange rates and commissions for transactions with clients. The BI regulates foreign exchange transactions against rupiah between commercial banks and domestic and foreign parties to strengthen and increase the governance of the foreign exchange market without restricting the use of the acquired foreign currency. Foreign exchange transactions above a certain threshold must be supported by documents on the underlying trade or investment transactions, with certain exemptions. Spot transactions must be settled in full on delivery. Derivative transactions may be settled in full or by netting for the purpose of rollover, early termination, or unwinding of the initial derivative transaction, but only if the client provides underlying documents.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	As of the end of December 2020, there were 76 commercial banks licensed for foreign exchange activity. Through BI Regulations Nos. 18/18/PBI/2016 and 18/19/PBI/2016, the purchases of foreign currency against rupiah by domestic and foreign party clients through spot transactions exceeding a certain threshold are subject to verification of supporting documents on the underlying transaction. Spot transactions must be settled in full; derivative transactions may be settled in full or by netting for the purpose of rollover, early termination, or unwinding of the initial derivative transaction as long as supported by underlying documents. The number of money changers as of August 2021 was 1,176 for nonbank money exchange activities.

Import licenses used as exchange licenses	No.
Other	Yes.	Cement and asbestos sheets, dry batteries, steel slabs, low-voltage electric cords, and electric light bulbs are subject to quality control. BI regulations stipulate that release of foreign exchange is subject to underlying documentation of import transactions. The Ministry of Trade (MOT) regulates import licensing (Minister of Trade Regulation No. 40/M-DAG/PER/8/2013).
Positive list	No.

INDONESIA

Negative list	Yes.	Imports from countries against which the UN has imposed a trade embargo are prohibited, as are imports from all sources of most secondhand goods and of certain other products. However, secondhand engines, their parts, and other capital goods may be imported by industrial firms for their own use or for reconditioning, in accordance with the guidelines of the MOT. Certain categories of agricultural imports, including foodstuffs, beverages, and fruits, may be imported only by registered importers designated by the MOT. The procurement policies of companies approved for the importation of fruit, alcoholic beverages, and chicken are evaluated annually by the government, although explicit quantitative restrictions are not placed on these products. There is an import ban on rice. The MOT defines the requirements for importers. Companies that meet the requirements must apply and are designated registered importers. These requirements aim to make import administration more orderly. Only the government-owned Bulog (Indonesian Bureau of Logistics, Badan Urusan Logistik/Bulog) may import medium-grade rice. Premium rice may be imported by licensed importers.
Open general licenses	Yes.	There is a registry of authorized importers that includes only Indonesian nationals, although foreign investors are permitted to import the items required for their own projects. Although imports are subject to licensing requirements, most of them are classified under the general importer license.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	No.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	Certain products receive preferential treatment within the framework of AFTA and the WTO. Import tariff is based on Harmonized System (HS) 2017. Certain products are granted preferential duties within the framework of the free trade area (FTA), Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA), and WTO. Generally, import tariff ranges from 0% to 5%. Changes in import tariff regulation are (1) Minister of Finance Regulation No. 06 of 2017 related to changes in 2012 HS Code to 2017 HS Code; (2) Minister of Finance Regulation No. 213 of 2017 related to changes in import tariff for environmental goods; (3) Minister of Finance Regulation No. 17 of 2018 related to changes in import tariff for diamonds, certain components for bicycles, and digital goods products; and (4) Minister of Finance Regulation No. 17 of 2020 related to changes in import tariff for petroleum coke and automotive components.
Taxes collected through the exchange system	Yes.	Effective, January 25, 2020, the government has lowered the limit on the value of imported goods subject to import duties from US$75 a shipment to US$3 a shipment according to Minister of Finance Regulation No. 199 of 2020.
State import monopoly	Yes.	Imports of certain goods remain restricted to approved importers. The government enterprise Pertamina imports lubricating oil and lubricating grease, and the Indonesian state-owned company Dahana imports ammunition and gel explosives. Licensed importers are permitted to import lubricating grease (as stated in the joint agreement between the Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources, MOF, and MOT Republic of Indonesia Nos. 1905 K/34/MEM/2001, 426/KMK.01/2001, and 233/MPP/Kep/7/2001). Imports of ammunition and gel explosives are not limited to Dahana. Other companies have been appointed to import ammunition and gel explosives in the interest of national security.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	All export proceeds must be received through the Indonesian banking system. Export proceeds derived from natural resource exports must be received in a special account (Reksus DHE SDA). These funds need not be kept in a domestic bank, and there are no restrictions on subsequent transfers abroad. There is also no obligation to convert the foreign exchange to domestic currency.
Surrender requirements	No.
Surrender to the central bank	No.
Documentation requirements	Yes.	MOT Regulation No. 04/M-DAG/PER/1/2015 as revised to MOT Regulation No. 67/M-DAG/PER/8/2015 (revision on the regulation attachment specifically on the scope of commodities) requires LCs for export payments for certain products from natural resources. Export payments must be made through an LC for exports of minerals, coal, crude palm oil, crude palm kernel oil, oil, and gas. Exports of other products that are not regulated in MOT Regulation No. 67/M-DAG/PER/8/2015 may be made on an LC or non-LC basis depending on the agreement between exporters and importers.
Letters of credit	No.	Export payments may be made on an LC or non-LC basis depending on the agreement between exporters and importers.
Guarantees	No.
Domiciliation	Yes.
Preshipment inspection	Yes.	Exports of goods containing imported material that is exempt from import taxes must be inspected before shipment. Effective, January 31, 2020, the government makes exceptions for industries that have the “ease of imports for export purposes” (KITE) facility for inspection before shipment.
Other	Yes.
Export licenses	Yes.	Exports are prohibited to countries against which the UN has imposed a trade embargo, as are exports to all countries of certain categories of unprocessed or low-quality rubber, brass, and copper scrap (except from the island of Irian Jaya), iron scrap, steel scrap, and antiques of cultural value. Exporters are required to obtain trade permits issued by the MOT.
Without quotas	Yes.	To meet domestic demand and encourage domestic processing of certain raw materials, exports of certain domestically produced commodities must have MOT authorization. Items affected by such controls include clove seeds, logs, fertilizer, cement, iron for construction reinforcement, automobile tires, paper, asphalt, stearin, cattle, salt, wheat flour, maize, soybeans, rice, copra, olein, raw rattan, meat, and all goods produced from subsidized raw materials. Concern about domestic price stability sometimes leads to the suspension of exports of various items in this category.
With quotas	Yes.	Manioc may be exported only by approved exporters. Textiles and textile products subject to import quotas in the consumer countries may be exported only by approved textile exporters, who may transfer their allocated quotas to other approved exporters through the Indonesian Commodity Exchange Board (ICEB, Bursa Komoditi Indonesia).

procedures. The purpose of the regulation is to ensure receipt of export proceeds through the Indonesian banking system. These funds need not be kept in a domestic bank, and there is no restriction on subsequent transfers abroad. There is also no obligation to convert the foreign exchange to domestic currency.

Surrender to the central bank	No.
Surrender to authorized dealers	No.
Controls on capital and money market instruments	Yes.
On capital market securities	Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Foreign investors are allowed to purchase without limit shares issued by Indonesian companies in the Indonesian capital market. There is a limit on the ownership of joint securities companies that are also finance companies.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Foreign companies are permitted to issue IDRs through custodian banks in Indonesia. IDRs are instruments that facilitate the trading of shares of foreign companies in the Indonesian capital market. Custodian banks, in turn, issue IDRs based on the shares that the foreign companies have in the custodian bank. Clarification of Article 1, Paragraph 15, of Law No. 8 of 1995 concerning the Capital Market states that “An ‘Offering’ within the territory of the Republic of Indonesia includes both domestic and foreign issuers, as well as offerings to both domestic and foreign investors, in compliance with the disclosure principle.” Accordingly, a public offering must be handled by professionals registered in the capital market as regulated in Article 64 of the Capital Market Law and other provisions in the capital market regulations—among others: Rule No. IX.A.1 concerning General Provisions of Registration Statement, Rule No. IX.A.2 concerning Registration Procedures for Public Offering, Otoritas Jasa Keuangan (OJK) Regulation No. 7/POJK.04/2017 concerning Registration Statement Documents for Public Offering of Equity and Debt Securities, and/or Sukuk and OJK Regulation No. 8/POJK.04/2017 concerning Form and Content of a Prospectus and Brief Prospectus for Public Offering of Equity Securities. An alternative to a direct public offering is of IDRs as stipulated in Rule No. IX.A.10 of Public Offerings of Indonesian Depositary Receipts.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Pension funds may not invest in securities abroad, and collective investment scheme (CIS) mutual funds may invest abroad only up to 15% of their net asset value (NAV). Protected mutual funds and guaranteed mutual funds may invest up to 30% of their NAV abroad.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	No controls apply as long as the shares are not listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange (IDX). Securities listed on the IDX must comply with the Capital Market Law and with the requirement concerning the maximum percentage of foreign ownership of shares. Effective February 17, 2020, OJK Regulation No. 8/POJK.04/2020 concerning Issuance of Foreign Depositary Receipts (FDRs) requires issuers or public companies wishing to issue FDRs to submit to OJK disclosure of information relating to the FDRs’ issuance plan. The information must include the involvement of the issuers or public companies in the FDRs’ issuance and the requirements issuers or public companies must fulfill for FDR issuance. Examples of FDRs are American depositary receipts (ADRs), Singapore depositary receipts (SDRs), and dan global depositary receipts (GDRs). Obligation to disclose

		material information is also regulated in OJK Regulation No. 31/POJK.04/2015 concerning Disclosure of Information or Material Facts by Issuers or Public Companies. If the FDR issuance meets the criteria of public offering as stipulated in the Capital Market Law, the issuers must follow the provisions of the public offering as set forth in, among others, Rule No. IX.A.1 concerning General Provisions of Registration Statement, Rule No. IX.A.2 concerning Registration Procedures for Public Offering, OJK Regulation No. 7/POJK.04/2017 concerning Registration Statement Documents for Public Offering of Equity and Debt Securities and/or Sukuk, and OJK Regulation No. 8/POJK.04/2017 concerning Form and Content of a Prospectus and Brief Prospectus for Public Offering of Equity Securities.
Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	In general, government bonds are issued in the primary market only through predetermined primary dealers. Nonresidents may purchase government bonds issued in the primary market through local primary dealers without limitation. In the secondary market, both resident and nonresident investors may purchase government bonds freely. However, government bonds issued specifically for individual and retail investors, called ORI (Indonesian retail bonds, obligasi negara ritel) and SR (retail sukuk, sukuk ritel), may be purchased in the primary market only by Indonesian investors through a predetermined selling agent. Since 2018, those retail instruments may be purchased only by resident investors, both individual and institutional, in the secondary market. No regulation explicitly limits the purchase of corporate bonds locally by nonresidents. Investment in other domestic bond markets and debt securities (that is, corporate bonds, commercial paper (CP), and CDs) is not clearly regulated in the context of nonresident transactions—thus, such transactions are carried out in practice and are considered free of capital controls.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	No.	There are no regulations concerning the sale of bonds and other debt securities locally by nonresidents, and thus this type of activity is considered to be free of capital controls. The regulations on the issuance of bonds do not differentiate between residents and nonresidents and, therefore, this type of activity is also considered to be free of capital controls. Clarification of Article 1 Paragraph 15 of Law No. 8 of 1995 concerning the Capital Market states that “An ‘offering’ within the territory of the Republic of Indonesia includes both domestic and foreign issuers, as well as offerings to both domestic and foreign investors, in compliance with the disclosure principle.” According to this condition, the public offering must be handled by professionals registered in the capital market as regulated in Article 64 of the Capital Market Law and other provisions in the capital market regulations, among others: Rule No. IX.A.1 concerning General Provisions of Registration Statement. Rule No. IX.A.2 concerning Registration Procedures for Public Offering, OJK Regulation No. 7/POJK.04/2017 concerning Registration Statement Documents for Public Offering of Equity and Debt Securities and/or Sukuk, and OJK Regulation No. 9/POJK.04/2017 concerning Form and Content of a Prospectus and Brief Prospectus for Public Offering of Debt Securities. An alternative to direct public offering is publication of IDRs as stipulated in Rule No. IX.A.10 of Public Offerings of Indonesian Depository Receipts.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Purchases of bonds and other debt securities abroad are regulated only for pension funds, which may not invest in securities abroad, and domestic mutual fund companies as follows: CIS mutual funds may invest abroad up to 15% of their NAV, and protected mutual

		funds and guaranteed mutual funds may invest up to 30% of their NAV abroad, for prudential purposes. No regulations explicitly limit purchases abroad by other resident investors.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The sale of bonds or other debt securities abroad by residents is not clearly regulated and is considered free of capital controls. The issuance of bonds or other debt securities abroad is subject to the same regulations that apply to resident investors who issue these securities locally, and in this respect, this activity is considered to be free of capital controls, with the exception of issuance of securities with maturities of more than one year, which is subject to BI approval. However, the issuer under the supervision of Indonesia's Financial Services Authority (FSA) must fulfill the principles of disclosure, which are regulated by the FSA, among others, giving notice of a public offering abroad as stipulated in OJK Regulation No. 31/POJK.04/2015 concerning Disclosure of Information or Material Facts by Issuer or Public Company. Furthermore, if the issuance of securities is in the form of a public offering, the issuer must follow the provisions of the public offering as set forth in, among others, Rule No. IX.A.1 concerning General Provisions of Registration Statement, Rule No. IX.A.2 concerning Registration Procedures for Public Offering, OJK Regulation No. 7/POJK.04/2017 concerning Registration Statement Documents for Public Offering of Equity and Debt Securities and/or Sukuk, and OJK Regulation No. 9/POJK.04/2017 concerning Form and Content of a Prospectus and Brief Prospectus for Public Offering of Debt Securities.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	BI Regulation No.18/11/PBI/2016 Article 3 states that nonresidents may engage in money market transactions domestically, including sales and purchases of money market instruments such as negotiable CDs (NCDs), CP, and so forth. This provision applies to onshore money market instruments denominated both in rupiah and in foreign currency. However, regarding NCDs, BI Regulation No. 19/7/PADG/2017 Article 15 implies that while nonresidents may buy NCDs in the primary market, nonresidents may buy NCDs from other nonresidents only in the secondary market. Regarding money market instruments denominated in rupiah, nonresidents may purchase BI certificates (tradable BI certificates, sertifikat Bank Indonesia (SBIs)) in the secondary market. However, the minimum holding period for all investors (domestic and foreign) for purchases of SBIs in the primary and secondary markets is one week (Press Release No. 17/71/DKom of September 30, 2015). In addition, according to Article 4 BI Regulation No. 18/19/PBI/2016, purchases of rupiah against foreign currency and transfers of rupiah exceeding $1 million by nonresidents must have underlying trade or investment documentation, except for current accounts, savings accounts, time deposits, and NCDs.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Regarding issuance of domestic market instruments, BI Regulation No.18/11/PBI/2016 Article 8 states that only residents can issue domestic money market instruments. Residents as issuers must be registered with the BI to issue domestic money market instruments. However, for lending and borrowing transactions such as unsecured call money and repurchase agreement transactions, nonresidents may make transactions domestically.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Based on Article 4 BI Regulation No. 18/18/PBI/2016, residents may not purchase foreign currency against rupiah above a certain threshold for investment in offshore money market instruments; that is, current accounts, savings accounts, time deposits, and NCDs.

Sale or issue abroad by residents	No.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	According to BI Regulation No. 7/31/PBI/2005, banks may conduct foreign exchange or interest rate derivative transactions. When performing foreign exchange transactions, banks must enter into a written agreement with their clients and explain the risks. In addition, banks must have written internal guidelines and must report their foreign exchange transactions against rupiah through an online daily reporting system to the BI. Banks must ensure that their customers submit underlying supporting documents for the derivative transactions and administer those documents. Banks may not incur losses from derivative transactions exceeding 10% of their capital, engage in margin trading on foreign currency against rupiah, or maintain derivatives exposure to their branches or subsidiaries. BI Regulations Nos. 18/18/PBI/2016 and 18/19/PBI/2016 state that derivative transactions against rupiah, which are permitted by domestic banks, are limited to forward, swap, option, cross-currency swap, and call spread options. As of September 28, 2018, based on BI Regulation No. 20/10/PBI/2018, banks may also conduct domestic nondeliverable forward transactions against rupiah with foreign parties. Transactions involving sales to and/or purchases from foreign parties of foreign currency derivatives against rupiah are limited to the equivalent of US$1 million a customer and a position (outstanding) of the respective sale and purchase of derivative transactions a bank. Derivatives contracts of foreign currency against rupiah offered by domestic banks to nonresidents with nominal value exceeding US$1 million must be supported by underlying transactions. Underlying transactions include transactions related to trade of goods and services, both domestic and foreign, and/or investments in the form of FDI, portfolio investment, loans, and capital and other investments, both domestic and foreign. Derivative transactions may be settled fully or by netting for the purpose of rollover, early termination, or unwinding of the initial derivative transaction. Netting is for transactions with a nominal value not exceeding US$1 million and is permitted if supported by underlying transactions from the initial derivative transactions. There are no restrictions for non-rupiah derivative transactions (foreign exchange and interest rate). As of June 26, 2018, BI Regulation No. 20/13/PBI/2018 allows banks to engage in interest rate derivative transactions (in rupiah) with residents under certain requirements, and with nonresidents.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Underlying documents are required for derivative transactions exceeding US$1 million a transaction a foreign party or a position. For call spread options and domestic nondeliverable forwards (DNDFs), all transactions must have underlying documents.

Inward direct investment	Yes.	Effective, March 4, 2021, as part of the implementing regulations to the Omnibus Law (Law No. 11 of 2020), the government introduced investment business activities, under Presidential Regulation No. 10 of 2021 on Investment Business Activities Junto Presidential Regulation No. 49 of 2021, to replace the negative investment list under Presidential Regulation No. 44 of 2016 and Presidential Regulation No. 76 of 2007. Permitted and restricted sectors have been simplified, and instead of navigating a long list of businesses that foreign investors cannot invest in, they can now target the desired business and comply with the necessary conditions. All business sectors on the investment business activities list are open to foreign investment unless expressly prohibited; can be carried out only by the central government; or are allocated to, or require partnership with, cooperatives and micro, small, and medium-sized enterprises (MSMEs). As on the previous negative investment list, the list of business sectors in investment business activities refers to the classification of sectors set out in the Indonesian business sector classifications.

Presidential Regulation No. 10 of 2021 on Investment Business Activities Junto Presidential Regulation No. 49 of 2021 includes three appendixes. Appendix I, List of Priority Business Activities, lists business activities that satisfy the following criteria: (1) nationally strategic project/program; (2) capital-intensive; (3) labor-intensive; (4) advanced technology; (5) pioneer industry; (6) export oriented; and/or (7) oriented toward research, development, and innovation activities. This list includes 246 (groups of) business activities in important sectors (transportation, energy, distribution, construction services, media, telecommunications) eligible for fiscal incentives of tax allowance, tax holiday, or investment allowance. Appendix I is not an exhaustive list: there are still available fiscal incentives in accordance with the provisions of laws and regulations—among them, super tax deduction for vocational expenses, super tax deduction for research and development expenses, import duty exemption for the importation of capital goods for the power plant industry, import duty exemption for the importation of machinery and raw and auxiliary materials for manufacturing and selected service industries, import duty exemption/reduction and/or VAT exemption for the importation of goods for contract of work/coal contract of work, as well as more generous tax allowance and tax holiday programs in special economic zones.

Appendix II, List of 106 (Group of) Business Activities Allocated to, or Requiring Partnership with, Cooperatives and Micro, Small, and Medium-Sized Enterprises, lists business activities allocated to cooperatives and MSMEs; namely, those (1) not using technology or using simple technology; (2) with specific processes that are labor-intensive in nature and that have special and cultural significance; and (3) requiring capital not exceeding Rp 10 billion, excluding the value of land and buildings. Business activities requiring partnership with cooperatives and MSMEs are those undertaken mostly by cooperatives and MSMEs and/or encouraged to enter the large-scale enterprise supply chain. Ministry of Investment/Indonesia Investment Coordinating Board (BKPM), the minister of cooperatives and small and medium micro enterprises, and the coordinating minister for economic affairs strive to make the law fair for large enterprises and MSMEs. Large enterprises are expected to collaborate with local MSMEs where their projects are located in order to promote equitable economic growth across regions in Indonesia. In addition, partnership is a requirement of application for BKPM fiscal incentives.

Appendix III, List of Business Activities with Certain Requirements, includes 37 (groups of) business activities reserved for domestic investors, with foreign ownership maximums or special license requirements, as well as 3 strictly limited business activities supervised under specific regulations.

Less restriction of business activities through Presidential Regulation No. 10 of 2021 on Investment Business Activities Junto Presidential Regulation No. 49 of 2021 is expected to promote Indonesia as a preferred location for businesses engaged in labor-intensive manufacturing, export-oriented manufacturing, the pharmaceutical and medical devices industry, renewable energy, infrastructure, and mining industry with added value. These industries will receive strong support and beneficial incentives from the government. There will be more opportunities to enter into new business and to restructure or expand current investment business activities.

Previously, several sectors were on the negative investment list (DNI, Daftar Negatif Investasi) and were subject to controls: (1) Foreign companies investing in infrastructure projects, such as seaports and airports, land transportation facilities, small capacity electricity generation, shipping, airlines, potable water supply, and nuclear electricity power generation, did not have to be established as public-private partnerships; however, public-private partnerships were permitted higher foreign shareholding. (2) Maximum foreign shareholding, varying from 30% to 95%, was also imposed on other sectors, such as agriculture, telecommunications, distribution and storage, finance, mining, education, and health. (3) In all sectors not listed on the DNI, a foreign investment company could be established as a straight investment; that is, 100% of the shares could be owned by a foreign citizen and/or entity. However, some shares had to be sold to Indonesian citizens and/or entities through direct placement and/or indirectly through the domestic capital market no later than 15 years after the start of commercial operations.

Divestment of foreign ownership of direct investments had to begin within the time stipulated by Law No. 25 of 2007. Foreign enterprises were eligible for the following:

(1) Facility for exemption from import duty on imports of machines, goods, and materials:

Enterprises were eligible to receive preferential customs duty treatment for imports of required raw materials and machines subject to certain conditions as prescribed in various government regulations. The procedures and mechanism for exemption from import duty on imports of machines, goods, and materials were stipulated in BKPM Regulation No. 6 of 2018 on Guidelines and Procedures for Investment Licensing and Facilities.

(2) Tax allowance: Enterprises were also eligible to receive an income tax facility, stipulated in the regulations.

(3) Tax holiday: Income tax waivers could be granted to newly established corporations pursuant to the requirements set within government regulations. BKPM Regulation No. 5 of 2018 contains details of business fields and pioneer industry products that can be granted corporate income tax reduction and procedures for granting the reduction. According to PMK 35, reduction of corporate income tax (tax holiday) may be granted to newly established corporations for no less than 5 years and for up to 20 years, depending on its investment value.

(4) Foreign workers: Hiring of foreign workers must comply with Presidential Regulation No. 20 of 2018 on the Use of Foreign Workers, which stipulates the procedure for use of foreign workers. Moreover, it also stipulates certain positions that foreign workers may not fill, as stipulated by the minister of manpower.

(5) Divestment provisions: Some shares must be sold to Indonesian citizens and/or entities through direct placement within the time stipulated by prevailing laws and regulations depending on the sector.

Banks must take into account the regulation on the net open position (NOP, posisi devisa netto) aimed at prudential control, which states that banks must take into account every exposure in foreign exchange when calculating the NOP.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	Banks may purchase locally issued bonds denominated in foreign exchange subject to BI approval for foreign exchange transactions. Banks must also take into account the regulation on the NOP aimed at prudential control, which states that banks must include every exposure in foreign exchange in calculating the NOP. Specifically, the CP must have an investment grade and may not be issued by a bank's own group. Banks may not purchase any CP issued by firms with nonperforming loans classified as "doubtful" or "loss."
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	In 2020, there were several changes in the reserve requirement regulations to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic, as stipulated by the following: Member of the Board of Governors Regulation No. 21/27/PADG/2019, effective January 2, 2020: conventional commercial banks: The rupiah reserve requirement is 5.5% (previously 6%) of third party funds in rupiah and must be met as follows: (1) 2.5% daily reserve requirement and (2) 3% average reserve requirement. 		currency with a risk weight of more than 0% that can be considered a level 1 high-quality liquid asset is equal to the bank's net cash outflow needs in such foreign currency
Interest rate controls	No.	There is no difference in the treatment of deposit accounts in foreign and domestic currency.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.
Reserve requirements	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.
Investment regulations	Yes.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	Effective October 31, 2021, capital limitations on foreign equity participation were eased as long as a bank is assessed by the OJK as capable of carrying out such activities. On July 30, 2021, the OJK issued POJK No. 13/POJK.03/2021 regarding Product Establishment of Commercial Banks, revoking the previous regulation, POJK No. 6/POJK.03/2016, and the limitation it sets forth. This POJK will be effectively implemented three months after its issuance on October 31, 2021.
		Previously, according to POJK No. 36/POJK.03/2017, banks could undertake equity participation only in financial institutions, including leasing, venture capital, securities companies, insurance, and clearinghouse settlement institutions. Equity participation activities should be conducted on the basis of prudential principles. Banks had to obtain approval from the OJK for each equity participation in either domestic or overseas financial institutions. According to POJK No. 6/POJK.03/2016, only banks under the BUKU 3 (Tier 1 capital between Rp 5 trillion and Rp 30 trillion) and BUKU 4 categories (Tier 1 capital of Rp 30 trillion or more) were permitted equity participation in foreign financial institutions. This should be done in foreign currency. BUKU 3 banks were allowed to conduct equity participation only with financial institutions in Asia; BUKU 4 banks were not subject to any geographical limitation on equity participation and could inject a higher amount of equity than BUKU 3 banks.
		BI Regulation No. 18/19/PBI/2016 prohibits banks from performing transactions with foreign parties, including (1) interoffice claims in foreign currencies for provision of credit overseas and (2) foreign exchange transactions against rupiah related to structured products. Banks are prohibited from owning assets in the form of stocks or securities with an underlying reference stock. Banks are required to consolidate risk management in exercising control over subsidiary companies.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Equity participation of a foreign shareholder in a commercial bank may reach 99%. Foreign bank branches are not allowed to conduct temporary equity participation. In addition, foreign and domestic shareholders are subject to a cap on their ownership shares in an Indonesian bank based on their category (banks, nonbank financial institutions, nonfinancial institutions, individuals). All prospective controlling shareholders must pass the fit and proper requirement. To support this requirement, foreign legal entities must obtain a recommendation from the monetary authorities and/or bank supervisor of their country of origin. The recommendation must state at a minimum that the foreign legal entity has a good reputation and sound financial ability and has never committed an unethical act in the banking business. In addition, foreign shareholders must commit to necessary measures if the bank faces capital or liquidity difficulties.

Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	Banks must maintain a maximum overall (on- and off-balance-sheet) NOP of 20% of capital at the end of the working day. The capital charge to incorporate foreign exchange risk (under the market risk capital requirement) is based on 8% of the overall NOP. The NOP regulation is applied only for domestic banks.
On resident assets and liabilities	Yes.	There is a limit on the NOP (posisi devisa netto/PDN) of 20% of capital, based on BI Regulation No. 17/5/PBI/2015 concerning the fourth amendment to BI Regulation No. 5/13/PBI/2003 on NOP for Commercial Banks. Per Article 2, banks should manage and maintain the overall NOP at the end of the working day with a provisions maximum of 20% of capital.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.	Banks should manage and maintain the overall NOP at the end of the working day with a provisions maximum of 20% of capital, which applies to assets and liabilities whether from residents or nonresidents. In accordance with BI Regulation No. 7/37/PBI/2005 Article 2 Paragraphs (4) and (5), calculation of the NOP includes the difference between net assets and liabilities, taking into account the assets and liabilities of residents and nonresidents, so the restriction on the NOP also applies to the assets and liabilities of nonresidents. Article 2 (4): Assets in foreign currencies as referred to in Paragraph (2) Letter (a) and Paragraph (3) consist of cash, gold, demand deposits (including current accounts in the BI), deposits on call, time deposits, CDs, margin deposits, securities, loans, net value of negotiated export drafts, interoffice accounts of assets and other receivables, and foreign currency both of residents and of nonresidents. Article 2 (5): Liabilities in foreign currencies as referred to in Paragraph (2) Letter (a) and Paragraph (3) consist of demand deposits, deposits on call, time deposits, CDs, margin deposits, loans, import guarantees, interoffice account liabilities, income from other comprehensive securities of foreign currencies other than shares, and other liabilities in foreign currency to both residents and nonresidents.
Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Insurance and reinsurance companies may hold securities issued by nonresidents. In Article 9 OJK Regulation No. 71/POJK.05/2016 investment that is issued by nonresidents is considered to be investment allocated overseas. Article 10 of the regulation states that the sum of investments allocated overseas may not exceed 20% of total investments.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Insurance and reinsurance companies may hold investments abroad. Permitted investments are shares listed on the stock exchange, corporate bonds listed on the stock exchange, securities issued by countries other than Indonesia, securities issued by multinational organizations of which Indonesia is a member or shareholder, mutual funds, and/or private placements/direct investments (not listed on the stock exchange). For solvency measures, the prudential limits on investments held abroad are as follows: (1) For shares listed on the

		stock exchange, investments in a single issuer may not exceed 10% of total investments, and the sum of investments in all issuers may not exceed 40% of total investments. (2) For corporate bonds listed on the stock exchange and securities (issued by multinational organizations of which Indonesia is a member or shareholder), investments in a single issuer may not exceed 20% of total investments, and the sum of investments in all issuers may not exceed 50% of total investments. (3) For securities issued by countries other than Indonesia, investments in a single issuer may not exceed 10% of total investments. (4) For general mutual funds, investments with a single investment manager may not exceed 10% of total investments, and in all issuers may not exceed 20% of total investments; the sum of investments with all investment managers may not exceed 50% of total investments. For mutual funds in the form of a collective investment contract in a limited participation or private equity fund, investments with a single investment manager may not exceed 10% of total investments, and the sum of investments with all investment managers may not exceed 20% of total investments. (5) For private placements/direct investments (not listed on the stock exchange) the sum of all investments may not exceed 10% of total investments. (6) The sum of investments allocated overseas may not exceed 20% of total investments.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.	Although not explicit in the regulations, because the total of investments allocated overseas is limited to 20%, the investment portfolio held locally must be at least 80%.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	For solvency measures, insurance and reinsurance companies must provide additional funds to cover currency mismatches. The amounts required to cover foreign currency mismatch risk for a single foreign currency are (1) 30% of the sum of foreign currency liabilities minus admitted assets if the sum of admitted assets minus foreign currency liabilities is less than or equal to zero; (2) zero if the sum of admitted assets minus foreign currency liabilities is between 0% and 20% of total liabilities; and (3) 10% of the sum of admitted assets minus 120% of foreign currency liabilities if the sum of admitted assets minus foreign currency liabilities is more than 20% of total liabilities (OJK Circular Letter No. 24/SEOJK.05/2017, July 1, 2017).
Pension funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Pension funds in Indonesia are not allowed to invest in securities issued by nonresidents (OJK Regulation No. 3/POJK.05/2015).
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Based on OJK Regulation No. 29/POJK.05/2018, OJK no longer allows pension funds in Indonesia to invest abroad for private placement investments.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	OJK Regulation No. 29/POJK.05/2018 not only prohibits pension funds from private placements abroad, it also places percentage limitations on private placement investments, limited investment mutual funds, medium-term notes, and repurchase agreements.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	The maximum on investment portfolios held abroad includes the following: (1) CIS mutual funds may invest abroad up to 15% of NAV (OJK Regulation Number 23/POJK.04/2016). (2) Protected mutual funds and guaranteed mutual funds may invest abroad up to 30% of NAV (OJK Regulation No. 48/POJK.04/2015).

INDONESIA

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	The minimum on investment portfolios held locally includes the following: (1) At least 85% of CIS mutual fund NAV must be invested in locally issued, offered, or traded securities or debt securities issued abroad by the Indonesian government or an Indonesian company (OJK Regulation No. 23/POJK.04/2016). (2) At least 70% of protected mutual fund and guaranteed mutual fund NAV must be invested in locally issued, offered, or traded securities or debt securities issued abroad by the Indonesian government or an Indonesian company (OJK Regulation No. 48/POJK.04/2015).

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Exchange Arrangement

Monetary policy framework

Inflation-targeting framework	01/01/2020	The government, in coordination with the BI, set the annual inflation target for 2020 at 3.0% ±1%, lower than the 2018–19 target of 3.5% ±1%.

	06/30/2021	The targeted incentive in the form of a relaxation of the fulfillment obligation of daily rupiah minimum statutory reserves by 50 basis points for banks conducting import-export financing, financing for small and medium enterprises, and financing for other priority sectors as part of macroprudential policy, ended.
Investment regulations
Abroad by banks	10/31/2021	Capital limitations on foreign equity participation were eased as long as a bank is assessed by the OJK capable of carrying out such activities. Previously, banks could undertake equity participation only in financial institutions, including leasing, venture capital, securities company, insurance, and clearinghouse settlement institutions. Equity participation activities should be conducted on the basis of prudential principles. Banks had to obtain approval from the OJK for each equity participation in either a domestic or overseas financial institution. Only banks under the BUKU 3 (Tier 1 capital between Rp 5 trillion and Rp 30 trillion) and BUKU 4 categories (Tier 1 capital of Rp 30 trillion or more) were allowed equity participation in foreign financial institutions. This should be done in foreign currency. BUKU 3 banks were allowed equity participation only in financial institutions in Asia; BUKU 4 banks were not subject to any geographical limitations on equity participation and could inject a higher amount of equity than BUKU 3 banks.

ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF IRAN

(Position as of June 30, 2021)

Status under IMF Articles of Agreement

Date of membership		December 28, 1945.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the 2018 Article IV Consultation with Islamic Republic of Iran states that, as of March 7, 2018, Iran maintained MCPs and an exchange restriction subject to IMF jurisdiction under Article VIII, Sections 2(a) and 3: (1) A MCP and an exchange restriction arise from the establishment of an official exchange rate for use in some exchange transactions, which in practice differs by more than 2% from the rate used by foreign exchange bureaus. (2) A MCP arises from the differences of more than 2% between the current official and exchange bureaus rates and the preferential rates for certain imports for which foreign exchange commitments were made through LCs opened prior to March 21, 2002, under the previous multiple exchange rate system. (3) A MCP arises from the differences of more than 2% between the current official and exchange bureaus rates and the preferential rates for certain imports for which foreign exchange payment commitments were made through LCs or bank drafts prior to July 24, 2012. (Country Report No. 18/93)
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Credit and financial institutions and banks have been instructed by the Bank Markazi Jomhouri Islami Iran (Central Bank of Iran—CBI) to freeze suspected accounts, based on an official list. These measures were taken in accordance with UNSC resolutions.
Other security restrictions	No.

Exchange Arrangement

Currency	Yes.	The currency of the Islamic Republic of Iran is the Iranian rial.
Other legal tender	No.
Exchange rate structure
Unitary
Dual	Yes.	The official rate is used for the settlement of oil product exports and for imports of priority goods. In addition, a depreciated parallel rate is offered at the free market. This rate is used for exports of all goods, except oil, for imports of non-priority goods and services, and for settlement for goods and services to be financed from non-oil revenues.
Multiple
Classification

No separate legal tender
Currency board
Conventional peg
Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement has been a managed floating arrangement against a basket of currencies since 2002. All foreign exchange transactions are to be conducted via banks and money exchanges (bureaus) using CBI's electronic trading system. Transactions occurring at rates other than the unified rate will be subject to penalties under the Anti-Smuggling Law. CBI's NIMA platform operates to regulate foreign exchange transactions by enabling exporters to sell foreign currencies to exchange houses who must then on-sell the currency to importers of goods and services with a valid import/services registration order in place. The price of each transaction is agreed between importer and exporter as well as banks and bureaus. Because the exchange rate remained stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar in 2020, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a stabilized arrangement.
Crawling peg
Crawl-like arrangement
Pegged exchange rate within horizontal bands
Other managed arrangement
Floating
Free floating
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The CBI quotes the official exchange rate. This rate must be used in transactions on priority goods operated by the banking system. It is also used to buy the revenue from oil and gas exports from the government and for imports of priority goods and services. The CBI announces the official exchange rate on a daily basis and sells foreign exchange in the domestic interbank market at that rate. The CBI also quotes market exchange rate on daily basis for the transactions on the secondary market (NIMA) for trade and projects finance other than priority goods and services. The importing oil proceeds and priority goods and services, including medical goods, are financed at a fixed rate of 42,000 IRR.
Monetary policy framework
Exchange rate anchor	Yes.
U.S. dollar	Yes.	The monetary policy framework uses an exchange rate anchor vis-à-vis the US dollar. Under Iran's Five-Year Development Plan, Article 81, the CBI bases the exchange rate on relevant economic variables directly connected to the implementation of monetary policy—that is, the difference between internal and international inflation, the internal demand for and supply of foreign exchange, and the exchange value of major foreign currencies against each other, particularly in the SDR portfolio. However, 4 years after the 6th National Development Plan started, many policy directives are not yet implemented. Policy orientations may vary from the National Development Plan. In addition to the exchange rate anchor, the CBI objective is to maintain inflation in single digits by trying to control base money growth. Legally, the CBI does not have an inflation objective or target (see Article 10 of the CBI law).

Exchange subsidy	Yes.	The official rate is used for imports of priority goods and services. An additional preferential rate of Rial 42,000 per US dollar is used for certain priority goods.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange bureaus are allowed to operate and are subject to licensing by the CBI. There are 744 licensed bureaus as of December 31, 2019. The bureaus may have accounts abroad, purchase and sell banknotes, and make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. The bureaus effect intermediate sales of non-oil export receipts. The CBI introduced the SANA system to monitor the bureaus' transactions. The CBI does not transact directly with foreign exchange bureaus.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	Yes.	CBI's NIMA platform operates to regulate foreign exchange transactions by enabling exporters and other exchange suppliers, such as banks and bureaus, to sell foreign currencies to exchange houses who must then on-sell the currency to importers in the secondary market who have a valid import/services registration order in place and are eligible for buying exchange in NIMA according to the regulation of Ministry of Industry, Mine and Trade.
Auction	No.	Although the CBI may conduct auctions, it does not currently do so.
Fixing	Yes.
Interbank market	Yes.	As of December 31, 2019, the following institutions participated in the interbank foreign exchange market: the CBI, 8 government-owned banks, and 17 private banks. Licenses are issued by the CBI, which does restrict margin profits.
Over the counter	Yes.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	Yes.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	This market is not currently operational.
Official cover of forward operations	No.	Neither the CBI nor the government offers official coverage for these contracts.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.
Controls on the use of domestic currency	No.

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices Yes. The IMF staff report for 2019 Article IV Consultation with Iraq states that, as of July 3, 2019, Iraq continues to avail itself of the transitional arrangements under Article XIV, Section 2, but no longer maintains any exchange restrictions or MCPs subject to Article XIV, Section 2, and currently maintains one MCP subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, Section 3. The MCP arises from the lack of a mechanism to ensure that the exchange rate at the Central Bank of Iraq (CBI) foreign exchange window and the market rates (retail exchange rates of commercial banks and exchange bureaus for the sale of foreign currency from sources other than the CBI foreign exchange window) do not deviate from each other by more than 2%. A previously identified exchange restriction arising from an Iraqi balance owed to Jordan under an inoperative bilateral payment agreement has been eliminated.(Country Report No. 19/248)

Official exchange rate

Yes. The CBI determines the official exchange rate for revaluation purposes in the accounting system. The CBI uses the official selling rate of the day minus 0.001% to purchase foreign currency and the government's foreign exchange receipts. The Central Bank Law gives the Board of the CBI the authority to formulate exchange rate policy. Effective December 20, 2020, the official exchange rate was set at ID 1,460 per US dollar including the CBI commission (consisting of two components: the official rate of ID 1,450 plus ID 10 (fees)), which represents the cash and transfer selling price in the window for buying and selling foreign currency. Operated by the central bank	Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	Yes.	Currency selling window is held daily; eligible bidders may buy and sell foreign exchange at the official exchange rate including a commission determined by the CBI (cash and transfer exchange rates). Banks may buy foreign exchange on their behalf and on behalf of their clients but have to ensure that foreign exchange purchase requests they intermediate are for legitimate purposes (to finance legally permitted transactions in foreign currency) by checking clients' documents. Banks are subject to an advance deposit requirement which requires depositing the local currency unit (LCU) equivalent of their cash and noncash purchase requests 7 days before the auction. There are no limits on the bids. In case of default, the auction participant may not participate in future auctions and fines are imposed. The CBI monitors these transactions for anti-money-laundering purposes and sells foreign currency for transactions that are not considered suspect. Because the CBI has been pursuing a policy of fulfilling every bid at a single settlement price, bids are submitted without indication of price. Volume is not preannounced. There are no limits for noncash sales. Weekly limits on the amount banks may buy in cash foreign exchange from the CBI currency sales window are US$70,000 for money exchange bureaus and effective March 1, 2020, US$100,000 for all participating banks. Previously, the weekly cash limit for banks was US$120,000. US dollars sold for documentary credits are transferred after the bank confirms receipt of the required documents.

Floating

Free floating	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Ireland participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The euro, the common currency, floats freely and independently against other currencies. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:30 to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates.

IRELAND

Other monetary framework	Yes.	To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). Section 6A of the Central Bank Act 1942 notes that in discharging its functions and exercising its powers as part of the European System of Central Banks, the primary objective of the Central Bank of Ireland (CBI) is to maintain price stability. “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and noninflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. Previously, it was defined as inflation below but close to 2% over the medium term.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Banks are free to provide spot and forward exchange rate facilities. ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients. Certain foreign-exchange-related operations may be subject to a regulatory authorization regime or certain restrictions reflecting obligations in European legislation. For example, with regard to investment firms for the purposes of Directive 2014/65/EU (Markets in Financial Instruments Directive, or MiFID II), “spots” which meet the requirements in Article 10(2) of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/56 are not considered “financial instruments under MiFID II, and accordingly, the performance of certain activities/services in relation to these “spots” may not require a firm to be authorized in Ireland in accordance with the regime provided for in MiFID II. Investment firms for the purposes of MiFID II may require an authorization in Ireland to perform activities or services in relation to foreign exchange forwards. UCITS management companies authorized in Ireland are permitted to use foreign exchange derivatives on behalf of UCITS funds in line with Directive 2009/65/EU, subject to certain restrictions. Alternative investment fund managers (AIFM) authorized in Ireland are also permitted to use foreign exchange derivatives on behalf of AIFs under management.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Euro foreign exchange policy is the responsibility of the ECB. There were 25 credit institutions authorized by the CBI as of December 31, 2020, all of which may deal in foreign exchange. Credit institutions are authorized and supervised under the provisions of, inter alia, the Central Bank Act 1971, Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013/Directive 2013/36/EU (CRDIV/CRR), and Council Regulation (EU) No. 1024/2013 (the Single Supervisory Mechanism (SSM) Regulation). As of December 31, 2020, 9 firms were authorized as exchange bureaus by the CBI under Part V of the Central Bank Act 1997. These firms do not have a counterparty relationship with the CBI. Most firms authorized as exchange bureaus only provide OTC services to the public. The provision of foreign exchange services in addition to the provision of payment services by a payment institution is recognized in Regulation No. 29(1) of the EU (Payment Services) Regulations 2018, which implemented Directive 2015/2366/EU – Payment Services Directive 2. The provision of foreign exchange services in addition to the issuance of electronic money or provision of payment services or by an electronic money institution is recognized in Regulation No. 28(1) (c) of the EU (Electronic Money) Regulations 2011, which implemented Directive 2009/110/EC as amended by Payment Services Directive 2.

A payment institution or an electronic money institution authorized to provide payment services or issue electronic money may, in addition, provide foreign exchange services.

Under MiFID, spots which meet the requirements as set out in Article 10(2) of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/565 are not considered financial instruments for the purposes of Section C(4) of Annex 1 to Directive 2014/65/EU.

Foreign exchange balances may be freely transferred: all exchange control legislation in Ireland expired December 31, 1992. Since January 1, 1993, no laws or restrictions prevent the free movement of capital or current payments to or from Ireland by individuals or corporate entities for any purpose whatsoever. This liberalization applies equally to EU and non-EU countries. However, in any such foreign exchange transactions the Irish resident parties, including financial institutions, must ensure conformity with (1) financial sanctions under various EU Council regulations enforced under domestic law, which affect transfers, including economic resources, to and from jurisdictions, entities, and individuals that are subject to sanctions, and (2) anti-money-laundering legislation to ensure that effective measures are taken to combat the laundering of the proceeds of criminal activity or the financing of terrorism. All credit and financial institutions providing services (including foreign-exchange-related services) must adopt policies and procedures to prevent money laundering and terrorism financing. The procedures must specify "measures to be taken (by them in their businesses) to prevent the use, for money laundering or terrorism financing, of transactions or products that could favor or facilitate anonymity.” The “CBI” is specified in the Criminal Justice (Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing) Act 2010 (the “Act”) as the appropriate authority for credit and financial institutions. CBI, pursuant to Section 63 of the Act, is responsible for monitoring credit and financial institutions’ compliance with the AML/CFT obligations contained in the Act. If a credit or financial institution fails to establish procedures to guard against the use of its foreign exchange services for money laundering or the financing of terrorism, it commits an offence under Section 54(15) of the Act, and is also subject to regulatory action by the CBI, including an administrative sanction.

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Under Prevention of Terrorism Ordinance No. 33, 5708-1948, money and other assets may not benefit an organization associated with terrorism. The Prohibition on Terrorism Financing Law, No. 5765-2004, prohibits transactions in property for purposes of terrorism and prohibits transactions in terrorists' property. Israel maintains a licensing mechanism on imports from eight non-WTO members that have no diplomatic relations with Israel or prohibit imports from Israel—namely, Afghanistan, Algeria, Iraq, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Libya, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, and Yemen. Licenses are granted for imports from these countries on an ad hoc basis, under exceptional circumstances (for example, economic necessity) and with authorization from the Ministry of Industry, Trade, and Labor. Imports and exports of rough diamonds are controlled to avoid trade with countries that do not participate in the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme. Imports of goods that are clearly identified with organizations associated with terrorism (for example, flags) are prohibited. Trading is prohibited with the Islamic Republic of Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, and Syria; however, because of the US presence in Iraq, trade in Iraqi dinars was authorized temporarily. Economic activity is prohibited with a foreign entity that has been identified by a ministerial committee as assisting Iran in the advancement of its nuclear program or in obtaining weapons of mass destruction or the means of delivery of weapons of mass destruction, unless the ministerial committee has permitted economic activity with that foreign entity. In addition, financial institutions are prohibited from investing in a corporation that has been identified by a ministerial committee as maintaining a substantial business relationship with Iran, unless the ministerial committee has permitted it.

Floating

Yes.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. However, the Bank of Israel (BOI) may intervene in the foreign exchange market in the event of unusual movements in the exchange rate that are inconsistent with underlying economic conditions or when conditions in the foreign exchange market are disorderly. The BOI purchased US$3.9 billion in the foreign exchange market during 2019 (US$3.3 billion in 2018). The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a floating arrangement. The BOI publishes monthly purchase information.

Free floating

Yes.

The representative rate of the new shekel against the US dollar for a specific day is the average rate of new shekels in bilateral interbank quotes during a predetermined sampling period. Deviations from the sample average of more than 2 standard deviations are excluded from the calculation. In exceptional cases, if the calculated exchange rate does not reflect actual rates in the market, discretion may be exercised in determining the representative rate. The representative rates of the new shekel against other currencies are based on the representative rate of the US dollar, and the exchange rates of the relevant currencies in the international money markets at the time the rates are determined. Therefore, the representative rate of any currency against the new shekel is an indicator of the exchange rate in the foreign exchange market, is based on an average of banks' published buying and selling prices, and does not necessarily reflect actual transaction rates. The rates have no official or legal standing and are not published in the Official Gazette. They are used mainly for valuations and in contracts. Parties to a foreign-currency-indexed business transaction may use any mutually acceptable rate. The representative rate is binding on such transactions only if explicitly stipulated in advance.

The minutes are published about two weeks after the announcement of the interest rate. The publication of the minutes of the interest-rate discussions, in the format adopted by the CBs of the advanced economies throughout the world, is intended to increase the transparency of the BOI's interest-rate policy, and together with other of the BOI's publications will enable the public, the Knesset (Israel's unicameral parliament), and the government to deepen their understanding of that policy.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	The Monetary Committee presents the government and the Knesset Finance Committee no less than twice annually a report on the monetary policy. The report includes a survey of developments in the field of price stability and economic developments in the time period covered by the report, and the policy that the Committee believes necessary for the maintenance of price stability within the range determined by the government and for the attainment of the BOI's other objectives. The reports are issued about a month after the end of each half-year. Appendices to the report contain tables with updated figures, which are used by policymakers. ## ITALY

Free floating	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Italy participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The ECB publishes euro foreign exchange reference rates on every working day, except on TARGET closing days. The reference rates are based on a regular daily concertation procedure between CBs across Europe, which normally takes place at 14:15 Central European Time, and are usually updated around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rates are broadly used by the Italian public administration for administrative and fiscal purposes.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	Price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term. (Previously, it was defined as inflation rate below but close to 2% over the medium term.)
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	ADs may freely determine their exchange rates and foreign exchange commissions in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Italian banks deal freely in the foreign exchange market. Banks are authorized by the CB to perform their general activities. Their operations are not limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes; they may also make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients.

Authorization is also needed if control is gained as a result of acquisition of holdings or contracts or through other bylaw provisions.

ITALY

Effective April 8, 2020, the Italian government enacted Law Decree No. 23 setting forth new provisions impacting the Golden Power and in general the FDI screening mechanisms in light of COVID-19. The Decree has expanded the obligation to communicate to the government any acquisition (or share deal) and asset deal, by EU and extra-EU entities, of shareholdings in companies operating assets falling in the sectors defined in accordance with the Article 4 of the Regulation (EU) 2019/452, which include critical technologies and dual-use items, including artificial intelligence, robotics, semiconductors, cybersecurity, aerospace, energy storage, quantum and nuclear technologies as well as nanotechnologies and biotechnologies, food security, access to sensitive information, including personal data, freedom and pluralism of the media and financial, credit and insurance sectors. The Decree now allows the Italian government to initiate Golden Power reviews independently and in the absence of a notification.

The Decree has provisionally extended the scope of the existing filing requirements for transactions concerning sectors of energy, transportation, communications, as well as the European sectors mentioned above, also to EU entities. In particular, until December 31, 2020, any acquisition of shares, resolution, and transaction adopted by any EU or extra-EU entity holding strategic assets in the sectors of energy, transportation and communications, as well as high tech is subject to a foreign investment filing if: (1) resulting in change of control, ownership, or destination of use of assets above and (2) for extra-EU investments, the acquisition is at least 10% of share capital or voting rights and the total investment value is equal to or higher than one million euros, while for European entities, the investment results in control of the targeted company. Decree No. 23 was extended by Law No. 176/2020 until June 30, 2021 (effective January 1, 2021), and by Decree No. 56/2021 until December 31, 2021 (effective July 1, 2021).

Effective October 11, 2020, Regulation (EU) 2019/452 of March 19, 2019, which established an EU-wide framework for FDI screening and for the European Commission and the Member States to coordinate their actions on foreign investments came into effect.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	Commercial banks and other credit institutions are subject to EU and national prudential regulations in accordance with the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision core principles for effective banking supervision and the Basel Accord (International Convergence of Capital Measurement and Capital Standards). The Consolidated Law on Banking (Legislative Decree No. 385/1993, Testo Unico Bancario (TUB)), as well as BOI Circular No. 285 of December 17, 2013 (as amended), and Circular No. 286 on prudential reporting transpose into the national regulatory framework the provisions in CRD IV—Directive 2013/36/EU concerning authorization of credit institutions, acquisition of qualified holdings in a credit institution, cross-border activities, internal capital and liquidity adequacy assessment processes, corporate governance, risk management and control, remuneration policies and practices, capital buffers, prudential supervision, supervisory review and evaluation processes, and sanctions. The present framework is under revision to implement the new CRD V requirements (Directive (EU) No. 2019/878 of the European Parliament and of the Council of May 20, 2019, Amending Directive 2013/36/EU as regards Exempted Entities, Financial Holding Companies, Mixed Financial Holding Companies, Remuneration, Supervisory Measures and Powers and Capital Conservation Measures, currently under transposition). Moreover, provisions concerning own funds, own funds requirements, liquidity requirements, leverage, large exposures, and public disclosure obligations are laid out in the CRR — EU Capital Requirements Regulation No. 575/2013. (1) A reform of “Banche Popolari” (a particular form of nonprevalent mutual cooperative bank) was approved by the parliament (Decree-Law No. 3/2015 converted to Law No. 33/2015); in December 2016, in particular, the reform introduced an obligation for Banche Popolari with consolidated assets exceeding €8billion to become joint-stock companies. Following the enactment of primary legislation, the BOI’s implementing provisions went into effect, completing the legal framework by providing the necessary prudential rules and guidelines for the banks concerned. (2) Decree-Law No. 18 of February 14, 2016, converted by Law No. 49 of April 8, 2016, introduced significant innovations in the Italian cooperative banking sector fostering the consolidation of the “Banche di Credito Cooperativo” (BCCs) and providing for the establishment of cooperative banking groups. According to the regulatory framework, each Italian BCC must either join a cooperative banking group to hold a banking license, become a joint-stock company, or liquidate. The parent company of the cooperative banking group must be a joint-stock company, with a banking license and net capital not less than €1billion. The provisions of BOI Circular No. 285, as amended, aligned the rules applicable to cooperative banks on an individual basis to the reform of cooperative banking groups. Decree-Law No. 119 of October 23, 2018, amended the reform and allowed BCCs established in the Italian Region of

Trentino Alto-Adige to create an institutional protection scheme (IPS) instead of joining a cooperative banking group to take into account particular features of the mutual banks located in that region.

(3) Directive 2014/92/EU on the comparability of fees related to payment accounts, payment account switching, and access to payment accounts with basic features (Payment Accounts Directive—PAD) was implemented in Legislative Decree No. 37 of March 15, 2017, which aims to enhance customer protection and financial inclusion.

On August 3, 2017, the BOI adopted implementing provisions (amending its provisions for banks and financial intermediaries on transparency and correct customer relations, originally issued July 29, 2009) to (a) enhance customer protection by ensuring continuity of payment services in the event of divestment of branches of business and (b) clarify the discipline of basic payment accounts, also regulated by Ministerial Decree No. 70 of May 3, 2018, which introduced detailed provisions regarding consumer access to a payment account with basic features. In June 2019, the BOI adopted implementing provisions (amending its provisions for banks and financial intermediaries on transparency and correct relations with customers, originally issued July 29, 2009) to ensure that adequate information is delivered to consumers on payment account fees.

(4) Directive (EU) 2015/2366 on payment services in the internal market (Revised Payment Service Directive—PSD2), complemented by Regulation (EU) 2015/751, was transposed into Legislative Decree No. 218 of December 15, 2017. In particular, the regime (a) regulates the new payment services set out in the Directive; (b) aligns the electronic money distribution regime applicable to banks with those already applicable to electronic money institutions; (c) imposes EU payment institutions operating on an EU member state territory through agents under the right of establishment to appoint a central contact point, under certain conditions, to ensure adequate communication and information reporting; (d) strengthens customer protection in the event of unilateral changes to contract terms; and (e) prohibits additional fees for specified payment methods. In March 2019, the BOI adopted implementing provisions (amending its provisions for banks and financial intermediaries on transparency and correct relations with customers, originally issued July 29, 2009) to ensure that customers receive adequate information regarding payment services.

In July 2019, the BOI issued a regulation amending supervisory provisions for payment institutions and electronic money institutions and updated Circular No. 285 on supervisory provisions for banks to implement the PSD2 provisions applicable to banks.

(5) The Banking Recovery and Resolution Directive (BRRD) was transposed (Legislative Decree Nos. 180 and 181). In particular, Decree No. 180/2015 (a) requires banks to meet at all times a prudential requirement on their own funds and liabilities to ensure resolution actions' effectiveness; (b) empowers resolution authorities to assess banks' resolvability and impose a wide range of measures to remove any impediment to their resolvability (for example, requirement to divest specific assets; restrict or prevent the development of business lines or products; require changes to legal or operational structures); and (c) provides that banks must contribute annually to the National Resolution Fund. The Deposit Guarantee Scheme Directive (DGSD) (Legislative Decree No. 30) requires banks to contribute annually to a deposit guarantee scheme; if a bank fails to do so, the ECB may, as a last resort, withdraw its banking license.

Directive (EU) 2017/2399 of the European Parliament and of the Council of December 12, 2017, amended Directive 2014/59/EU as regards the ranking of unsecured debt instruments in the insolvency hierarchy. The directive promotes the harmonization of the creditors' hierarchy across national insolvency laws, introducing a new layer of unsecured debt instruments that ranks senior to subordinated debt and junior to senior preferred notes and any claims benefiting from legal or statutory preferences. The directive was transposed into Article 12-bis of the TUB by Law No. 205 of December 27, 2017, which created a new class of nonpreferred senior debt (“strumenti di debito chirografario di secondo livello”) ranked in insolvency proceedings above own funds instruments and subordinated liabilities that do not qualify as own funds instruments, but below other senior liabilities.

Directive (EU) 2019/879 amended Directive 2014/59/EU as regards the minimum requirement of own funds and eligible liabilities that banks should fulfill to have enough loss-absorbing and recapitalization capacity in the event of resolution. This Directive is expected to be transposed into the Italian framework in the last quarter of 2021.

(6) Following the transposition of the Mortgage Credit Directive (MCD) relating to residential immovable property (Legislative Decree No. 72), an updated version of the regulation on transparency in banking services and conduct rules between intermediaries and clients entered into force. In particular, such amendments enhanced consumer protection by requiring banks to provide consumers with personalized information about mortgage credit agreements by means of a standardized document (according to the template attached to the MCD) and granting the consumer a seven-day reflection period before the conclusion of the agreement. Also, BOI Circular No. 285/2013 (Supervisory Provisions for Banks) and Circular No. 288/2015 (Supervisory Provisions for Financial Institutions) were updated and provide for the MCD rules on creditworthiness assessment and on the valuation of immovable property for mortgage lending purposes.

(7) Regarding the provision of investment services, the MiFIR/MiFID package on market in financial instruments (Regulation (EU) No. 600/2014 and Directive 2014/65/EU) was transposed into national law by Legislative Decree No. 129 of August 3, 2017, which amended the TUF and entered into force on January 3, 2018. In December 2019, a BOI implementing regulation, which introduces organizational rules for intermediaries providing investment services (banks included) was issued. Circular No. 285 on supervisory provisions for banks was also updated.

(8) Directive (EU) 2018/843 on anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism financing was transposed into AML Law No. 231/2007, as amended by Legislative Decree No. 125 of October 4, 2019. The implementation process of the previous directive (Directive EU 2015/849)—with regard to sanctioning procedures, customer due diligence, internal controls, and record-keeping—is finalized.

The BOI has adopted the following implementing provisions: (a) Regulation of the BOI of March 26, 2019, on organization, procedures and internal control in the field of anti-money laundering, which introduces organizational rules for obligated entities and (b) BOI regulation of January 15, 2019, on sanctions and administrative sanctioning procedures; (c) BOI regulation of July 30, 2019, on customer due diligence; and (d) BOI regulation of March 24, 2020, effective March 24, 2020, on record-keeping.

JAMAICA

The rate of the Jamaican dollar is determined in the domestic foreign exchange market, in which the Bank of Jamaica (BOJ) intervenes occasionally with sales and purchases of foreign currency. The BOJ intervenes occasionally via market auctions. Intervention may be done on both sides of the market.

The BOJ announces the auction on the day of the auction by 9:30 a.m., and the results are published on the day by 10:45 a.m. The results are also published in its Annual Report and Quarterly Monetary Policy Report, with a two-month lag. The Bank also publishes, on each intervention date, a list of the foreign exchange intermediaries that participated in the auction, the amounts that each was allotted, and the settlement prices. To improve the transparency of the market, the BOJ, since mid-2019, has published all transactions over US$100,000 and the rate at which these transactions were consummated.

For the period March 2020 to June 2021, the foreign exchange market was affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. The pandemic resulted in a sharp reduction in foreign exchange inflows from the Tourism and Business Process Outsourcing sectors starting in April 2020. However, since mid-May 2020, these reductions were offset by increased remittance inflows. The impact of the pandemic was mitigated by a number of initiatives by BOJ to provide liquidity, including but not limited to foreign exchange intervention sale auctions, to maintain orderly functioning of the financial markets in general and the foreign exchange market in particular. In this regard, the Bank sold US$292.3 million to the market in 2020, which was followed by additional intervention sales totaling US$198.75 million over the first six months of 2021. In addition to the intervention sales, a further US$548.76 million was sold to public-sector entities and the energy sector between March 2020 and June 2021 to satisfy their demand in a context of reduced supply. During the review period, the Bank also reduced the foreign currency cash reserve requirement of deposit-taking institutions (DTIs) which injected US$70 million into the foreign exchange market. Additional USD liquidity in the amount of US$136.6 million was also provided to the market via BOJ's USD repo facility in 2020, while the Bank also issued a total of US$189 million in foreign exchange swaps between March 2020 and June 2021. The aforementioned policy initiatives facilitated a general improvement in supply conditions in the market in the latter part of 2020 and over the first six months of 2021. Of note, as at end-June 2021, the US$136.60 million issued via the USD repo facility has been repaid and foreign exchange swaps valuing US$183 million has matured.

Yes.

The weighted-average selling rate of ADs and cambios is the official rate for customs duty valuation and tax purposes, legal transactions, accounting and foreign exchange transactions with the government. The official rate is calculated daily for use the following business day or until the day after the next calculation and publication of an exchange rate by the BOJ. This information is published via various media and on the BOJ website.

Monetary aggregate target

Inflation-targeting framework Yes. The mandate of monetary policy is the maintenance of price stability or low inflation. The BOJ conducts monetary policy with the aim of achieving a continuous medium-term inflation target of 4%–6% an annum for the next three years. The Bank uses monetary policy tools to meet this target objective. Jamaica’s monetary policy framework moved from Inflation Targeting Lite to a full-fledged inflation-targeting regime with the passing of the BOJ (Amendment) Act, 2020, effective April 16, 2021. The BOJ (Amendment) Act, 2020 also established the MPC which has the responsibility of making monetary policy decisions to achieve the Government of Jamaica’s (GOJ’s) inflation target.

Target setting body Yes.

Government Yes. The inflation target was established by the Minister of Finance and the Public Service (MOFP) in consultation with BOJ effective April 16, 2021. The target is a continuous medium-term inflation target.

Inflation target Yes.

Target number Yes.

Point target

Target with tolerance band

Band/Range Yes. The Bank’s medium-term inflation target range is 4%–6%.

Target measure Yes.

CPI Yes. This inflation rate is measured as the 12-month point-to-point change in the CPI published by the Statistical Institute of Jamaica.

Core inflation

Target horizon Yes. The target horizon is three fiscal years (Fiscal Years 2021/22–2023/24).

Operating target (policy rate) Yes. The BOJ uses a variety of tools to achieve its inflation target. Since March 1, 2019, the main one is the interest rate on the overnight balances in the current accounts of DTIs at the BOJ. Changes in the Bank’s policy rate signal the Bank’s policy stance toward achieving its inflation objective.

Policy rate Yes. Interest is paid on overnight balances in the current accounts of DTIs at the BOJ. The applicable interest rate is the BOJ policy rate. At end-August 2021, the policy rate was 0.5%.

Target corridor band Yes. The floor of the corridor is set as the Bank’s policy rate while the ceiling, the interest rate on the overnight standing lending facility, is determined as a spread over the policy rate. As of August 31, 2019, the ceiling of the interest rate corridor was 200 basis points (bps) over the policy rate.

Other	n.a.
Open letter	Yes.	Effective April 16, 2021, if inflation falls either below the lower end of the target (below 4%) or increases above the upper-end of the target (above 6%), the Bank is required to explain to the MOFP and the Jamaican public why the inflation target was missed and the corrective policy actions that will be taken to restore inflation to the target. The Bank is required to notify the MOFP within 60 days of missing the target.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	Effective April 16, 2021, the MPC must publish statements on the performance of the Bank with respect to its monetary policy and achievements in relation to the inflation target, and issue monetary policy updates which are to be submitted to the MOFP every six months, at a minimum, or as may be directed by Parliament. The law guides that the MOFP must, on receipt of the Monetary Policy Statement prepared by the MPC, table a copy in the House of Representatives, following which, in keeping with the statutory provision, the MOFP must refer to the Standing Finance Committee of the House of Representatives.
Other	n.a.
Publication of votes	No.
Publication of minutes	Yes.	Effective April 16, 2021, the MPC must at the end of each meeting, or as soon as practical thereafter, publish on the Bank's website, a summary of the decisions made at the meeting and the reasons, and must further within four weeks of the conclusion of the meeting publish on the Bank's website the Minutes of the meeting.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	The monetary policy report, published quarterly, describes the Bank's most recent policy decision and outlines the Bank's projections for inflation in Jamaica and the main macroeconomic variables that affect it.
Other monetary framework
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks and other ADs and cambios freely set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients. ADs are free to determine their foreign exchange commissions and margins with their clients. With regard to the resale of intervention funds, BOJ reserves the right to determine the spread above the settlement price at which the funds must be resold.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	The market is operated by ADs, cambios, exchange bureaus (bureaux de change), and the BOJ. As of December 31, 2020, 10 ADs and 51 cambios were licensed by the BOJ. ADs include all commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies. ADs are authorized to buy, sell, borrow, or lend foreign currency or foreign currency instruments. Cambios are licensed to buy and sell foreign currency. Starting in September 2015, commercial banks have stopped accepting as deposits or purchasing cash from cambios as a result of de-risking by overseas correspondent banks. Proceeds from official loans, divestment of government assets, and taxes on the bauxite sector payable in foreign currency are sold or payable directly to the BOJ. Exchange bureau operations are limited to the exchange of foreign currency notes (for Jamaican dollars) held by hotel guests. As of December 31, 2020, there were 131 exchange bureaus, whose purpose is to facilitate foreign exchange transactions with hotel guests. Exchange bureaus which operate in hotels may purchase only up to US$8,000 or its equivalent in other currencies, in any one transaction. The sale of foreign exchange is limited to reconversion of unused Jamaican dollars from guests. BOJ operates a foreign exchange facility for public sector entities (PSEs) where foreign exchange is sold to meet their demand, thereby minimizing volatility in the market.

The surrender requirement for ADs under the PSE facility is 15% of ADs' US dollar purchases from commercial clients, and the surrender requirement for cambios under the PSE facility is 10% of their daily foreign exchange purchases from commercial clients. The regular surrender arrangement for both ADs and cambios is 5%. The total minimum surrender obligation for ADs to the BOJ therefore is 20% of daily foreign currency purchases from commercial clients, and 15% for cambios.

Under the surrender arrangement, the BOJ purchases US dollars, Canadian dollars, pounds sterling, and euros at the applicable mid-day rates.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility No.

Allocation No.

Auction Yes.

The BOJ purchases from and sells foreign exchange to ADs and cambios under the specified terms. The BOJ launched the BOJ Foreign Exchange Intervention Trading Tool (B-FXITT) in July 2017. Transactions are done via an auction mechanism that determines the price, while the BOJ only determines the volume. The rules of the B-FXITT stipulate, inter alia, that each entity is allowed no more than 3 bids and each bid must be no more than 10% of the auction size and no entity's total bid-volume may exceed 20% of the auction size. The BOJ stopped conducting auctions on a weekly basis on October 17, 2019. The BOJ conducts auctions at short notice, in the event of abnormal or disorderly market conditions. The intermediaries may submit bids to buy or sell foreign exchange from or to the BOJ at a rate determined by the participants. While the framework allows for both the sale and purchase of foreign exchange to and from the market, in the initial stages, the BOJ used the framework for the sale of foreign exchange only. The BOJ started using the framework for the purchase of foreign exchange in April 2018. The BOJ has not used the framework for the purchase of foreign exchange since December 2018.

Effective May 7, 2020, the BOJ introduced a reserve price in the B-FXITT auction to eliminate extreme pricing/bidding, aiming to maintain a rules-based, competitive, multiple price intervention system while eliminating outliers. The reserve price is calculated as a reference rate  $\pm$  a predetermined spread where bids/offers above and below the highest and lowest reserve price, respectively, are not accepted. Effective September 1, 2020, in the case of the sell auction, bids are allocated starting with the highest bid price to the lowest bid price, subject to a calculated reserve price, until the operation amount is fully allotted or all bids are fully allocated. All allocated bids are

Clearing agreements	Yes.	The BOJ operates the Systemically Important Payment Systems in Jamaica, including the JamClear systems—Real-Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) and Central Securities Depository. The BOJ provides operational support to the Automated Clearing House (ACH)—another Systemically Important Payment System owned and operated by Automated Payments Limited, a company owned by participating commercial banks. The JamClear RTGS is specifically designed to clear large-value, time-critical payments by financial market participants on accounts held at the BOJ in real time throughout the business day. Payments settled in JamClear RTGS are final and irrevocable. The JamClear systems are fully integrated, facilitating settlement on a delivery versus payment basis of all securities traded in the domestic market. With regard to the ACH, the BOJ acts as (1) participant—negotiating checks drawn on commercial banks, sending and receiving electronic files with check data, and handling direct debits and credits to and from the ACH operator; (2) settlement bank—effecting the settlement of clearing balances on the accounts of commercial banks; (3) overseer—providing oversight to ensure the efficient operations of the clearing system; and (4) supervisor of the manual clearing process—facilitating processing of items that do not qualify for the ACH and for foreign currency checks that qualify for domestic clearing—that is, checks drawn on local commercial banks or their correspondent overseas banks in the four major currencies: US dollars, Canadian dollars, pounds sterling, and euros.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes.

While all residents are free to conduct transactions in foreign currency, only ADs, cambios, and exchange bureaus may undertake the business of trading in foreign exchange. The Minister of Finance may issue directions to specified classes of persons regarding the acquisition of foreign assets and may exempt persons from one or more of the prohibitions outlined in Section 22A(2) of the BOJ Act. Trading in foreign currency by residents and nonresidents must be authorized in their capacity as ADs, cambios, or exchange bureaus. Persons whose acquisition of foreign assets is restricted may acquire them (including foreign securities) only as directed by the Minister of Finance or the BOJ acting under delegated authority from the Minister of Finance. This delegated authority has been exercised for cambios and exchange bureaus.

BOJ consulted with the boards of FHCs and DTIs in 2020 and obtained their agreement to suspend, effective May 14, 2020, the distribution of dividend to relatively large shareholders and limit these distributions to shareholders owning 1% or less of issued shares. This was in a context where financial institutions had been experiencing extraordinary demand for liquidity to facilitate the needs of their customers and to build buffers against growing uncertainty associated with COVID-19 in Jamaica. The BOJ, the FHCs, and the DTIs agreed to revisit this arrangement at the end of March 2021. Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	In the case of individuals and non-financial firms, there are no restrictions in the purchase of money market instruments abroad. ADs, insurance companies, credit unions, cambios and exchange bureaus, CISs, and pension fund managers may not acquire foreign assets, except in accordance with Ministerial directives from the MOF. ADs are authorized to act as an authorized dealer in relation to foreign currency and foreign currency instruments. According to Ministerial directives from the MOF, insurance companies and pension funds, may acquire securities issued by the GOJ and securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States as well as the assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021, and the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Pensions Funds) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies and pension funds (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). A limit of 25% applies to the investment activities of SDs and collective investment plans. The permissible investment activities has been expanded to include investment grade sovereign obligations, investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated outside Jamaica, and shares of such corporations. Effective April 30, 2021, the permissible investments for SDs and CISs were expanded to include investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated in Jamaica and which are foreign exchange earners; publicly traded shares of entities incorporated in Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada Dollars that are earners of foreign exchange and whose debts are rated by credit rating agencies as investment grade; BOJ CDs denominated in foreign currency; GOJ guaranteed corporate foreign currency debt instruments issued by corporate entities incorporated in Jamaica, publicly traded shares of corporate entities incorporated outside of Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada dollars, with market capitalization of US$10 billion or greater. The cap on these investment activities for SDs and CISs is 25%. Otherwise, the standard minimum requirements apply and may change. From April 30, 2021, the permissible investments for insurance companies, pensions funds, CISs, and SDs are the same. No directives have been issued to authorize the acquisition of foreign assets by credit unions. Parties not in these categories are not limited in their acquisition of foreign assets.

Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The Securities Act and its attendant regulations apply. The residents must comply with Sections 7 and 26, unless except exempt under subsection 7(2)(a).
On collective investment securities	Yes.	Unit trusts, mutual funds, and other forms of CISs are governed by regulations under the Securities Act. The Securities Act has established a comprehensive legal framework for the regulation of CISs facilitating various forms of CISs by removing obstacles that impede the growth and diversity of the CIS industry, while granting greater protection for users of these products. The investments are managed by an investment company, whereas trust assets are held by a trustee independent of the management company. The law seeks to ensure full disclosure to investors and proper licensing of sellers. The law requires (1) registration of CIS with the FSC; (2) fit and proper requirements of trustees and managers; and (3) proper record keeping and accounting. The law also prohibits (1) failure to file returns with the FSC; (2) false statements or falsification or destruction of documents required under the law; (3) fraudulent or misleading inducements to acquire units; (4) distribution of circulars pertaining to unregistered unit trusts; and (5) failure to keep records required by law. Authorization from the minister of finance in relation to the foreign currency component of collective investment securities is required. Banks and other licensed DTIs cannot directly undertake investment activities on behalf of third parties (or customers), but such activities may be accommodated through separate legal entities (that is, subsidiaries) with appropriate authorization. ADs have the broadest authorization to acquire foreign assets on their own behalf subject their respective prudential requirements.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	There are no limitations.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Part III of the CIS Regulations states the requirements for overseas CIS to be registered to issue its securities in Jamaica. An example of the requirements is the submission of information and documents (including but not limited to financial statements, organizational documents, and a profile of directors and officers) to satisfy the FSC, including: (1) the overseas CIS which is from a jurisdiction where the laws and regulatory oversight for CIS are sufficient to ensure investor protection and market integrity and (2) the CIS which is in good standing in the foreign jurisdiction. The FSC has the power to request any other information to assess the application of the overseas CIS.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	In the case of individuals and non-financial firms, there are no restrictions in the purchase of collective investment securities abroad. ADs, insurance companies, credit unions, cambios and exchange bureaus, CISs, and pension fund managers may not acquire foreign assets, except in accordance with Ministerial directives from the MOF. ADs are authorized to act as an authorized dealer in relation to foreign currency and foreign currency instruments. According to Ministerial directives from the MOF, insurance companies and pension funds, may acquire securities issued by the GOJ and securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States and foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021, and the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Pensions Funds) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies and pension funds (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). A limit of 25% applies to the investment activities of SDs and collective investment plans. The permissible investment activities has been expanded to include investment grade sovereign obligations, investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated outside Jamaica, and shares of such corporations. Effective April 30, 2021, the permissible investments for SDs and CISs were expanded to include investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated in Jamaica and which are foreign exchange earners; publicly traded shares of entities incorporated in Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada Dollars that are earners of foreign exchange and whose debts are rated by credit rating agencies as investment grade; BOJ CDs denominated in foreign currency; GOJ guaranteed corporate foreign currency debt instruments issued by corporate entities incorporated in Jamaica, publicly traded shares of corporate entities incorporated outside of Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada dollars, with market capitalization of US$10 billion or greater. The cap on these investment activities for SDs and CISs is 25%. Otherwise, the standard minimum requirements apply and may change. From April 30, 2021, the permissible investments for insurance companies, pensions funds, CISs, and SDs are the same. No directives have been issued to authorize the acquisition of foreign assets by credit unions. Parties not in these categories are not limited in their acquisition of foreign assets but are subject to the restriction against dealings in foreign currency or foreign currency instruments as a business in Jamaica.

Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The Securities Act and the CISs Regulations, 2013, apply to residents.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	These are governed by securities under the Securities Act. The definition does not contemplate any financial commodity, contract, or instrument that may be gazetted from time to time. There is none gazetted at this time.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	These transactions are subject to the Securities Act and the attendant requirements apply to nonresidents.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	In the case of individuals and non-financial firms, there are no restrictions in the purchase of derivative instruments abroad. Foreign asset acquisition activities of insurance companies and pension funds are restricted to securities issued by the GOJ and issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States, and foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021, and the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Pensions Funds) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign asset acquisition activities may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies and pension funds (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The Securities Act and the CIS Regulations, 2013, apply to residents.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.	The Money Lending framework imposes certain requirements on non-financial institutions wishing to undertake lending activities in Jamaican dollars. The law sets forth, among other things, the prescribed maximum rate of interest (that is, rate beyond which interest cannot be charged and is periodically prescribed by the Ministerial order), the form of the lending agreement, and how moneylenders may advertise. Commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies, nonbank financial institutions governed by the Insurance Act, and Securities Act, Industrial and Provident Societies and Friendly Societies; and statutory bodies incorporated for the purposes of lending money are exempt from the requirements of this law. The business of money lending in foreign currency is subject to the provisions of the BOJ Act. Licensed deposit takers under the BSA (that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) are subject to statutory lending limits and other prudential requirements applicable to the extension of credit as follows: (1) Facilities to any one person (not another bank) may not exceed in the aggregate 20% of a DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 5% of the DTI's capital base (10% for a building society). (2) Facilities to a group may not exceed in the aggregate 40% of the bank's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base. There are also prudential provisioning requirements applicable to the extension of credit. In January 2021 the Microcredit Act was passed and became effective July 30, 2021. This Act governs the business of lending to individuals and to medium and small enterprises (MSMEs). The Act speaks to licensing and governance requirements, reflects BOJ is the regulator for these service providers, incorporates consumer related provisions on lending practices, which regime is overseen by the Consumer Affairs Commission; and includes penalties for non-compliance with the Act. Lending in foreign currency remains subject to the requirements of the BOJ Act and commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies, nonbank financial institutions governed by the Insurance Act, and Securities Act, Industrial and Provident Societies and Friendly Societies; and statutory bodies incorporated for the purposes of lending money are exempt from the requirements of this law. Existing microfinanciers and persons wishing to offer the service have 12 months within which to apply for a license under this Act and transactions entered into prior to the passage of this Act will remain enforceable.
Commercial credits	Yes.	The Money Lending Act governs transactions involving persons who do not undertake the business of extending credit.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	In relation to private persons, such transactions are subject to the laws of the overseas jurisdiction. Licensed deposit takers (that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) are subject to statutory lending limits and other prudential requirements applicable to the extension of credit as follows: (1) Facilities to any one person (not another bank) may not exceed in the aggregate 20% of a DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 5% of the DTI's capital base (10% for a building society). (2) Facilities to a group may not exceed in the aggregate 40% of the bank's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base. There are also prudential provisioning requirements applicable to the extension of credit.

To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	While all residents are free to conduct transactions in foreign currency, only ADs may undertake the business of lending in foreign currency. Otherwise, persons (such as nonresidents) wishing to undertake the business of lending in Jamaica must obtain the requisite exemption by Ministerial order to proceed.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Lending activities in Jamaica involving foreign currency are subject to the foreign currency dealings provisions of the BOJ Act. Licensed deposit takers under the BSA (that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) are subject to statutory lending limits and other prudential requirements applicable to the extension of credit as follows: (1) Facilities to any one person (not another bank) may not exceed in the aggregate 20% of a DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 5% of the DTI's capital base. (2) Facilities to a group may not exceed in the aggregate 40% of the bank's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base. There are also prudential provisioning requirements applicable to the extension of credit.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	The provisions of the Microcredit Act, Money Lending Act, and the BOJ Act apply, if the financing is offered and/or executed in Jamaica. Money lending in foreign currency to persons resident in Jamaica is subject to the provisions of the BOJ Act, and this extends to cases in which an overseas-based person conducts financing activities in foreign currency, or through foreign currency instruments, with a Jamaica-based person, regardless of whether negotiations take place and related contracts are executed outside Jamaica.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	In the case of individuals and non-financial firms, there are no restrictions. Licensed deposit takers under the BSA (that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) are subject to statutory lending limits and other prudential requirements applicable to the extension of credit as follows: (1) Facilities to any one person (not another bank) may not exceed in the aggregate 20% of a DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 5% of the DTI's capital base. (2) Facilities to a group may not exceed in the aggregate 40% of the bank's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base. There are also prudential provisioning requirements applicable to the extension of credit.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	The provisions of the Microcredit Act, Money Lending Act, and possibly the BOJ Act apply, if the financing is offered and/or executed in Jamaica. The business of money lending in foreign currency to persons resident in Jamaica is subject to the provisions of the BOJ Act, and this extends to cases in which an overseas-based person conducts financing activities in foreign currency or through foreign currency instruments with a Jamaica-based person, regardless of whether negotiations take place and related contracts are executed outside Jamaica.

Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	The Exchange Control (Removal of Restrictions) Order of 1991 eliminated controls on outward direct investment. There are limits on investments by DTI that apply to equity investments. Aggregate shareholdings by a DTI may not exceed 50% of the DTI's capital base, and in any one company or enterprise may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	There are no limitations on the acquisition of shares in a company by nonresidents, except shares in locally incorporated licensed DTIs under the BSA, no more than 5% of which may be held by a foreign government or an agency of a foreign government without the written approval of the Supervisory Committee. The Supervisory Committee is the supervisory decision-making authority.
Controls on liquidation of direct investment	No.	To the extent that the liquidation of direct investment in locally incorporated licensed DTIs under the BSA amounts to divestment/transfers or disposal of shares, these are subject to the approval of the Supervisory Committee where the disposal involves 20% or more of the voting shares of the DTI. If the liquidation equates to a voluntary liquidation, this requires the approval of the supervisor of banks. To the extent that the liquidation of direct investment in a corporate SD amounts to a divestment/transfer or a disposal of shares that amounts to a change in ownership, the Securities Act mandates that corporate SDs and advisers be owned, controlled, or supervised by persons who are citizens of and habitually resident in Jamaica or a CARICOM member.
Controls on real estate transactions	No.	No controls are in place in relation to transactions between private persons. However, persons in the real estate business (that is, valuers, dealers, developers) are subject to the Real Estate Dealers and Developers Act and oversight by the Real Estate Board. Under the BOJ Act, foreign assets include real estate situated outside of Jamaica and the foreign asset acquisition restriction that applies to certain local financial firms includes real estate located outside of Jamaica.
Purchase abroad by residents	No.	No restrictions are in place in relation to transactions between private persons. However, persons listed in Section 22B(1) of the BOJ Act are subject to restrictions, because this activity amounts to the acquisition of a foreign asset. Although licensed deposit takers under the BSA, who are also ADs, have the broadest permit to acquire foreign assets, they are also subject to prudential and statutory limits regarding the nature and quality of investments and fixed asset holdings, which may not exceed an amount equivalent to their capital base without the approval of the supervisor.
Sale locally by nonresidents	No.	No restrictions are in place in relation to transactions between private persons. However, transactions involving commercial enterprises in the real estate business are subject to the requirements of the Real Estate Dealers and Developers Act and the Real Estate Board.
Controls on personal capital transactions	Yes.
Loans	Yes.	The Money Lending Act is applicable to transactions undertaken by persons who are not involved in the business of extending credit. Otherwise, if such transactions involve commercial enterprises, the BOJ Act may apply. In addition, the Companies Act specifically prohibits private companies from soliciting capital from the public. Any activities indicative of deposit-taking or securities business are expressly prohibited under the BSA and the Securities Act.

By residents to nonresidents	No.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply. In addition, the provisions of the Money Lending Act and possibly the BOJ Act apply, if the financing is offered and/or executed in Jamaica.
Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies	Yes.	Depending on the circumstances, these matters may be subject to the existing succession laws (that is, the Probate of Deeds Act, the Inheritance (Provision for Family and Dependents) Act, the Intestate Estates and Property Charges Act, the Companies Act, the Proceeds of Crime Act), and applicable tax laws.
By residents to nonresidents	No.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply. In addition, the provisions of the Money Lending Act and possibly the BOJ Act apply, if the financing is offered and/or executed in Jamaica.
Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants	No.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply.
Transfer abroad by emigrants	No.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply.
Transfer into the country by immigrants	No.	The laws of the overseas jurisdiction apply.
Transfer of gambling and prize earnings	Yes.	These transfers are generally authorized, subject to the presentation of supporting documents and compliance with the relevant provisions under customs laws, income tax laws, and AML/CFT laws (where applicable in relation to financial institutions that facilitate the transfers), and the Betting, Gaming and Lotteries Act.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	Deposit-taking financial institutions may not invest on behalf of clients. This business is conducted by separate corporate entities. BOJ operates a foreign exchange facility for PSEs. The foreign exchange demand of PSEs is consolidated and met through this facility thereby minimizing volatility in the market. The surrender requirement for ADs is 20% of their daily foreign exchange purchases from commercial clients, of this 15% is directed to the PSE facility and the additional 5% comprises the regular surrender arrangement for ADs. The surrender requirement for cambios is 15% of their daily foreign exchange purchases from commercial clients (of this 10% is directed to the PSE facility and 5% comprises the regular surrender arrangements for cambios).
Borrowing abroad	Yes.	Licensed deposit takers are not prohibited from borrowing overseas, but the extent to which such activities may be undertaken is subject to these persons continuing to meet the prudential and statutory limits regarding the nature and quality of investments. SDs, which are subject to margin and capital requirements, may not engage in credit operations that would result in a breach of margin and/or capital requirements.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	No.	No restrictions apply, but institutions must be guided by local and overseas income tax laws in relation to any interest accrued and remitted to Jamaica as well as the AML/CFT/PF laws in this regard as well as the respective AML/CFT/PF guidance issued by functional regulators.

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	Licensed deposit takers under the BSA are not prohibited from lending overseas, but the extent to which such activities may be undertaken is subject to these persons continuing to meet the prudential and statutory limits regarding the nature and quality of such facilities as well as any financial regulations operating in that jurisdiction. The following limits apply: Financial institutions (operating under the BSA, that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) and financial institutions (operating under Insurance Act and Securities Act) are exempt from the requirements of the Money Lending Act and the Microcredit Act. The business of money lending in foreign currency is subject to the provisions of the BOJ Act. Licensed deposit takers under the BSA (that is, commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies) are subject to statutory lending limits and other prudential requirements applicable to the extension of credit as follows: (1) Facilities to any one person (not another bank) may not exceed in the aggregate 20% of a DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 5% of the DTI's capital base. (2) Facilities to a group may not exceed in the aggregate 40% of the DTI's capital base; for any portion of such credit facilities that is unsecured, that portion may not exceed 10% of the DTI's capital base. There are also prudential provisioning requirements applicable to the extension of credit. In relation to the DTIs, the BSA 2014 repealed Banking Act (BA) and Financial Institutions Act (FIA), which governed these entities and substantially amended the Building Societies Act. The BSA came into force September 30, 2015, by Appointed Day Notice signed by the minister of finance. However, notwithstanding the repeal of the BA and FIA and amendment of the Building Societies Act, regulations (including notices and notifications) under the repealed enactments remain in effect with such changes as may be necessary, as if made under the BSA (Section 139). SDs are subject to margin and capital requirements and may not engage in credit operations that would result in a breach of margin and/or capital requirements.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Currently, lending in foreign currency may be carried out only by ADs. Other commercial lenders may apply for exemptions issued by the MOF.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	Any person may purchase instruments denominated in foreign currency. ADs have the broadest permit to carry out transactions with securities issued in foreign currency. Other specific categories of companies are allowed to acquire foreign securities only in accordance with the directives issued by the MOF. Deposit takers must hold capital on a risk-weighted basis that depends on the classes of assets held. Limits are communicated by the BOJ on a case-by-case basis and on request.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.	Commercial banks and other licensed DTIs under the BSA may be required to match their Jamaican dollar liabilities to their clients with Jamaican dollar assets.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	The minimum cash reserve requirements for domestic-currency-denominated liabilities were reduced to 5% from 7% effective May 15, 2020. The requirement on foreign currency liabilities was reduced to 13% from 15% effective May 15, 2020. The cash reserve and liquid assets requirements are differentially applied to building societies not meeting a prescribed threshold of qualifying assets (residential mortgage lending) in relation to savings funds. For building societies, domestic and foreign currency reserve requirements are based on building societies meeting the 40%

		threshold for domestic-currency-denominated qualifying assets in relation to domestic currency deposits and withdrawable shares and for foreign-currency-denominated qualifying assets in relation to foreign currency deposits and withdrawable shares. Societies that meet the qualifying assets threshold have lower requirements of 1% and 5% for the cash reserve and liquid assets ratios (LARs), respectively. Higher requirements apply to societies that fail to meet the prescribed thresholds. The BSA came into effect September 30, 2015, by Appointed Day Notice signed by the Minister of Finance. The BSA repealed and replaced the BA and FIA and substantially amended the Building Societies Act. However, notwithstanding the repeal of the BA and FIA and amendment of the Building Societies Act, regulations (including notices and notifications) under the repealed enactments remain in effect with such changes as may be necessary, as if made under the BSA (Section 139), unless expressly revoked.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The LAR for domestic currency liabilities of commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies was reduced from 21% to 19% effective May 15, 2020. The LAR for foreign currency liabilities of commercial banks, merchant banks, and building societies was reduced to 27% from 29% effective May 15, 2020. The cash reserve and liquid assets requirements are differentially applied to building societies not meeting a prescribed threshold of qualifying assets (residential mortgage lending) in relation to savings funds. For building societies, domestic and foreign currency reserve requirements are based on building societies meeting the 40% threshold for domestic-currency-denominated qualifying assets in relation to domestic currency deposits and withdrawable shares and for foreign-currency-denominated qualifying assets in relation to foreign currency deposits and withdrawable shares. Societies that meet the qualifying assets threshold have lower requirements of 1% and 5% for the cash reserve and LARs, respectively. Higher requirements apply to societies that fail to meet the prescribed thresholds. Debt securities and instruments issued by the GOJ, whether denominated in Jamaican dollars or in foreign currency and regardless of original maturity, are designated liquid assets within nine months of maturity. The BSA came into force September 30, 2015, by Appointed Day Notice signed by the minister of finance. The BSA repealed and replaced the BA and FIA and substantially amended the Building Societies Act. However, notwithstanding the repeal of the BA and FIA and amendment of the Building Societies Act, regulations (including notices and notifications) under the repealed enactments remain in effect with such changes as may be necessary, as if made under the BSA (Section 139) unless expressly revoked.
Credit controls	No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.	Deposit accounts, whether held by residents or nonresidents, are treated alike, except for the tax treatment of A accounts. customers or other third parties.
Reserve requirements	No.
Liquid asset requirements	No.
Interest rate controls	No.

Abroad by banks	Yes.	There are limits on investments by DTIs that apply to equity investments. Aggregate shareholding may not exceed 50% of the capital base, and in any one company may not exceed 10% of the capital base.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Substantial ownership (that is, holdings of 20% or more) in banks is subject to the Supervisory Committee. Foreign governments and their agents may not hold more than 5% of the shares in locally incorporated commercial banks and licensed DTIs, unless the Supervisory Committee approves. Pursuant to the BSA, the Supervisory Committee replaces the minister of finance as the supervisory decision-making authority.
Open foreign exchange position limits	No.
Provisions specific to institutional investors	Yes.	As of 2017, GOJ foreign currency exposures were 100% risk-weighted. Foreign currency bonds issued by the GOJ adhere to the global standard as set out in the Basel Accord. ADs, insurance companies, credit unions, building societies, cambios and exchange bureaus, CISs, and pension fund managers may not acquire foreign assets, except in accordance with directives issued by the MOF. No directions have been issued to authorize the acquisition of foreign assets by credit unions. These transactions may be undertaken in accordance with the requisite exemption orders issued under the BOJ Act. Stipulated requirements are the standard minimum requirements. The insurance, securities, and pension sector have specific legislations and attendant regulations.
Insurance companies	Yes.	Insurance companies are subject to the requirements of the Insurance Act and its regulations and to all other regulatory requirements issued by the FSC. Insurance companies may acquire securities issued by the GOJ and securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, or the United States as well as the foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions issued October 2020 and April 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed 10% of total assets. These permissions apply in relation to permissible insurance business which is defined as including General insurance business as defined under the Insurance Act; Ordinary Long Term Insurance Business as defined under the Insurance Act, excluding Equity Linked Insurance Products; and Sickness and Health Insurance Business. These requirements are the standard minimum requirements. Insurance regulations 38–72 govern the investments that an insurance company may make, specifying, for example, eligible investments, portfolio limits, and prohibited investments. Limits are communicated by the BOJ on a case-by-case basis or on request.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Insurance companies may acquire only securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States and foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). Pursuant to Regulation No. 59 of the Insurance Regulations, an insurer that is authorized to transact business on a branch basis in a foreign country may hold foreign securities of that country not exceeding its deposit and reserve obligations incurred in that country.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Insurance companies may acquire only securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States and foreign assets set out in BOJ (Dealings In Foreign Currency) (Foreign Asset Limit) (Insurance Companies) Directions effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). Matching assets must be held in relation to liabilities.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	The Insurance Regulations recognize the credit risk implications of an overexposure to one type of investment. For this reason, the regulations specify certain limits for various types of investments. These limits are generally specified as a percentage of the total assets of the insurance company and not the total amount of liabilities. For example, Insurance Regulation 42 restricts any combination of investment in one counterparty to 5% of the insurer's assets.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurance companies must ensure that matching assets are held against liabilities incurred. Insurance companies are expected to apply an asset liability management program that is appropriate to the nature, scale, and complexity of the risk and its business. The insurance act was amended to expand the powers of the FSC to prescribe regulations for insurers to establish risk management procedures based on international standards, allowing the Commission to introduce new regulations which will require insurers to carry out annual stress testing and implement asset liability management policies and procedures to assess and mitigate the risk to which these entities are exposed in their daily business activities.
Pension funds	Yes.	The Pensions (Superannuation Funds and Retirement Schemes) Act and regulations and directions from the BOJ in relation to the acquisition of foreign assets apply. The Pensions (Superannuation Funds and Retirement Schemes) (Investment) regulations governed the pension plans' investment. Investment in ordinary shares must be from a recognized stock exchange of a recognized jurisdiction. Recognized jurisdiction is defined as Canada, United Kingdom, or United States. Limits were communicated by the BOJ on a case-by-case basis or on request and thereafter by Directions of October 2020, and April 30, 2021.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	For pension funds that acquire foreign assets as part of their business activities, purchases must be in accordance with directions issued by the MOF. Accordingly, pension funds may acquire only securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, or the United States, and foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings in Foreign Currency) (Foreign Assets Limit) (Pensions Funds), Directions, effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. Foreign assets may not exceed, effective April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies and pension funds (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). These requirements are the standard minimum requirements and may change.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	For pension funds that acquire foreign assets as part of their business activities, purchases must be in accordance with directives issued by the MOF and the BOJ Act Section 22B(1). Pension funds may acquire only securities issued or guaranteed by the governments of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States, and foreign assets set out in the BOJ (Dealings in Foreign Currency) (Foreign Assets Limit) (Pensions Funds), Directions, effective October 30, 2020, and April 30, 2021. 		April 1, 2021, 10% of the total assets of insurance companies and pension funds (previously effective November 1, 2020, the limit was increased to 7.5% from 5%). These requirements are the standard minimum requirements and may change.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	No specific regulation requires a minimum on local portfolio holdings. However, directives include maximums for institutions' foreign investment (that is, no more than 10% of total assets in foreign assets).
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.	While pension legislation does not explicitly require currency matching, it is a criterion considered in evaluating the maturity profile of the assets and liabilities of a pension plan.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.	SDs (investment firms) must be incorporated in Jamaica or CARICOM member countries. For CIS, the CIS Regulations—Parts II and III provide for the registration for both local and overseas CIS, respectively. Part III of the CIS Regulations states the requirements for overseas CIS to be registered to issue its securities in Jamaica. An example of the requirements is the submission of information and documents (including but is not limited to financial statements, organizational documents, and a profile of directors and officers) to satisfy the FSC, including: (1) the overseas CIS which is from a jurisdiction where the laws and regulatory oversight for CIS are sufficient to ensure investor protection and market integrity and (2) the CIS which is in good standing in the foreign jurisdiction.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	CIS Regulation 33 mandates investment restrictions for CIS. For example, (1) no more than 15% of the scheme's net assets may be invested in illiquid assets and (2) no more than 10% of the scheme's net assets may consist of securities from one issuer, except in the case of securities that are issued or guaranteed by the GOJ and the BOJ and issued by any government where those securities have received an investment grade credit rating. For the SDs, there are concentration limits and large exposure limits. For the purchase of foreign securities, the cap on foreign assets for SDs and CISs' investments is 25%. The permissible investment activities also include investment grade sovereign obligations, investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated outside of Jamaica, and shares of such corporations. Effective April 30, 2021, the permissible investment activities were expanded to include investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated in Jamaica and which are foreign exchange earners; publicly traded shares of entities incorporated in Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada Dollars that are earners of foreign exchange and whose debts are rated by credit rating agencies as investment grade; BOJ CDs denominated in foreign currency; GOJ guaranteed corporate foreign currency debt instruments issued by corporate entities incorporated in Jamaica, publicly traded shares of corporate entities incorporated outside of Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada dollars, with market capitalization of US$10 billion or greater.

		include investment grade sovereign obligations, investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated outside of Jamaica, and shares of such corporations. Effective April 30, 2021, the permissible investment activities were expanded to include investment grade corporate obligations of entities incorporated in Jamaica and which are foreign exchange earners; publicly traded shares of entities incorporated in Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada Dollars that are earners of foreign exchange and whose debts are rated by credit rating agencies as investment grade; BOJ CDs denominated in foreign currency; GOJ guaranteed corporate foreign currency debt instruments issued by corporate entities incorporated in Jamaica, publicly traded shares of corporate entities incorporated outside of Jamaica with shares issued in United States Dollars, Great Britain Pounds, Euro or Canada dollars, with market capitalization of US$10 billion or greater.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	No regulation specifies a minimum on local portfolio holdings. This is a requirement under the BOJ Act directives to insurance companies, pension funds, and CISs, which are among those specified in Section 22B of the BOJ Act. CIS Regulation 33 mandates investment restrictions for CIS. For example, (1) no more than 15% of the scheme's net assets may be invested in illiquid assets and (2) no more than 10% of the scheme's net assets may consist of securities from one issuer, except in the case of securities that are (a) issued or guaranteed by the GOJ and the BOJ and (b) issued by the BOJ and any government where those securities have received an investment grade credit rating. For the SDs, there are concentration limits and large exposure limits.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.	Although securities legislation does not explicitly state that a SD must match the currency composition of assets against liabilities, in calculating the capital adequacy ratio, a dealer must measure its exposure in each foreign currency position by deducting all liability amounts from all asset amounts in each currency. The overall net position is added to the total of the dealer's risk-weighted assets in determining the capital adequacy ratio. Implicitly, it is in a dealer's best interest to match the foreign currency asset and liability positions or to hold additional capital against this specific exposure.

Monetary policy framework

Inflation-targeting framework	04/16/2021	Jamaica's monetary policy framework moved from Inflation Targeting Lite to a full-fledged inflation-targeting regime with the passing of the Bank of Jamaica (BOJ) (Amendment) Act, 2020. The BOJ (Amendment) Act, 2020 also established the MPC which has the responsibility of making monetary policy decisions to achieve the Government of Jamaica's inflation target.
Target setting body
Government	04/16/2021	The inflation target was established by the Minister of Finance and the Public Service in consultation with Bank of Jamaica.
Accountability
Open letter	04/16/2021	If inflation falls either below the lower end of the target (below 4%) or increases above the upper-end of the target (above 6%), the Bank is required to explain to the Minister of Finance and the Public Service (MOFP) and the Jamaican public why the inflation target was missed and the corrective policy actions that will be taken to restore

Parliamentary hearings	04/16/2021	inflation to the target. The Bank is required to notify the MOFP within 60 days of missing the target. The MPC must publish statements on the performance of the Bank with respect to its monetary policy and achievements in relation to the inflation target, and issue monetary policy updates which are to be submitted to the Minister of Finance and the Public Service (MOFP) every six months, at a minimum, or as may be directed by Parliament. The law guides that the MOFP must, on receipt of the Monetary Policy Statement prepared by the MPC, table a copy in the House of Representatives, following which, in keeping with the statutory provision, the MOFP must refer to the Standing Finance Committee of the House of Representatives.
Transparency
Publication of minutes	04/16/2021	The MPC must at the end of each meeting, or as soon as practical thereafter, publish on the Bank's website, a summary of the decisions made at the meeting and the reasons, and must further within four weeks of the conclusion of the meeting publish on the Bank's website the Minutes of the meeting.

Floating

Free floating Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate of the yen is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. However, the authorities intervene when necessary to counter disorderly conditions in the market. The principal intervention currency is the US dollar. Interventions fall within the mandate of the MOF, which publishes daily purchases and sales amounts as well as intervention currencies on its website. The BOJ, acting as agent of the Minister of Finance, intervenes in the market through financial institutions and/or brokers. The last time the MOF intervened in the foreign exchange market was from October 31 through November 4, 2011 (¥9,091.6 billion), to address excess volatility and disorderly exchange rate movement. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as free floating. The MOF publishes monthly data on foreign exchange interventions in its monthly press release.

Official exchange rate No. There are no officially set rates in the spot exchange market, and spot exchange transactions are based on free-market rates. Therefore, the authorities do not publish a reference rate.

JAPAN

Policy rate	Yes.	A negative interest rate of minus 0.1% to the policy rate balances in current accounts held by financial institutions at the BOJ is the short-term policy interest rate. The BOJ also targets the 10-year Japanese Government Bond (JGB) yield at around 0%. In 2018, with a view to persistently continuing with powerful monetary easing, the BOJ decided to strengthen its commitment to achieving the price stability target by introducing forward guidance for policy rates. Effective April 27, 2020, the BOJ lifted the quantitative target for the annual JGB purchases of ¥80 trillion and will purchase a necessary amount of JGBs without setting an upper limit on its guidance on JGB purchases to maintain 10-year JGB yields at around 0%.
Target corridor band	Yes.	Effective March 19, 2021, the BOJ explicitly clarified the band around the 10-year JGB yield target of +/- 25 bps. In addition, it also introduced “fixed-rate purchase operations for consecutive days” to set an upper limit on interest rates when necessary.

Transparency	Yes.	The BOJ releases the Outlook for Economic Activity and Prices (Outlook Report) quarterly (usually January, April, July, and October). The Outlook Report presents the BOJ’s outlook for developments in economic activity and prices, assesses upside and downside risks, and outlines its views on the future course of monetary policy. The Monetary Policy Meetings are held eight times a year, and the Statement on Monetary Policy is released immediately after the meeting. The Summary of Opinions is published about a week after the meeting.
Publication of votes	Yes.	Votes are published in the Statement on Monetary Policy.
Publication of minutes	Yes.	The minutes of each Monetary Policy Meeting are published after the following meeting. The transcript of each Monetary Policy Meeting is published ten years after the Monetary Policy Meeting (available only in Japanese).
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	Each Board member’s forecasts for the economy and prices are released in the Outlook Report quarterly.

Forward exchange market	Yes.	There are no officially set rates in the forward exchange market, and forward exchange transactions are based on free-market rates. The BOJ does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market. Effective March 16, 2020, to support the smooth functioning of US dollar funding markets, the BOJ, in coordination with the Bank of Canada, the Bank of England, the ECB, the Federal Reserve, and the Swiss National Bank enhanced the provision of US dollar liquidity, by lowering the pricing on the standing US dollar liquidity swap arrangements by 25 basis points, and offering an 84-day maturity in addition to the one-week maturity that was already in place. Effective March 20, 2020, these CBs, including the BOJ, further enhanced the provision of US dollar liquidity by increasing the frequency of 7-day maturity operations from weekly to daily. Effective July 1, 2020, in view of the improvements in US dollar funding conditions and the low demand at 7-day maturity operations, the Bank of England, the BOJ, the ECB, and the Swiss National Bank, in consultation with the Federal Reserve, reduced the frequency of 7-day operations from daily to three times per week. Effective September 1, 2020, in view of the continuing improvements in US dollar funding conditions and the low demand at 7-day operations, these CBs, including the BOJ, reduced the frequency of 7-day operations from three times per week to once per week. Effective July 1, 2021, in view of the sustained improvements in US dollar funding conditions and the low demand at US dollar liquidity-providing operations, these CBs, including the BOJ, discontinued offering dollar liquidity at the 84-day maturity.

The harmonized classification schedule annexed in the Customs Tariff Law sets out both the classification and the corresponding customs duty rate (called the general rate) of particular products. The rate actually applied, however, is not necessarily the general rate. The Temporary Tariff Measures Law sets out the temporary rate for certain products, which in these cases prevails over the general rate. In addition, when the customs duty rate in the WTO Concession Schedule (so-called WTO rate) is lower than the general rate (or the temporary rate, if applicable), the WTO rate is applied. For designated developing countries and areas, the Temporary Tariff Measures Law also provides a preferential rate, which is applicable to certain products and lower than the above rates. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The dynamics of the tenge exchange rate in 2020 were influenced by the consequences of the coronavirus pandemic on the economy and world markets. The widespread introduction of restrictive measures and the lack of an Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) members' agreement on cutting oil production in March 2020 led to a double shock for the oil market. A sharp deterioration in fundamentals and elevated market volatility exerted significant pressure on the foreign exchange market in March 2020: the exchange rate of the tenge, after reaching a maximum value of T 448.52 per US dollar on April 2, 2020 (–17,7% year to date), gradually recouped some losses thanks to the subsequent stabilization of foreign markets and the measures taken.

In view of the gradual easing of strict quarantine restrictions and the restoration of economic activity, the situation in the foreign exchange market has stabilized. There was an increase in oil prices and an increase in investor demand for risky assets, including the currencies of developing economies. The tenge exchange rate strengthened from April to June, reaching a minimum level of 397.27 (June 8, 2020). However, as concerns about the second wave of coronavirus grew, volatility increased again on world markets, and there was a decline in oil prices. In September and October 2020, the National Bank of Kazakhstan (NBK) conducted interventions to prevent excessive exchange rate volatility.

Reports on successful trials of vaccines against coronavirus had a positive impact on oil prices and global risk sentiment in November–December 2020. The dynamics of the tenge exchange rate in these conditions reflected the external positive developments in the markets. In addition, the strengthening of the national currency was supported by large sales of foreign currency by exporters for tax payments. Thus, by the end of 2020, the tenge had weakened by 10% to 420.71.

In general, the foreign exchange market, despite some periods of volatility, remained stable. The dynamics of the tenge reflected the trends of fundamentals and in world markets.

The NBK publishes monthly data on foreign exchange interventions on a regular basis, with time series available beginning in January 1996. Data are usually published within two weeks of the end of the reporting period. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is Target horizon	Yes.	Effective March 5, 2021, the horizon for reaching the inflation target is over the medium term (previously one year).

Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	The NBK targets the short-term money market rate TONIA (tenge overnight index average), which is the weighted average interest rate on overnight repo transactions on the Kazakhstan Stock Exchange (KASE) in the automatic repo sector. For the purpose of greater representativeness and to establish a money market interest rate benchmark, effective December 28, 2020, TONIA is calculated at the end of each working day as a weighted average value of the profitability of one-day repo operations with a cutoff of 5% of transactions with the lowest and highest profitability. The threshold volume of transactions for the calculation of TONIA is set at T 100 billion. If the threshold value of the volume of transactions per day is not reached, TONIA is defined as the sum of the value of the base rate set by the NBK effective that day and the average spread of TONIA to the base rate for the previous five days.
Target corridor band	Yes.	The NBK sets a base rate with a corridor of $\pm 100$ basis points. The NBK has standing deposit and liquidity provision facilities.

As of January 1, 2021, there were 26 institutions that held licenses to perform banking and other operations. The NBK issues licenses for exchange operations with foreign currency in cash, which authorizes the exclusive activity of foreign currency exchange operations in cash and the purchase and sale of refined gold bullion with individuals. Nonbank exchange bureaus do not have the right to conduct foreign exchange operations directly with the NBK. Nonbank exchange bureaus may not make payments and transfers in foreign currency on behalf of their customers. They may open accounts abroad and may purchase foreign currency from and sell foreign currency to authorized banks and the public. As of January 1, 2021, there were 2, 247 bank and nonbank foreign exchange bureaus performing operations with foreign exchange cash. Banks, authorized institutions, and nonbank foreign exchange bureaus set their exchange rates independently. Pursuant to NBK Resolution No. 296 of November 29, 2018, the limits (T 6 and T 7 for the US dollar and the euro, respectively) on the margin between the buying and selling rates of cash in US dollars and euros for tenge cash transactions conducted with the public through exchange bureaus were eliminated.

KAZAKHSTAN

However, effective March 20, 2020, by Resolution No. 33 of March 19, 2020, the NBK reestablished the limits on the margin between the buying and selling rates on cash foreign exchange transactions against tenge conducted by individuals through exchange offices of authorized banks and authorized nonbanking organizations as follows: T 6 for the US dollar and T 7 for the euro. The resolution was adopted in the context of COVID-19. Effective July 14, 2020, given the lack of consensus with regard to the outlook for an end to the negative impact of external economic factors related to COVID-19 on the country's economy and the domestic foreign exchange market, under National Bank of the Republic of Kazakhstan Executive Board Resolution No. 86 of July 14, 2020, on the Establishment of Limits on the Margin between Buying and Selling Rates for Foreign Exchange Transactions against the Tenge Performed through Exchange Offices (taking into account the changes made on December 21, 2020), the decision was made to extend the margin limits of T 6 for US dollars and T 7 for euros until January 1, 2022.

There are no provisions with regard to commissions on the sale and purchase of foreign exchange cash through exchange bureaus.

Payments arrangements No.

Bilateral payments arrangements No.

Operative No.

Inoperative No.

Regional arrangements No.

Clearing agreements No.

Barter agreements and open accounts No.

Administration of control Yes.

Foreign exchange control is administered by the government, the NBK, and other foreign exchange control bodies and agents in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation and Foreign Exchange Control and legislation of the Republic of Kazakhstan. The NBK and other government bodies (the MOF, the Public Revenue Committee under the MOF) serve as foreign exchange control agents in accordance with the scope of authority established by legislation. Authorized banks, nonbank exchange bureaus, and professional participants in the securities market who perform foreign exchange transactions for their clients serve as foreign exchange control agents.

The NBK monitors compliance by residents and nonresidents with the requirements of foreign exchange legislation and performance of the functions of foreign exchange control agents by authorized banks and nonbank exchange bureaus.

The Agency of the Republic of Kazakhstan for the Regulation and Development of the Financial Market licenses banks and financial institutions to engage in banking operations in foreign exchange and supervises the activities of banks and other financial institutions. The NBK also licenses nonbank exchange bureaus and supervises their activities.

The MOF monitors and supervises government loans and government-guaranteed loans. Public revenue authorities (the Public Revenue Committee of the MOF) participate in foreign exchange control related to exports and imports. At the time of customs clearance of goods, an authorized official of a territorial subdivision of the public revenue body—when there is an export or import foreign exchange contract that requires the assignment of a record number in accordance with the Rules for Export-Import Foreign Exchange Control in the Republic of Kazakhstan—checks the record number of the export or import foreign exchange contract entered in the declaration of the goods against the information received regarding the export or import foreign exchange contract with a record number.

If there is a discrepancy between the declaration and the actual information, the exporter or importer must make the relevant corrections to the declaration of goods following the procedure established by the customs legislation of Kazakhstan. Government agencies that issue export and import licenses also monitor compliance with eligibility criteria and licensing rules.

Payments arrears No.

 Private No.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion) Yes.

Public (trade) relations arising in the production of precious metals and the turnover of precious metals and precious stones, raw materials containing precious metals, and jewelry and other products made of precious metals and precious stones are regulated by currency legislation and the legislation of Kazakhstan on precious metals and by international treaties.

In accordance with currency legislation, authorized banks and authorized organizations may carry out, through their exchange offices, transactions for the purchase and (or) sale of refined gold bullion, as issued by the NBK.

Refined gold bullion is classified as a foreign exchange asset, and transactions with it for domestic currency are classified as foreign exchange transactions and are subject to the same regulation as other foreign exchange transactions.

Refined gold and gold for minting coins are classified as commodities subject to export restrictions under Decision No. 30 of the Board of the Eurasian Economic Commission (EAEC) of April 21, 2015, on Nontariff Regulatory Measures. (This restriction does not extend to the CBs of EAEU member states.)

On domestic ownership and/or trade No.
 On external trade Yes.

According to the AML/CFT law, a transaction, purchase, or sale of precious metals and precious stones and jewelry, including in cash form, is subject to financial monitoring if the transaction amount is equal to or exceeds T 5 million or the equivalent in foreign currency. Data and information on transactions subject to financial monitoring are sent to the Agency of the Republic of Kazakhstan for Financial Monitoring.

The Ministry of Industry and Infrastructure Development administers government control of imports and exports of precious metals and commodities containing precious metals. EAEU member states apply identical controls on external trade in gold.

Refined gold bullion is classified as a foreign exchange asset, and transactions with it are classified as foreign exchange transactions and are subject to the same regulation as other foreign exchange transactions. Refined gold and gold for minting coins are classified as commodities subject to export restrictions under Decision No. 30 of the Board of the EAEC of April 21, 2015, on Nontariff Regulatory Measures; specifically, a license is issued in accordance with the Instruction on the Preparation of an Application for a License to Export and/or Import Certain Types of Goods and on the Preparation of Such a License, approved by Decision No. 199 of the Board of the EAEC of November 6, 2014, along with a government control document. (This restriction does not extend to CBs of EAEU member states.) Exports of precious metals, including refined gold bullion, from the EAEU require a license from the pertinent EAEU government authority where the exporter is registered. Exports of precious metal coins from the EAEU require a government control document. Exports from the EAEU of precious metal coins that are the legal tender of an EAEU member are handled by that country's CB and commercial banks.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	No.	Within the EAEU, individuals may move cash and/or monetary instruments in an unlimited amount and without declaration. A declaration is required in the case of imports by individuals from third countries (countries that are not EAEU members) or exports by individuals to third countries of cash and/or traveler's checks exceeding the equivalent of US$10,000 and of monetary instruments denominated in domestic and foreign currency (for example, bills of exchange, bank checks, certified bearer securities). Banks are permitted to freely import and export domestic and foreign currency, provided they comply with the requirements of the customs legislation.
On exports	No.
Domestic currency	No.	For individuals, cash and/or traveler's checks are subject to customs declaration if the total amount imported into or exported from the customs territory of the EAEU at one time exceeds the equivalent of US$10,000 at the exchange rate in effect on the day the passenger customs declaration is presented to a customs authority. For legal entities, domestic currency banknotes are subject to customs declaration as goods.

The state registration of corporate issue-grade securities issues is performed by the authorized body as part of the state regulation, oversight, and supervision of the activities of entities operating in the market for securities and other financial instruments.

A resident organization of the Republic of Kazakhstan has the right to perform the issue and/or placement of issue-grade securities within the territory of a foreign state only with the relevant permission from the authorized body.

When shares are placed by a resident organization of the Republic of Kazakhstan, the following conditions must be met:

(1) The issue-grade securities of one or more issues of issue-grade securities previously issued by the given resident organization of the Republic of Kazakhstan are listed on a stock exchange within the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

(2) In the placement of shares of a resident organization of the Republic of Kazakhstan, or depository receipts, the shares or depository receipts must be included in stock exchange listing categories or consent must be obtained from a stock exchange for their inclusion in stock exchange listing categories established by a regulatory legal act of the authorized body.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Borrowing abroad	Yes.	Banks must comply with the following ratio of liabilities to nonresidents to equity capital: The ratio of total short-term liabilities to nonresidents to the bank's equity capital (coefficient k-7) may not exceed 1. Obligations to nonresidents include (1) demand liabilities to nonresidents, including liabilities for which no settlement period has been set; (2) term liabilities to nonresidents with initial maturity up to one year inclusive; and (3) term obligations to nonresidents with the unconditional right of the creditor to demand early repayment, including term and conditional deposits of banks, except term and conditional deposits of individuals and legal entities.

Maintenance of accounts abroad	No.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	No.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Mortgage loans not related to entrepreneurial activity in foreign currency are prohibited to individuals who do not have income in this currency for six consecutive months preceding the date of the application.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	The securities banks may purchase are specified in paragraph 8 of Article 8 of the Law on Banks and Banking. Specifically, there is a requirement that banks be allowed to perform transactions with debt securities with a minimum required rating. The rating for bonds of foreign issuers and issuers of the Republic of Kazakhstan must be at least B (based on the classification of the Standard & Poor's and/or Fitch rating agencies) or at least B2 (based on the Moody's Investors Service classification). The rating for foreign government bonds must be at least BBB- (based on the Standard & Poor's and/or Fitch classification) or at least Baa3 (based on the Moody's Investors Service classification). There are no restrictions regarding the currency in which a debt security is issued.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	Foreign exchange deposits are included in the liability base for banks' minimum reserve requirements (MRRs). For the purpose of calculating MRRs, liabilities in domestic and foreign currencies are differentiated according to maturity (short term and long term). The ratios for liabilities in foreign currency are 3% for short-term and 1% for long-term liabilities; in tenge they are 2% for short-term and 0% for long-term liabilities.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	For monitoring liquidity of commercial banks, the relevant agency sets limits (minimum values) for coefficients of banks' current, quick, and quick foreign exchange liquidity. The liquidity coefficients are calculated as the ratio of the average monthly amount of a bank's assets to its average monthly liabilities, taking into account accrued fees, types of assets and liabilities, and other factors. The limit for the current liquidity ratio (k-4), calculated as the ratio of a bank's average monthly highly liquid assets to its average monthly demand liabilities, including accrued fees, is 0.3. The quick liquidity ratio k4-1, calculated as the ratio of a bank's average monthly highly liquid assets to average monthly term liabilities with remaining maturity up to and including seven days, may not be less than 1. Limits are set at 0.9 and 0.8, respectively, for quick liquidity ratios k4-2 and k4-3, which are calculated as the ratio of a bank's average monthly liquid assets to average monthly term liabilities with remaining maturity up to one month (k4-2) and up to three months (k4-3). The foreign exchange liquidity ratio k4-4, calculated as the ratio of average monthly highly liquid foreign currency assets to average monthly term liabilities in the same foreign currency with remaining maturity up to and including seven days, may not be less than 1. When calculating the foreign exchange liquidity ratio k4-4, a bank's term liabilities with a remaining maturity up to seven days, multiplied by a conversion coefficient equal to 100%, are included in

		the amount of liabilities in foreign currency with a remaining maturity up to seven days. Accordingly, there are limits of 0.9 and 0.8 for foreign exchange liquidity ratios k4-5 and k4-6, which are calculated similarly for term liabilities with maturities up to one month and three months. When calculating the foreign exchange liquidity ratio k4-5, a bank's term liabilities with a remaining maturity up to one month, multiplied by a conversion coefficient equal to 90%, are included in the amount of liabilities in foreign currency with a remaining maturity up to one month; when calculating the foreign exchange liquidity ratio k4-6, a bank's term liabilities with a remaining maturity up to three months, multiplied by a conversion coefficient equal to 80%, are included in the amount of liabilities in foreign currency with a remaining maturity up to three months.
Interest rate controls	No.	The Kazakhstan Deposit Guarantee Fund (KDGF) determines the amount and procedure for the payment of banks' contributions, which are calculated through a methodology developed by the KDGF, taking into account the compliance of interest rates on new personal deposits with those recommended by the KDGF for deposits in foreign currency and deposits in domestic currency.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.
Reserve requirements	No.	Deposits in foreign currency are included in the liability base for which banks must comply with MRRs. For the purpose of calculating the MRRs, liabilities in domestic and foreign currencies are differentiated according to the principle of maturity (short term and long term). The ratios for liabilities in foreign currency are 3% for short-term liabilities and 1% for long-term liabilities, while the ratios for liabilities in domestic currency are 2% for short-term liabilities and 0% for long-term liabilities.
Liquid asset requirements	No.	The calculation of liquid assets includes all financial assets, including highly liquid assets, minus (1) specially formed provisions and (2) claims on nonresidents that are legal entities registered abroad or their citizens or legal entities registered in countries on the list of countries that have not accepted OECD information exchange obligations or their citizens or organizations that are subsidiaries of legal entities registered in the aforementioned countries. Loans are included on the redemption schedule in accordance with loan agreements. The following securities, which are not included in the calculation of highly liquid assets, are included in the calculation of liquid assets, provided the given securities are serving as collateral for liabilities that are included in the calculation of liabilities: (1) government securities of the Republic of Kazakhstan issued by the government and the NBK; (2) securities issued by the Samruk-Kazyna National Welfare Fund and the Baiterek Management Holding Company Joint-Stock companies; (3) government securities of countries with a sovereign debt rating in foreign currency no lower than the level established by the NBK; and (4) bonds of foreign issuers with a minimum required rating assigned by one of the rating agencies and conforming to the requirements of the agency. When calculating liquid assets, the time remaining to maturity for securities is considered to be the time remaining to maturity for the liabilities for which the given securities are serving as collateral. There is no difference in the liquid asset requirement for deposits of/liabilities to nonresidents and residents.

Abroad by banks	Yes.	Investments of resident banks abroad are restricted by limits on the placement of equity and borrowed funds in domestic assets. For commercial banks (with the exception of banks founded by the Republic of Kazakhstan Government), average monthly internal assets must be equal to at least the average monthly amount of equity capital, subordinated debt, perpetual financial instruments, debt securities issued by the bank—except securities issued by the bank in foreign currency—and internal liabilities. In addition to the average monthly indicator, banks must adhere to a daily limit, which is equal to 95% of internal assets for each day based on the average monthly volume of internal liabilities for the previous month. Relevant credit risk weights are established for banks' assets placed with nonresident institutions when calculating capital adequacy coefficients (k1, k1-2, and k-2), which are calculated as follows: k1 is calculated as the ratio of core capital to the sum of assets and contingent liabilities, weighted by the degree of credit risk, and assets and contingent claims and liabilities calculated taking into account market risk and operational risk. The minimum level is 0.055. k1-2 is calculated as the ratio of Tier 1 capital to the sum of assets and contingent liabilities, weighted by the degree of credit risk, and assets and contingent claims and liabilities calculated taking into account market risk and operational risk. The minimum level is 0.065. k-2 is calculated as the ratio of equity capital to assets and contingent liabilities, weighted by the degree of credit risk, and assets and contingent claims and liabilities calculated taking into account market risk and operational risk. The minimum level is 0.08.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Effective December 16, 2020, a nonresident bank from WTO member countries may apply to the authorized body to obtain permission to open a branch in the Republic of Kazakhstan if certain conditions are met. Previously, opening of branches of nonresident banks were not permitted. The conditions include the following: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>(1) The total assets of the nonresident bank must not be less than the equivalent of US$20 billion.</li> <li>(2) The nonresident bank's country of residence cooperates internationally in preventing and combating the legalization (laundering) of criminal proceeds and the financing of terrorism and cooperates with the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering (FATF).</li> <li>(3) There is an agreement between the authorized body and the financial supervision body of the nonresident bank's home country.</li> <li>(4) There is written notification from the financial supervisory authority of the nonresident bank's home country stating that it does not object to the opening of a branch in the Republic of Kazakhstan, or a statement from that country's financial supervisory authority that permission is not required.</li> <li>(5) There is written confirmation from the financial supervisory authority of the nonresident bank's home country that it is licensed to carry out banking activities.</li> </ol>

The founders and shareholders of the bank may be legal entities and individuals, residents and nonresidents of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

Legal entities registered in offshore zones listed by the authorized body may not directly or indirectly own and (or) use and (or) dispose of voting shares of banks resident in the Republic of Kazakhstan.

A nonresident legal entity may obtain approval from the Agency of the Republic of Kazakhstan for Regulation and Development of the Financial Market to be a bank holding company or major stakeholder in a bank if it has the minimum required rating from one of the major rating agencies. A nonresident bank with the required rating may be a parent bank of a subsidiary bank. A list of the major rating agencies and the minimum required rating are established by the Agency of the Republic of Kazakhstan for Regulation and Development of the Financial Market. Legal entities registered in offshore zones, or with affiliates registered in offshore zones, and participants in (founders or shareholders of) legal entities registered in offshore zones, listed by the authorized agency, may not directly or indirectly hold, use, and/or determine the disposition of voting shares in resident banks. This restriction does not apply to banks that are subsidiaries of nonresident banks with a minimum required rating from one of the rating agencies.

A minimum long-term credit rating in foreign currency of at least BBB on the Standard & Poor's international scale or equivalent ratings assigned by another established rating agency is established for the following nonresident legal entities:

legal entities that are acquiring (or have) the status of a bank holding company or holding company; legal entities that are acquiring (or have) the status of a major stakeholder in a bank; banks that are establishing (or that have) subsidiary banks in the Republic of Kazakhstan.

This requirement does not apply to

(1) nonresident legal entities that meet all of the following conditions:

(a) It has a minimum long-term credit rating in foreign currency of at least BB- on the Standard & Poor's international scale or equivalent ratings assigned by another established rating agency.

(b) It is a resident of a foreign country with a minimum sovereign rating in foreign currency of at least BB- according to Standard & Poor's or equivalent ratings assigned by another established rating agency.

(c) There is an information-sharing agreement between the authorized body for the regulation, oversight, and supervision of the financial market and financial institutions and the authorized body for banking regulation of the legal entity's home country.

(2) Nonresident bank holding companies that acquired the relevant status before January 1, 2013, and that meet the following requirements as of the date indicated:

(a) It has a long-term credit rating in foreign currency of at least AAA on the national scale of the Japanese Credit Rating Agency or an affiliate rating agency.

(b) Its home country has a sovereign rating in foreign currency of at least BB- according to Standard & Poor's or equivalent ratings from another established rating agency.

(c) There is an information-sharing agreement between the Republic of Kazakhstan authorized body for the regulation, oversight, and supervision of the financial market and financial institutions and the authorized body for banking regulation of the bank holding company's home country.

KAZAKHSTAN

A nonresident founder of a bank must have written notification from the authorized agency (for banks not located in the Republic of Kazakhstan, the banking supervision agency) of the relevant country indicating that the person may hold shares in a bank in the Republic of Kazakhstan, or must have a statement from the authorized agency (for nonresident banks, the banking supervision body) of the relevant country indicating that such permission is not required.

A nonresident bank holding company that directly holds 25% or more of the bank's placed shares (excluding preferred shares and those repurchased by the bank) or that is able to directly cast votes based on 25% or more of the bank's voting shares may only be a nonresident financial institution that is subject to consolidated supervision in its home country.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad

Yes.

(2) 30% of the value of net assets for a joint-stock investment fund and a closed-end mutual fund.

These limits do not apply to Republic of Kazakhstan government securities or to financial instruments issued (offered) by entities with more than 50% of voting shares held by the state or a national management holding company, or a national holding company and its affiliates operating in the same sector of the national economy. These requirements do not apply to risk-based investment funds and real estate funds.

The total amount of investments of an investment fund's assets in financial instruments issued (offered) by a single entity with more than 50% of voting shares held by the state or a national management holding company, or a national holding company and its affiliates operating in the same sector of the national economy, must not exceed

(1) 30% of the value of net assets for an open-end or interval mutual fund;

(2) 50% of the value of net assets for a joint-stock investment fund and a closed-end mutual fund. The requirements under this item do not apply to risk-based investment funds and real estate funds.

The NBK has established a list of financial instruments that may be included in open-end and interval mutual funds, as well as in real estate funds. The assets of other joint-stock investment funds and of closed-end mutual funds may be invested as determined by the investment declaration of the investment fund.

Open-end and interval mutual funds' investments in nongovernment securities of foreign organizations must be (1) debt securities with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BB- or an equivalent rating from another rating agency and/or debt securities listed by a stock exchange in a foreign country and recognized by a stock exchange in the Republic of Kazakhstan; (2) shares issued by foreign organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BB- or an equivalent rating from another rating agency and/or shares listed by a stock exchange in a foreign country and recognized by a stock exchange in the Republic of Kazakhstan; (3) depository receipts whose underlying assets are instruments referred to under (1) and (2) or whose underlying assets are securities of issuers with an international Standard & Poor's rating in foreign currency no lower than B- or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (4) government securities issued by central foreign governments with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (5) foreign currency of countries with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (6) principal-protected notes issued by organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than A- or an equivalent rating from another rating agency that meets the conditions of regulatory legal acts; and (7) derivative financial instruments (futures, options, swaps, forwards) for hedging purposes whose underlying assets are financial instruments of open-end and interval mutual funds or foreign currency or performance ratios (indicators).

Joint-stock real estate investment funds' investments in financial instruments issued by foreign organizations may be

(1) shares issued by foreign organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than AA- or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (2) debt securities issued by foreign organizations with a rating no lower than AA- on the Standard & Poor's international scale or an equivalent rating from one of the other rating agencies; (3) debt securities issued by IFIs with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (4) government securities issued by foreign central governments with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (5) foreign currency of countries with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; and (6) derivative financial instruments for hedging purposes whose underlying assets are financial instruments permissible for acquisition with the assets of real estate funds in accordance with this list.

Limits on minimum investments held locally have not been established. Instead, the NBK has established a list of financial instruments in which investment funds may place their assets, and requirements have been established for these assets. The given requirements do not apply to high-risk investment funds. The NBK has established a list of financial instruments that may be included in open-end and interval mutual funds, as well as in real estate funds. The assets of other joint-stock investment funds and of closed-end mutual funds may be invested as determined by the investment declaration of the investment fund. Open-end and interval mutual funds' investments in nongovernment securities of foreign organizations must be (1) debt securities with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BB– or an equivalent rating from another rating agency and/or debt securities listed by a stock exchange in a foreign country and recognized by a stock exchange in the Republic of Kazakhstan; (2) shares issued by foreign organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BB– or an equivalent rating from another rating agency, and/or shares listed by a stock exchange in a foreign country and recognized by a stock exchange in the Republic of Kazakhstan; (3) depository receipts whose underlying assets are instruments referred to under (1) and (2) or whose underlying assets are securities of issuers with an international Standard & Poor's rating in foreign currency no lower than B– or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (4) government securities issued by central foreign governments with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (5) foreign currency of countries with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (6) principal-protected notes issued by organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than A– or an equivalent rating from another rating agency that meets the conditions of regulatory legal acts; and (7) derivative financial instruments (futures, options, swaps, forwards) for hedging purposes whose underlying assets are financial instruments of open-end and interval mutual funds or foreign currency or performance ratios (indicators). Joint-stock real estate investment funds' investments in financial instruments issued by foreign organizations may be (1) shares issued by foreign organizations with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than AA– or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (2) debt securities issued by foreign organizations with a rating no lower than AA– on the Standard & Poor's international scale or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (3) debt securities issued by IFIs with an international Standard & Poor's rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (4) government securities issued by foreign central governments with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; (5) foreign currency of countries with a sovereign rating no lower than BBB or an equivalent rating from another rating agency; and (6) derivative financial instruments for hedging purposes whose underlying assets are

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Exchange Arrangement

Monetary policy framework

Inflation-targeting framework

Inflation target

Target horizon 03/05/2021 The horizon for reaching the inflation target is over the medium term (previously one year).

Operating target (policy rate)

Policy rate 12/28/2020 For the purpose of greater representativeness and to establish a money market interest rate benchmark, TONIA is calculated at the end of each working day as a weighted average value of the profitability of one-day repo operations with a cutoff of 5% of transactions with the lowest and highest profitability. The threshold volume of transactions for the calculation of TONIA is set at T 100 billion. If the threshold value of the volume of transactions per day is not reached, TONIA is defined as the sum of the value of the base rate set by the NBK effective that day and the average spread of TONIA to the base rate for the previous five days.

Foreign exchange market

Spot exchange market 03/20/2020 The National Bank of Kazakhstan reestablished the limits on the margin between the buying and selling rates on cash foreign exchange transactions against tenge conducted by individuals through exchange offices of authorized banks and authorized nonbanking organizations as follows: T 6 for US dollars and T 7 for euros. The resolution was adopted in the context of COVID-19.

07/14/2020 Given the lack of consensus with regard to the outlook for an end to the negative impact of external economic factors related to COVID-19 on the country's economy and the domestic foreign exchange market, under National Bank of the Republic of Kazakhstan Executive Board Resolution No. 86 of July 14, 2020, on the Establishment of Limits on the Margin between Buying and Selling Rates for Foreign Exchange Transactions against the Tenge Performed through Exchange Offices (taking into account the changes made on December 21, 2020), the decision was made to extend the margin limits of T 6 for US dollars and T 7 for euros until January 1, 2022.

Resident Accounts

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency 03/23/2020 The purchase of noncash foreign currency by resident legal entities (other than banks) on the same business day through a single bank for purposes not related to the fulfillment of foreign currency obligations is limited to the equivalent of US$50,000 (previously US$100,000).

Imports and Import Payments

Documentation requirements for release of foreign exchange for imports 03/23/2020 When requesting to purchase noncash foreign currency for domestic currency for purposes not related to the fulfillment of obligations, in amounts exceeding the equivalent of US$50,000 on the same day through a single bank (previously US$100,000), resident legal entities must state the purpose and amount of the foreign currency being purchased by submission of a copy of the relevant foreign exchange contract.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

Surrender requirements	03/21/2020	The Republic of Kazakhstan Government Resolution on the Surrender by Quasi-Public Sector Entities of a Portion of their Foreign Currency Proceeds in the domestic market was adopted. It requires the sale of 50% of the foreign currency export proceeds of the quasi-public sector entities in the domestic market. The resolution's validity was extended until January 1, 2022.
------------------------	-------------------	---

Repatriation requirements

Surrender requirements	03/21/2020	The Republic of Kazakhstan Government Resolution on the Surrender by Quasi-Public Sector Entities of a Portion of their Foreign Currency Proceeds in the domestic market was adopted. It requires the sale of 50% of the foreign currency export proceeds of quasi-public sector entities in the domestic market. The resolution's validity was extended until January 1, 2022.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions

Investment regulations

In banks by nonresidents	12/16/2020	A non-resident bank from WTO member countries may apply to the authorized body to obtain permission to open a branch in the Republic of Kazakhstan if certain conditions are met. Previously, opening of branches by nonresident banks were not permitted.
---------------------------------	-------------------	--

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Insurance companies

12/16/2020	Nonresident insurance companies and brokers from WTO member countries may open branches of an insurance (reinsurance) company and an insurance broker in the Republic of Kazakhstan within the framework of the Law of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated November 24, 2015, No. 422-V.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	In accordance with UNSC resolutions, Korea maintains certain exchange restrictions against the following individuals and entities: certain individuals and entities associated with the Taliban, the Al-Qaida network, terrorists in general, and the former regime of Saddam Hussein; certain individuals and entities posing a threat to international peace and security in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Côte d'Ivoire, and Sudan; certain individuals and entities threatening peace and security in Eritrea and Somalia; certain individuals and entities involved in Iranian nuclear and/or ballistic missile programs; certain individuals and entities involved in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea's nuclear, ballistic missile, or other weapons of mass destruction (WMD) and related programs; certain individuals and entities threatening peace and security in Liberia; certain individuals and entities associated with Muammar Qadhafi's regime; and certain individuals and entities threatening peace and security in Central African Republic, Republic of South Sudan, and Yemen. Korea maintains certain exchange restrictions against certain individuals named by the Guidance of the Ministry of Economy and Finance (MOEF). Also, certain individuals and entities related to the Islamic Republic of Iran (Iranian residents or groups located in Iran) were eliminated from certain exchange restrictions list because of the MOEF revised notice.

Floating	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate of the won is freely determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. As such, the system is managed in accordance with the principles defined by the free floating system, and the government's role is very limited to remain within the range allowed by the free floating system. However, because of the lack of information on the authorities' interventions, the de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating. The Bank of Korea (BOK) may intervene in the market with the funds of the BOK and the Foreign Exchange Equalization Fund when it is deemed necessary for the stability of the market. Interventions in the spot market or through derivatives in the forward market are not announced, but quarterly aggregate intervention data in net terms are published. The Korean government and the BOK (the foreign exchange authorities) are implementing their disclosure in two stages. In the first stage, information is disclosed on a semiannual basis, no later than three months after the end of each six-month period. In the second stage, from July 2019 onward, information is disclosed on a quarterly basis, no later than three months after the end of the respective quarter.

Central Bank Board
Other
Government and Central Bank	Yes.	The BOK sets the operational framework of the inflation targeting in consultation with the government (MOEF). The operational framework includes the numerical inflation target, the inflation target measure, and the target horizon.
Target number	Yes.
Point target	Yes.	The inflation target for 2019 onward has been set at 2%. The BOK will review the inflation targeting framework in consultation with the government every two years and explain the review to the public. If adjustment of the inflation target becomes inevitable, due for instance to unexpected domestic or global economic shocks or to changes in economic conditions, the BOK will adjust the target in consultation with the government.
Target with tolerance band
Band/Range
Target measure	Yes.
CPI	Yes.	The target measure is the monthly year-on-year (y-o-y) CPI inflation published by the Statistics Korea.
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The BOK conducts monetary policy to maintain the annual rate of CPI inflation near the target over a midterm horizon.
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	The Monetary Policy Board of the BOK meets eight times a year to determine the base rate. As of August 12, 2021, the policy rate was 0.5%.
Target corridor band	Yes.	The BOK uses the base rate as a fixed bid rate for its sales of seven-day repurchase agreements and as the minimum bid rate for its purchases of seven-day repurchase agreements. The interest rates of liquidity adjustment deposits and loans are 100 basis points (bps) below and above the base rate, respectively. If the base rate falls below 1%, then the interest rate of liquidity adjustment loans is equal to two times the base rate, and the rate for liquidity adjustment deposit is 0%.
Other	No.
Accountability	Yes.
Open letter	No.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	If there is a request from the national assembly, the governor will attend the meeting and answer questions.
Other	Yes.	The BOK publishes its “Monetary Policy Report” four times a year to explain how it is implementing the inflation target monetary policy. The BOK publishes twice a year an inflation assessment, which includes price developments, future inflation forecasts and risks, and the monetary policy stance for achieving price stability, and provides explanations of the assessment to the public through various means (or channels), such as by holding governor's press conferences.

Publication of votes	Yes.	Right after a committee meeting, the governor holds a press conference to announce the policy decision. In the press conference, the governor also informs who were minor voters.
Publication of minutes	Yes.	The committee meeting minutes are published on the first Tuesday falling after two weeks from the meeting by posting it in the website of the BOK. The names of committee members are concealed in the minutes.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	The inflation forecast is published through a quarterly economic forecast (Economic Outlook) by the BOK with two-year horizon.
Other monetary framework
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The Korean foreign exchange market consists of OTC markets and exchanges. The OTC markets comprise a customer market in which foreign exchange banks deal with customers, including importers, exporters, travelers, and nonresidents, and an interbank market, in which foreign exchange banks deal among themselves. Standardized products are traded on the exchanges. Residents may buy and sell financial futures on internationally recognized futures exchanges or on the domestic exchange, the Korea Exchange. Commercial banks may set exchange rates and commissions freely in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Financial institutions trade foreign exchange either via brokers or directly among themselves. As of December 31, 2020, 64 institutions, including 55 foreign exchange banks, participated in the spot foreign exchange market through brokers. Financial institutions are required to register with the MOEF to deal in foreign exchange. Foreign exchange bureaus, such as hotels, department stores, and travel agencies, need to register with Korea Customs Service. As of December 31, 2020, there were 1,493 foreign exchange bureaus. They may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the BOK and are limited to purchasing and selling banknotes denominated in foreign currency and purchasing traveler's checks issued in a foreign country. Foreign Exchange Transaction Regulation Article 2-16, which regulates the tasks and duty of foreign exchange bureaus, was moved to Article 3-2.2. Foreign exchange bureaus can pay by domestic payment means to buy foreign currency or traveler's check from residents or nonresidents. They are responsible for preparing exchange books, which contain exchange date, name of buyer (seller), personal information such as ID card number, exchange amount, applied exchange rate, and other transaction information and report the exchange books to Korea Customs Service. Spot foreign exchange transactions are allowed between security brokerages. The won-yuan spot foreign exchange market operates based on a market-making agreement with 11 designated market makers as of December 31, 2020.

Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Foreign exchange banks participate in the interbank market mainly to dispose of open foreign exchange positions arising from transactions with nonfinancial customers such as companies and nonresidents. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants. Financial institutions participating in the interbank foreign exchange market have formed an autonomous committee, the Seoul Foreign Exchange Market Committee. Foreign exchange brokers, the BOK, and the government also participate in this committee. Ten institutions have been licensed as foreign exchange brokers, with licenses granted by the MOEF.
Over the counter	Yes.	Financial institutions transact directly among themselves.
Brokerage	Yes.	Most interbank transactions are handled through brokers who intervene between foreign exchange banks without holding a position. MOEF authorization is required to operate a foreign exchange brokerage business.
Market making	Yes.	Eleven foreign exchange banks are designated as market makers in the won-yuan spot foreign exchange market.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange banks may freely carry out forward transactions between foreign currencies, as well as between won and foreign currencies in the interbank and customer markets. Effective March 19, 2020, the limits on banks' foreign exchange derivatives contracts were increased to 50% from 40% of bank capital for domestic banks and to 250% from 200% for foreign bank branches, to prepare for a sudden volatility in the foreign exchange swap market as part of the COVID-19 pandemic response effort.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.	All settlements with other countries may be made in any currency. Nonresidents may carry out current transactions and limited capital transactions denominated in won.

Held domestically	Yes.	Residents may hold foreign exchange accounts freely.
Approval required	No.
Held abroad	Yes.	Prior BOK notification is required for transfers abroad by individuals if the amount exceeds US$50,000 a person for each transfer. Balances in the foreign exchange accounts held abroad can be freely transferred to home country.

KOREA

Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency Yes.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. Remittances from these accounts and withdrawals in foreign currency may be made freely. The approval of the bank is not required when the account is held for remittances abroad or transfers to other foreign exchange accounts, for purchases and withdrawals of foreign means of payment, or for payments relating to approved transactions.

Approval required No.

Domestic currency accounts Yes. Nonresidents may open three kinds of domestic currency accounts with domestic foreign exchange banks: (1) nonresident domestic currency accounts; (2) nonresident free won accounts; and (3) exclusive domestic currency accounts for investment. A nonresident domestic currency account is for domestic settlement, whereas a nonresident free won account is for international settlement. An exclusive domestic currency account, a special form of nonresident free won account, is for settlement of investments in shares, bonds, or money-market instruments.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes. Remittances from nonresident free won accounts and exclusive domestic currency accounts for investment may be made freely, but remittances abroad from nonresident domestic currency accounts require notification to BOK in advance of the transfer. (BOK does not have a right to stop remittance from nonresidents' won accounts, but remittance cannot be proceeded without such declaration.)

Approval required No.

Blocked accounts No. Transfers are blocked between nonresident domestic currency accounts and nonresident free won accounts, between nonresident domestic currency accounts and domestic currency accounts exclusively for investment, and between nonresident free won accounts. (See above for description of the types of nonresident accounts.)

Article XIV

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2020.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.	Kosovo implements certain restrictive measures, such as freezing of funds, other financial assets, and economic resources.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Kosovo maintains restrictions in accordance with UNSC resolutions, sanctions issued by institutions of the EU and the Government of the USA. Those restrictions are imposed purely for the preservation of national and international security. The Government of Kosovo Decision No. 09/196 of September 17, 2014, endorsed sanctions issued by institutions of the EU and the Government of the USA against legal entities and the authorities of Russia. An Administrative Directive on Prevention and Detection of Terrorism Financing is in place. Article 4 of the Directive provides for lists of persons and entities suspected of terrorism as follows: Consolidated Lists of Individuals and Entities belonging to or associated with the Taliban and Al-Qaida Organization as established and maintained by the UNSC (UNSC Resolution No. 1267); the list established by the EU (EU Council Resolution No. 2580/2001); and the list established by the Secretary State of the USA (Section 219 of the Immigration and Nationality Act of the USA).
Other security restrictions	No.

Classification
No separate legal tender	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement is an exchange arrangement with no separate legal tender. Since January 2002, when Kosovo unilaterally adopted the euro, this currency is a legal tender in the Territory and circulates freely. The United Nations Interim Administration Mission in Kosovo (UNMIK) Regulation No. 1999/4 of September 2, 1999, "On the currency permitted to be used in Kosovo” specifies in Section 1 that “Parties to a contract or any voluntary transaction may denominate such transaction in any currency agreed on by the parties. Unless proven otherwise, such an agreement must be deemed to exist with regard to any foreign currency that is widely accepted in the Territory of Kosovo.”

Administrative Direction No. 1999/2 of October 4, 1999, “Implementing UNMIK Regulation No. 1999/4 of 2 September 1999, On the Currency Permitted to be used in Kosovo” designated Deutschmark (DEM) as the only currency to formulate accounts and to perform compulsory payments.

Later, because of the changeover of DEM into euro, Administrative Direction No. 2001/24 of December 21, 2001, “Amending Administrative Direction No. 1999/2 implementing UNMIK Regulation No. 1999/4 on the currency permitted to be used in Kosovo” replaced DEM by euro (1 euro = 1.95583 DEM).

Exchange tax No.Exchange subsidy No.Foreign exchange market Yes. Banks and other financial institutions may trade in foreign exchange among themselves at freely determined exchange rates.

Spot exchange market Yes. Commercial banks and other financial institutions in Kosovo may purchase and sell euros for other currencies. There were 11 commercial banks and 59 foreign exchange bureaus participating in the foreign exchange market as of June 30, 2021. The foreign exchange market in Kosovo is limited because most international payments and transfers are done in euro. Foreign exchange bureaus must be licensed and operate under the Central Bank of the Republic of Kosovo (CBK) regulation. The number of authorized foreign exchange bureaus is not limited. Foreign exchange bureaus may not

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the Request for Purchase Under the Rapid Financing Instrument and Disbursement Under the Rapid Credit Facility with the Kyrgyz Republic states that, as of March 24, 2020, the Kyrgyz Republic maintained a MCP arising from the use of the official exchange rate for government transactions. The official rate may differ by more than 2% from market rates because it is based on the average transaction weighted rate of the preceding day. (Country Report No. 20/90)
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	The Kyrgyz Republic maintains certain exchange restrictions in accordance with UNSC resolutions to combat the financing of terrorism and for anti-money-laundering purposes.
Other security restrictions	Yes.	Measures have been adopted that restrict financial transactions and freeze the accounts of certain individuals and organizations associated with terrorism, pursuant to UNSC resolutions, the current FATF list of organizations associated with terrorism, and a list of individuals and entities involved in terrorism and/or extremist activities, or in the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, compiled by the State Financial Intelligence Service under the Government of the Kyrgyz Republic (GKR).

Exchange Arrangement

Currency	Yes.	The currency of the Kyrgyz Republic is the Kyrgyz som.
Other legal tender	No.
Exchange rate structure
Unitary
Dual	Yes.	The exchange rate structure is dual, because the official rate may differ by more than 2% from market rates because it is based on the average transaction-weighted rate from 3:00 p.m. of the preceding trading day until 3:00 p.m. of the current trading day. In practice, the official and market rates have never differed by more than 2%. Since 2010, the official exchange rate of the US dollar against the som has been calculated daily as the weighted average of the exchange rates used in US dollar purchase and sale transactions carried out in the exchange market through the National Bank of the Kyrgyz Republic's (NBKR's) Automated Trading System (ATS) for the reporting period from 3:00 p.m. of the previous trading day until 3:00 p.m. of the current trading day. Since 2012, the official exchange rates of the euro, ruble, and tenge have been determined daily. The official exchange rates of other foreign currencies are determined on a weekly basis, based on the cross-rates of quotes for these currencies against the US dollar in international financial markets.

The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The movement of the exchange rate is determined by foreign currency supply and demand. The NBKR may participate and intervene in the interbank foreign exchange market to limit exchange rate volatility and smooth out sharp fluctuations as necessary. Information on interventions is published on the NBKR's official website on the day an intervention is performed, after the close of the trading day. Data on the date of the intervention and the volume purchased or sold in US dollars are published.

In 2020, the situation in the foreign exchange market developed against the backdrop of the COVID-19 pandemic and volatility in global financial and commodity markets. The official exchange rate of the US dollar against the som rose by 18.9%. From January 2021 through June 30, 2021, the situation in the foreign exchange market remained relatively stable. The official exchange rate of the US dollar against the som rose by 1.39%, from 83.5000 to 84.6640 soms to the dollar.

Since March 2020, the exchange rate increased its flexibility while still being managed. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to other managed from stabilized, effective March 12, 2020.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	The NBKR's goal is to achieve and maintain price stability, as specified in the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking. In accordance with the Medium-Term Monetary Policy Guidelines (approved by Executive Board Resolution No. 2017-P-07/51-1-(DKP) of December 13, 2017), the intermediate target of monetary policy is an inflation forecast based on a comprehensive analysis of the macroeconomic situation in the Kyrgyz Republic and in the external environment. The National Bank's discount rate as the main monetary policy instrument is a benchmark for the cost of funds in the money market. Short-term money market interest rates serve as an operational monetary policy benchmark.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The National Bank defines the procedure and conditions for the performance of transactions in the interbank foreign exchange market, and it develops and implements a single foreign exchange policy and regulation in the Kyrgyz Republic. Transactions involving the purchase and sale (exchange) of cash and noncash domestic and/or foreign currency within the Kyrgyz Republic are not restricted and are performed at banks, specialized financial and financial and lending institutions, microfinance companies, microcredit companies, credit unions, and exchange bureaus with the relevant license from the National Bank.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Transactions involving the purchase and sale (exchange) of cash and noncash domestic and/or foreign currency within the Kyrgyz Republic are not restricted and are performed only at banks, specialized financial and financial and lending institutions, microfinance companies, microcredit companies, credit unions, and exchange bureaus with the relevant license from the National Bank. The procedure and conditions for the performance of transactions involving the purchase and sale (exchange) of cash and noncash domestic and/or foreign currency, as well as requirements imposed on authorized persons, are determined by the National Bank (Article 36 of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking). As of December 31, 2020, there were 23 licensed commercial banks (including one branch of a foreign bank), 396 foreign currency exchange bureaus, 9 microfinance companies licensed to perform certain banking operations in foreign currency, and 2 microcredit companies licensed to perform the purchase and sale of foreign currency on their own behalf. In accordance with Article 11 of Kyrgyz Republic Law No. 206 of December 16, 2016, on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking, commission fees and rates for the performance of banking services are set independently by the persons performing the banking services, in accordance with the requirements of the banking legislation of the Kyrgyz Republic. In accordance with Article 35 of the same law, the official exchange rate is determined and announced by the National Bank on the basis of the market spot exchange rate and other market rates. The official exchange rate is determined and announced by the National Bank with an obligation on the part of the National Bank to purchase and sell foreign currency at the announced exchange rates, and at the same time, pursuant to paragraph 2 of the same article, the spot exchange rate and other market rates are freely determined between the seller and the buyer, unless otherwise established by the National Bank.

In accordance with Article 2-1 of Kyrgyz Republic Law No. 116 of July 22, 2011, on Competition, anti-monopoly regulation in the banking services market is performed by the NBKR in accordance with regulatory legal acts, compliance with which is mandatory for commercial banks and other financial and lending institutions licensed and regulated by the NBKR.

The sale and purchase of cash and noncash foreign exchange through clearing transactions, payment of traveler's checks, and payments in foreign currency are limited to NBKR-licensed banks.

Licenses to perform the activity of a foreign currency exchange bureau are issued only to legal entities. The activities of foreign currency exchange bureaus are licensed and regulated by the NBKR.

Foreign currency exchange bureaus may conduct only transactions specified in their licenses. They may not perform foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB. Legal entities that open exchange bureaus and have a license to perform exchange transactions with foreign exchange cash may without restriction purchase and sell using their own resources (within the limits of their reported working capital) and on their own behalf only foreign exchange cash, and only in exchange for cash domestic currency. Exchange bureaus must provide information on the sources of their working capital (NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 53/10 of November 27, 2014). If a legal entity opens an account abroad, this does not mean that this is an account of the foreign currency exchange bureau. A foreign currency exchange bureau itself may not open an account abroad.

To engage in the purchase and sale of foreign currency on its own behalf, credit union and microcredit company have to obtain an additional license from the NBKR. A microfinance company has to obtain a license to perform certain banking operations in foreign currency. A specialized financial and lending institution has to obtain licenses to perform exchange operations with foreign currency.

Operated by the central bank Yes.

Foreign exchange standing facility Yes.

The NBKR participates in the foreign exchange market for the purpose of smoothing out excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate. The NBKR deals directly with market participants.

Foreign currency interventions have not been performed on an ongoing basis but have been isolated events.

Interbank market Yes.

The foreign exchange market operates within the framework of the ATS. Electronic trading is carried out daily from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. except on weekends. To become a participant in the interbank foreign exchange market, a financial institution must obtain a license for foreign exchange transactions and sign the Agreement on Participation in ATS. The NBKR grants licenses for foreign exchange transactions. Twenty-three commercial banks (including one branch of a foreign bank) have been licensed and have signed agreements on participation in the ATS as of December 31, 2020. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads, nor are there any

Official	Yes.	Technical indebtedness to official bilateral creditors is allowed as a result of discussions with Paris Club creditors in March 2005 on restructuring the Kyrgyz Republic's external debt. Within the framework of agreements with the Paris Club, debt consolidation and restructuring agreements have been signed with Denmark, France, Germany, Japan, Russia, and Turkey. In addition, the Kyrgyz Republic has negotiated and entered into agreements on settling debt to Uzbekistan and the Kuwaiti Arab Economic Development Fund and on writing off debt to China, India, and Pakistan. In 2014, the Agreement on the Restructuring of the Kyrgyz Republic's Debt to the Export-Import Bank of Korea was ratified. In 2014, an agreement on a second amendment to the Agreement on the Modernization of the Telecommunications Network Between the Kyrgyz Republic Government and the Export-Import Bank of Korea Project took effect, according to which the Kyrgyz Republic's debt to the Republic of Korea was restructured. The Debt Restructuring Agreement of November 19, 2013, makes it possible to reduce annual payments from 1.2 billion Korean won (about US$1.1 million) to 0.4 billion Korean won (US$0.3 million). The deadlines for repayment of the principal have been extended to 2045, with payments scheduled to begin in 2018. This will substantially reduce the burden on the expenditure side of the Kyrgyz Republic budget with regard to the servicing of external public debt over the medium and long term. In March 2016, on the basis of the Agreement of March 31, 2010, and the Agreement of December 11, 2012, debt to the KfW bank (Germany) in the amount of 13.5 million euros was written off. In addition, in 2019 agreements were reached between the Kyrgyz Republic Government and the government of the Federal Republic of Germany (KfW, the German Development Bank) on conversion of

The NBKR limits commercial banks' open position in precious metals. The limits on open positions in precious metals are carried out similarly to the limits on open positions in foreign currency: The limit for each precious metal is 15% of the net total capital of commercial banks and the limit for all precious metals is 20% of the net total capital of commercial banks. Commercial banks submit balances daily to the NBKR for each type of precious metal as well as information on compliance with open foreign exchange position limits for precious metals as part of their reporting requirements. Pursuant to Article 11 of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on Precious Metals and Precious Stones, supervision of compliance by persons performing operations (transactions) with precious metals and precious stones and jewelry articles thereof (including scrap) with the requirements of the Kyrgyz Republic legislation on combating the financing of terrorism and money laundering is performed in accordance with the legislation of the Kyrgyz Republic (Kyrgyz Republic Law No. 87 of August 6, 2018, on Combating the Financing of Terrorist Activity and Money Laundering; Kyrgyz Republic Government Resolution No. 606 of December 25, 2018, on Measures to implement the Kyrgyz Republic Law on Combating the Financing of Terrorist Activity and Money Laundering).

Kyrgyz Republic (according to Article 31, paragraphs 1 and 3, of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the Securities Market).

Under Article 85 of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking (2017), any individual or legal entity is required to obtain written permission from the National Bank if intending, singly or jointly with other parties, regardless of the method of acquisition of ownership of shares, including inheritance or reinstatement of ownership, to acquire a threshold stake in the capital of a bank, including a significant stake and control, which may be achieved through an additional acquisition of shares. A threshold stake in a bank's capital refers to direct or indirect ownership or management, singly or jointly with other parties, of 10% or more, 20% or more, 33% or more, 50% or more, and 67% or more of a bank's voting shares.

Legal entities that are not engaged in banking or financial activity may not, singly or jointly with other persons: exercise direct or indirect ownership or management of more than 20% of the voting shares of any type of a bank; individuals and legal entities residing and/or registered in offshore zones or that have as stakeholders affiliated persons registered in offshore zones, a list of which is established by the National Bank, individuals and legal entities subject to international sanctions adopted by the UNSC, as well as individuals and legal entities registered in states subject to international sanctions adopted by the UNSC that prohibit legal relationships with said persons and are binding on the Kyrgyz Republic may not be bank shareholders. In the event of a change in the stakeholders in microcredit companies and microcredit agencies, written approval from the NBKR is required.

Acquisition of more than 20% of the shares of microfinance companies requires NBKR approval.

Pursuant to Article 85 of Kyrgyz Republic Law No. 206 of December 16, 2016, on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking: (1) A significant stake refers to direct or indirect ownership or management, singly or jointly with other persons, of 10% or more of the voting shares of a joint-stock company or 10% or more of the authorized capital of a legal entity that is not a joint-stock company; (2) indirect ownership refers to the ability to exert a substantial influence, through a third party, on the adoption of decisions by a bank's management bodies, significant stakeholders of a bank, persons who exercise control over a bank, or participants in a banking group.

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents

Yes.

Securities of foreign issuers may be offered publicly in the Kyrgyz Republic following the procedure established under the Law on the Securities Market and other regulatory legal acts of the Kyrgyz Republic. In the event of a securities issue, a public offering of the securities is prohibited if the issuer has not registered the terms of the public offering and a prospectus.

Nonresidents may buy and sell shares in accordance with current regulations. No later than three business days from the date of announcement, issuers must, in the prescribed manner, notify the authorized government body for the regulation of the securities market. Material facts include an event (fact) that could have an impact on the issuer's financial and commercial activity and/or on the price of securities, including:

- changes in the list of persons serving on the issuer's governing bodies (with the exception of a general shareholders' meeting);
- changes in the size of participation of persons serving on elected bodies for the management of the issuer in the capital of the issuer, as well as its subsidiary and dependent companies;
- changes in the list of persons holding 5% or more of the securities (

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	The NBKR licenses and carries out prudential regulation of the lending activities of financial and lending institutions.
--	------	--

Commercial banks operate under a license to perform banking operations in domestic and/or foreign currency. Commercial banks may operate on the basis of Islamic financing principles under licenses to perform banking operations based on Islamic financing principles in domestic and foreign currencies. Nonbank financial and lending institutions operate under a license/certificate of registration to perform banking operations in domestic and/or foreign currency. Nonbank financial and lending institutions may operate on the basis of Islamic financing principles under licenses to perform banking operations based on these principles in domestic and foreign currencies. Within the context of implementing the Kyrgyz Republic Government Affordable Housing Program for 2015–2020, amendments have been made to the Kyrgyz Republic Laws on the Licensing and Permitting System in the Kyrgyz Republic and on Collateral, to the Civil Code of the Kyrgyz Republic, and also to the Law on the Protection of Bank Deposits to set up a mechanism for contractual savings for housing. Thus, to ensure the functioning of this mechanism, the National Bank drafted and adopted the Regulation on the Licensing of Housing Savings Credit Companies and the Rules for Regulation of the Activities of Housing Savings Credit Companies, and amendments and additions have also been made to current regulatory legal acts of the National Bank with regard to regulating the activities of housing savings credit companies. These regulatory legal acts are posted on the official website of the National Bank. To date, the NBKR, granted approval on April 29, 2020, for state registration of the Ak-Bosogo Housing Savings Credit Open Joint-Stock Company. A license was granted to the Ak-Bosogo Housing Savings Credit Open Joint-Stock Company on January 6, 2021, allowing it to perform certain banking operations.

With a view to bringing regulatory legal acts of the National Bank into line with the Kyrgyz Republic Law on Guarantee Funds in the Kyrgyz Republic, the Kyrgyz Republic National Bank Executive Board adopted regulatory legal acts on licensing and on the regulation and supervision of activities of guarantee funds. These regulatory legal acts are posted on the official website of the National Bank.

With the aim of providing support to businesses and promoting further development of their activities by increasing access to financial resources, given the need to mitigate the negative consequences of COVID-19, and bearing in mind the Fund’s goals and objectives, the National Bank is providing for capitalization of the Fund in the amount of 1 billion soms.

At a special general meeting of the Fund’s shareholders on May 15, 2020, the shareholders adopted a decision to increase the Fund’s capital by 1 billion soms at the expense of National Bank resources. At an extraordinary general meeting of the Fund’s shareholders on November 27, 2020, the shareholders adopted a decision to increase the Fund’s capital by 2 billion soms at the expense of National Bank resources.

These resources will be used by the Fund to offer additional guarantees for the obligations of borrower businesses, and also for placement as deposits with commercial banks, which will provide banks with additional resources for lending. These resources are also earmarked for easing the negative impact of COVID-19 on the macroeconomic situation in the country.

KYRGYZ REPUBLIC

Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	No.	These transactions must be reported to the NBKR.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Commercial banks operate under a license to perform banking operations in domestic and/or foreign currency. Commercial banks may operate on the basis of Islamic financing principles under licenses to perform banking operations based on Islamic financing principles in domestic and foreign currencies. For the purpose of minimizing indirect foreign exchange risks in lending in foreign currency, amendments and additions were made to certain regulatory legal acts of the NBKR. Thus, NBKR Executive Board Resolutions Nos. 22/6 and 22/7 of April 15, 2015, lowered the requirements for loan loss provisions in national currency to 0% and increased them for loans in foreign currency to 2.5%, or 5%, or 7.5% depending on the client's income structure in national and foreign currency. NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 53/11 of September 16, 2015, introduced amendments concerning the requirement to (1) conduct an annual internal audit of the internal control system of credit risk because of foreign currency risk, including the classification of loans/assets; (2) include in the internal regulations of the bank policies, procedures, and a comprehensive system of permanent identification, assessment, monitoring, and control for the identification and measurement of credit risk, including the credit risk because of foreign exchange risk; (3) assess the ability of the customer to service the foreign currency loan during the following 12 months if revenues are mainly in the national currency, taking into account the credit risk because of adverse changes in the exchange rate; (4) analyze at least once a month (or immediately if the official exchange rate changes by 5% or more) the impact of exchange rate changes and identify possible losses from fluctuations in exchange rates and their impact on borrower solvency. NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 78/23 of December 23, 2015, increased from 7.5% to 10% the loan loss provisions on foreign currency loans for borrowers whose income in foreign currency is less than 50%. National Bank Executive Board Resolution No. 7/3 of February 10, 2016, on Amendments and Additions to Certain Resolutions of the NBKR Executive Board, prohibited financial and lending institutions from providing consumer and mortgage loans in foreign currency to individual borrowers. Nonbank financial and lending institutions operate under a license/certificate of registration to perform banking operations in domestic and/or foreign currency. Nonbank financial and lending institutions may operate on the basis of Islamic financing principles under licenses/certificates of registration to perform banking operations based on these principles in domestic and foreign currencies. With a view to minimizing indirect foreign exchange risks when lending in foreign currency, amendments and additions were made to certain regulatory legal acts of the NBKR. Thus, the requirements regarding reserves to cover losses in domestic currency were changed pursuant to NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 2020-P-33/35-1-(NFKU) of June 17, 2020. In accordance with Articles 20 and 68 of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the NBKR, Banks, and Banking, the aforementioned resolution of the National Bank Executive Board made amendments to various resolutions of the NBKR Executive Board.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	The State Service for Regulation and Supervision of the Securities Market under the Kyrgyz Republic Ministry of Economy and Finance (Gosfinnadzor) is the authorized government body responsible for implementing the overall government policy with regard to supervision and regulation of the securities market. Gosfinnadzor implements controls on securities, with the exception of the following: government securities, municipal securities, and NBKR securities (pursuant to Article 1(2) of the Kyrgyz Republic Law on the Securities Market). The Kyrgyz Republic MOF is responsible for regulation of the government securities market (government treasury bills, government treasury bonds) in accordance with its regulatory legal acts. The NBKR serves as the agent for the placement and servicing of government securities issues.

In accordance with the Regulation on the Issue, Placement, Circulation, and Redemption of Kyrgyz Republic Government Securities, approved by Kyrgyz Republic Government Resolution No. 556 of October 2, 2008, the Kyrgyz Republic Government has the right to issue government treasury bonds in the domestic currency of the Kyrgyz Republic and in foreign currency (rules for issuing government treasury bonds denominated in foreign exchange were added to the Regulation on the Issue, Placement, Circulation, and Redemption of Kyrgyz Republic Government Securities by Kyrgyz Republic Government Resolution No. 735 of October 27, 2015).

The purpose of issuing government securities is to provide financing for the current national budget deficit and refinancing of government debt that is coming due. The specific terms and reasons for issuing government treasury bonds denominated in foreign exchange are not provided for in regulatory legal acts on government securities.

Commercial banks that have entered into an agreement on participation in auctions with the NBKR have direct access to auctions for the placement of government securities, as do institutional investors. Other interested parties may participate in auctions for the placement of government securities through commercial banks or the Kyrgyz Stock Exchange closed joint-stock company.

A joint-stock company is a legal entity doing business for the purpose of earning a profit and raising funds through the issue and placement of shares. It is required to issue shares whose value is expressed in the domestic currency of the Kyrgyz Republic regardless of the form in which a contribution is made.

The legislation of the Kyrgyz Republic does not provide for any restrictions on the issue of bonds by nonresidents denominated in foreign exchange.

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange Yes.

Reserve requirements Yes.

Differential reserve requirements for commercial banks apply. The NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 78/7 of December 23, 2015, on establishing reserve requirements amounts for liabilities included in the calculation base:

(1) for liabilities in the domestic currency in the amount of 4.0% of total liabilities in domestic currency, included in the calculation base;
 (2) for liabilities in Armenian drams, Belarusian rubels, Kazakhstani tenge, Chinese renminbi, and Russian rubles in the amount of 4.0% of liabilities in domestic currency, included in the calculation base;
 and

(3) for liabilities in foreign currency in the amount of 12.0% of total liabilities in domestic currency, included in the calculation base.

The list of liabilities included in the calculation base for required reserves includes all deposits of individuals and legal entities, as well as deposits of the Kyrgyz Republic Government and local government authorities. Commercial banks deposit required reserves in a correspondent account with the NBKR. The NBKR Executive Board Resolution No. 16/5 of April 23, 2014, specifies the procedure for compliance with reserve requirements, in accordance with which the base period for compliance with reserve requirements is four calendar weeks. The volume of required reserves is determined on the basis of the average daily calculation base for the previous base period, and the amount of required reserves is established by the NBKR Executive Board. The required reserve value that is established remains in effect throughout the four weeks of the base period. The sum equivalent of foreign exchange liabilities included in the calculation base is calculated daily at the NBKR's official exchange rate. Monitoring of compliance with required reserves is carried out at the end of the four-week base period. Reserve requirements are deemed to have been met if for the base period as a whole the difference between the amount of funds in a commercial bank's correspondent account with the NBKR and the amount of required reserves is positive or equal to 0. The volume of funds on a commercial bank's correspondent account for compliance with the reserve requirements on a daily basis must not be below the minimum threshold level determined by the NBKR Executive Board. The minimum threshold level is 80% of a bank's required reserves for the relevant period. The amount of required reserves, the list of liabilities to be included in the calculation base, and the interest rate for meeting required reserve standards are set by the Executive Board of the NBKR. The interest rate for meeting required reserve standards is equal to 0%. Crawl-like arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is a managed float. The Bank of Lao P.D.R. (BOL) allows the exchange rate to be determined by foreign currency supply and demand, but it may participate in the market as the last resort when needed. In 2020, despite the surplus in trade balance, the kip continued to follow a depreciating trend against the US dollar, contributed by the appreciation of USD against major currencies and high demand of USD in Lao especially during the COVID-19 pandemic when the demand for safe haven currency increased. In 2021, while US economy started to recover, the Lao economy experienced the second wave of the pandemic. These situations resulted in the continuous depreciation of Lao kip against USD. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as a crawl-like arrangement. Data on interventions are not published.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	To maintain price stability is the primary objective of the Eurosystem and of the single monetary policy for which it is responsible. This is stated in the Treaty on the Functioning of the EU, Article 127(1). “Without prejudice to the objective of price stability,” the Eurosystem will also “support the general economic policies in the Community with a view to contributing to the achievement of the objectives of the Community.” These include a “high level of employment” and “sustainable and non-inflationary growth.” Effective July 7, 2021, price stability is defined as a symmetric 2% inflation target over the medium term (previously, it was defined as inflation rate below, but close to, 2% over the medium term.)
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	As of December 31, 2020, all commercial banks (13) and foreign bank branches (3) registered in Latvia have general banking licenses issued by the Financial and Capital Market Commission (FCMC) that authorize dealing in foreign exchange with the public. There are also 38 foreign exchange bureaus licensed by the Bank of Latvia (BOL). Banks and foreign bank branches may engage in all types of transactions; foreign exchange bureaus may only purchase and sell banknotes.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange bureaus may operate in Latvia under a BOL license. Their operations are limited to the purchase and sale of banknotes. There were 38 foreign exchange bureaus licensed by the BOL as of December 31, 2020.

Use of foreign exchange among residents	No.
Bilateral payments arrangements	No.
Operative	No.
Inoperative	No.
Regional arrangements	Yes.	Latvia is a member of the EU.
Clearing agreements	Yes.	The BOL participates in the real-time euro gross settlement system under Trans-European Automated Real-time Gross Settlement Express Transfer System (TARGET2).
Barter agreements and open accounts	No.
Administration of control	Yes.	Government decisions adopted by the cabinet of ministers and approved by parliament prevail in foreign exchange and trade matters, but regulations governing foreign exchange transactions must be issued by the BOL. Foreign exchange transactions must be carried out through authorized banks and enterprises licensed by the FCMC and the BOL, respectively.
Official	No.

Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	Yes.	Gold articles (except coins and bullion) for the domestic market are subject to compulsory hallmarking. Market surveillance control on domestic trade in gold articles is also in place.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	Yes.	Business activity must be registered with the Assay Office of Latvia.
On external trade	No.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	No.	In accordance with Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying cash of value of €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purpose of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders.
On exports	No.
Domestic currency	No.	Travelers leaving the EU and carrying cash of value of €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they leave the EU.
Foreign currency	No.	Travelers leaving the EU and carrying cash equivalent to €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they leave the EU.
On imports	No.
Domestic currency	No.	Travelers entering the EU and carrying cash of value of €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter the EU.
Foreign currency	No.	Travelers entering the EU and carrying cash equivalent to €10,000 or more are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter the EU.

Resident Accounts

Held domestically	Yes.	A foreign exchange account may be opened with and operated by any licensed commercial bank or foreign bank branch according to its general rules and policies. There are no restrictions regarding transfers of balances abroad.

Approval required No.

Held abroad Yes. An investment fund (UCITS) may invest in deposits that are repayable on demand or have the right to be withdrawn, and maturing in no more than 12 months, provided the credit institution has received a license for the operation of a credit institution in a EU Member State or in a country which is an OECD member and which according to Regulation No. 575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of June 26, 2013, on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No. 648/2012 is considered as a country applying supervisory and regulatory arrangements to credit institutions equivalent to those applied in the EU.

Approval required No.

Accounts in domestic currency held abroad Yes.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes. The Law on the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism and Proliferation Financing (Anti-Money Laundering and Combating the Financing of Terrorism (AML/CFT)) limits the engagement of Latvian financial institutions with certain types of shell entities. Customers from higher risk jurisdictions are subject to enhanced customer due diligence (EDD) (obligatory requirement). Effective July 20, 2020, the FCMC manual on client due diligence and AML/CFT internal control system was adopted (recommendations for the credit institutions and financial institutions). The recommendations give insight into the practical aspects of conducting and managing client risks, including determining the country of residence of the client, conducting due diligence, and the specifics of enhanced due diligence. Effective January 12, 2021, the FCMC adopted a revised framework for client due diligence: FCMC Regulations No. 5 “Client due diligence and risk scoring system and information technology regulations” (KYC Regulations) stipulating the risk-based approach and requiring to assess the risk in line with EBA Guidelines on risk factors and simplified and enhanced customer due diligence. The Guidelines require to assess the nonresident risk factor and to understand the need to receive financial services abroad. The amendments to the AML/CFT Law remove the prohibition of remote identification for certain risk profile clients. Remote identification rules are stipulated in the Rules of the Cabinet of Ministers No. 392 “Procedures by which the Subject of the Law on the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing Performs the Remote Identification of a Customer” from July 3, 2018 (Remote identification rules). Currently, the FCMC is revising its remote identification guidelines.

Approval required No.

Domestic currency accounts Yes.

Convertible into foreign currency Yes.

Approval required	No.
Blocked accounts	Yes.	Accounts may be blocked in cases specified by law, for example, if account holders are suspected of engaging in money laundering. These provisions apply equally to resident and nonresident accounts, irrespective of the currency.

Only the 46 Category A money dealers may perform transfers and they are prohibited from making any transfer in excess of US$1,500 that does not result from an exchange operation or a cross-border transport operation, when the transfer consists of receiving cash amounts from customers and then transferring them to third persons whether in Lebanon or abroad through the institution's bank accounts. Only Category A money dealers with a minimum capital of LL 5 billion may conduct cross-border transport of cash banknotes and precious metals. Category B money dealers must have a minimum capital of LL 250 million if established before December 7, 2011, and LL 500 million if established on or after December 7, 2011. Category B money dealers whose capital was raised to LL 500 million may deal in cash and traveler's checks up to the equivalent of US$10,000 in uncollected traveler's checks and gold bars not exceeding 1,000 grams. Category B money dealers established before December 7, 2011, may raise their capital to LL 500 million if they wish to expand their operations to include the above. Category A money dealers with a capital greater than LL 750 million must be the only institutions entitled to perform hawala cash transfers, whether for their own account or on behalf of a third party. These institutions are also prohibited from performing transactions, such as commercial financing, lending, and the management of funds, among others, which do not fall within the scope of exchange business.

The value of an incoming or outgoing hawala transaction must not exceed US$20,000 or its equivalent in any other currency, provided the total amount of hawala transactions in a single year does not exceed, at any time, tenfold the capital of the exchange institution. Nonbank financial institutions allowed to conduct electronic transfers must settle incoming transfers in Lebanese pound. Effective January 8, 2020, the provision that nonbank financial institutions allowed to conduct electronic transfers must settle any incoming transfers in Lebanese pound was repealed.

Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The BDL sets its bid-ask rates at the opening hour on Reuters (page BDL O1), and the rates do not change during the day. The closing rates are determined and published at the end of each trading day. The bid-ask rates were LL 1,501 per US dollar and LL 1,514 per US dollar, respectively, throughout 2018. The BDL deals directly with the government and other public entities.

Positive list	No.
Negative list	Yes.	In general, import licenses are issued mainly for health, security, and fraud prevention and apply to about 3% (in value terms) of all goods imported into Lebanon (except petroleum derivatives). Licenses generally apply to imports of certain animal and plant products, medical substances, arms, ammunition, explosive materials, and certain telecommunications equipment and petroleum and industrial products.
Open general licenses	No.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	Yes.	Import prohibitions apply to a list of products for the protection of health and the environment, safety, and security. Imports from Israel are prohibited. In addition, certain commercial entities listed under the Arab Boycott List are barred from trading with Lebanon.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	Under the Harmonized Tariff System, customs valuation is based on c.i.f. or c.f.r. values; customs duties are generally ad valorem. The WTO valuation principle is also applied. Ad valorem rates vary between 0% and 75%. There are preferential duty rates for goods imported for industrial, agricultural, or public use. In addition to ad valorem duties, which apply to about 93% of products, the following rates apply: (1) The bracket-based calculation applies to cars. The value of a car is divided into two brackets, and the total duty is the sum of the duty applied at each bracket's rate. (2) Duty may be calculated on the basis of units of measure, such as weight or volume (for example, for gasoline). (3) Combined duty may be calculated on an ad valorem and specific basis, and the higher amount collected (for example, for tropical fruits and chickens). Excise duty is collected on tobacco and alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages, cars, cement, and fuels. Lebanon applies the GAFTA Convention and has signed bilateral free trade agreements with Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Turkey (the latter was signed in November 2010 but awaits parliamentary ratification), and the United Arab Emirates. Lebanon signed an interim agreement with the EU and the EFTA countries on trade and commercial issues in 2003, which formally triggered the 12-year transition to free trade. A VAT of 11% is levied on all goods and services, whether imported or produced domestically, except for some exempt goods and services. A tax of 3% on imported products subject to VAT, excluding gasoline, is in place.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions	Yes.	Law No. 161 of August 17, 2011, established the Capital Markets Authority (CMA). The CMA's regulatory and supervisory authority includes (1) shares or other securities of a participating nature in commercial companies, (2) bonds or other debt securities, (3) money market instruments, (4) collective investment vehicles, and (5) derivatives and other instruments. The CMA began to exercise its functions toward the end of 2013. Three new financial expert board members of the CMA were appointed by Decree No. 6473 of June 10, 2020.
Repatriation requirements	No.
Surrender to the central bank	No.
Surrender to authorized dealers	No.
Controls on capital and money market instruments	Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.	Shares or other securities of a participating nature of a single nonfinancial issuer may not exceed 10% of the equity of a bank or financial institution. Moreover, no shares, stocks, or other kind of capital participation may generate unlimited liability or responsibility for a bank or financial institution.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Limits are imposed on the acquisition of shares in real estate companies. Acquisition of shares in nonbank financial institutions and financial intermediation institutions is subject to BDL Central Council approval for the former and the CMA board of directors for the latter (CMA Regulation (Series 2000)) if (1) it leads directly or indirectly to the acquisition by the purchaser of more than 10% of the institution's total shares; (2) the purchaser already holds 10% or more of the institution's shares; or (3) the purchaser or seller is a member or an elected member of the board of directors, irrespective of the number of shares to be sold. The 10% limit applies to spouses, minors, and any economic group. Approval of BDL Central Council is required for acquisition of shares in a bank if (1) it leads directly or indirectly to the acquisition by the purchaser more than 5% of total shares or voting rights; (2) the purchaser already holds more than 5% or more of total shares or voting rights; (3) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member or an elected member of the board of directors of the bank involved; (4) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member of the senior management or an employee of the bank involved and holds 1% or more of the total shares if such shares are listed; or (5) the purchase of shares by an employee leads directly or indirectly to his or her acquisition of more than 1% of the total shares if such shares are listed. Authorization and regulations also apply to ascendants, spouses, and descendants of sellers and purchasers. When purchasers of shares in banks and financial institutions are companies or mutual funds, their respective by-laws or Articles of Association must explicitly include that all their shares are in registered form, and are fully and continuously owned, whether directly or indirectly, by natural persons or companies whose shares are in registered form (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 411). Any legal entity, resident or nonresident, that acquires directly or indirectly a share in an issuing company or public company equal to or exceeding 5% of the shares or units of a fund with a voting right in the said company must submit a report to the CMA in this respect (Law No. 161).

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Financial instrument transactions must be authorized by the CMA. Principal or secondary professional activity that involves solicitation of clients for subscription, purchase, swap, or sale of securities or financial instruments also requires CMA authorization. Legal entities may not undertake a public subscription without CMA approval. Issuance, sale, or offers to sell financial instruments for public subscription are also prohibited prior to obtaining the CMA's authorization. Invitations to potential investors for such financial instruments require CMA approval (Law No. 161). No person, resident or not, may issue or invite the public to subscribe to or market or make any statement, announcement, or communication that has the effect of selling, issuing, or offering the following products without authorization from the CMA: (1) shares, debt securities, or units issued by a public or private company or entity or a collective investment fund; (2) bonds, notes, CDs, depositary receipts, and treasury bills and bonds; (3) financial rights, options, futures, and any other derivatives or structured financial products; and (4) any other financial instrument authorized by the CMA or its regulations, except an instrument specifically excluded by the law. An exempt offer of securities (as defined in CMA Regulation (Series 6000)) must be notified to the CMA prior to the offer. The offer of foreign securities in Lebanon (whether public or exempt) must be made through an approved institution licensed by the CMA. The offer of securities issued by a foreign government or by a supranational authority recognized by the CMA is exempted from the above requirements (CMA Regulation (Series 6000)).
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	BDL approval is required for Lebanese banks and financial institutions to participate, directly or indirectly, and within the limits set by Article 153 of the Code of Money and Credit, in any foreign financial entity (bank, financial institution, brokerage house, mutual fund, insurance company). BDL approval is not required (1) if a resident bank participates indirectly through foreign banks and financial institutions in which the resident bank has a stake greater than 20% and if the participation of these foreign banks or financial institutions in the foreign financial sector is less than 20% of their assets, or (2) if the stake of a resident bank is less than 20%. Approval for Lebanese bank participation depends on specific BDL conditions regarding ethical and technical qualifications. Banks, nonbank financial institutions, foreign exchange bureaus, and leasing companies are not allowed, directly or indirectly, to conduct any transactions with bearer shares companies and mutual funds or companies and mutual funds owned by other companies and mutual funds with bearer shares (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 411).
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Banks and financial institutions require BDL approval to issue shares locally or abroad.
Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Nonresident financial entities must obtain BDL approval when purchasing treasury securities issued in Lebanese pounds or BDL CDs denominated in Lebanese pounds, US dollars, or euros. Funds used to purchase treasury securities or CDs in Lebanese pounds must originally have been deposited in foreign currency and converted

Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The following apply to banks' and financial institutions' holdings, including by their foreign branches and subsidiaries: (1) A 25% equity limit applies to the nominal value of structured financial products held and purchased abroad, provided (a) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or a guarantor rated at least A and (b) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed. (2) A 10% equity limit applies to credit-linked notes (CLNs) related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs in foreign currencies and purchased from abroad, provided (a) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed; (b) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or guarantor rated at least A; and (c) they include mandatory physical settlement in case of a credit event—such as default on Eurobonds or BDL CDs—whereby changes in the price of credit default swaps on Lebanese treasury bills not induced by an internationally recognized credit event are not categorized under a credit event and consequently do not call for mandatory physical settlement. (3) A 50% equity limit applies to non-Group of Ten (G10) sovereign bonds rated at least BBB and corporate bonds rated at least BBB; if guaranteed, the guarantor must be rated at least BBB. The applicable rating is the lowest of Standard &amp; Poor's (S&amp;P's) or another internationally recognized rating agency, provided it is BBB or higher. The 50% limit includes the 25% structured financial products' equity limit and the 10% CLNs related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs in foreign currencies equity limit and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more. (4) A 10% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except G10 countries) and other bonds, structured financial products, and CLNs of a single issuer. (5) A 10% equity limit applies to placements with banks abroad with maturity of one year or longer. (6) A 50% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except G10 countries)

and corporate bonds, structured financial products, CLNs, and interbank deposits. (7) Investments by Lebanese affiliates abroad in sovereign bonds issued in the currency of the host country may not exceed deposits in the same currency.

With respect to item (3), the BDL may authorize banks and financial institutions to exceed the 50% limit, if they have a high capital adequacy ratio and they abide by Banking Control Commission (BCC) and BDL circulars, particularly on ethical and technical qualifications of specific functions in the banking and financial sector. In the calculation of ratios, the investments of banks' and financial institutions' branches abroad are included in the portfolio of bonds, structured financial products, and CLNs and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more. When placing bids, banks and financial institutions must also abide by the limits. Banks, nonbank financial institutions, foreign exchange bureaus, and leasing companies are not allowed, directly or indirectly, to conduct any transactions with bearer shares companies and mutual funds or companies and mutual funds owned by other companies and mutual funds with bearer shares (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 411).

Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	BDL approval is required for banks and financial institutions to issue bonds locally or abroad.
On money market instruments	Yes.	The regulations governing bonds or other debt securities apply.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Nonresident financial entities must obtain BDL approval when purchasing treasury securities issued in Lebanese pounds or BDL CDs denominated in Lebanese pounds, US dollars, or euros. Funds used to purchase treasury securities or CDs in Lebanese pounds must originally have been deposited in foreign currencies and converted specifically for the purchase.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	CMA approval is required. However, foreign sovereign bonds and short-term instruments are exempted from the CMA approval pursuant to Article 37 of Law No. 161.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The purchase of sovereign bonds, including treasury bonds—(except from G10 countries) with an S&P rating of at least BBB or an equivalent rating from another internationally recognized rating agency—and the purchase of corporate bonds rated BBB and issued by corporations rated at least BBB are limited to 50% of banks' and financial institutions' equity. The total value of corporate bonds and structured financial products from a single issuer may not exceed 10% of Tier 1 capital.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	BDL approval is required for banks and financial institutions to issue money market instruments locally or abroad.
On collective investment securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Any legal entity, resident or nonresident, that acquires directly or indirectly a share in an issuing company or public company equal to or exceeding 5% of the shares or units of a fund with a voting right in the said company must submit a report to the CMA in this respect.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The promotion of and trading in foreign collective investment securities are subject to CMA approval. Public offer of units in a foreign investment fund in Lebanon is not permitted unless that fund is approved by the regulator in its jurisdiction for public offer and is approved by the CMA as offering equivalent protection to Lebanese investors. The offer in Lebanon of units in a foreign fund that is not an approved fund is only permitted if it is an exempt offer (that is, offered to professional clients and the minimum subscription amount is US$50,000). The offer of units of foreign collective investment funds in Lebanon

Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	The reserve requirement on Lebanese pound deposits is 25% for demand and 15% for term deposits. Effective June 4, 2021, banks are subject to a mandatory placement (remunerated) at the BDL of 14% (previously 15%) of their foreign currency deposits, bonds, and CDs issued by banks in foreign currency, in addition to loans from financial sector entities with a maturity of one year or less. No differential reserve requirement applies to foreign currency deposits except mandatory placement. However, effective reserve requirements on Lebanese pounds are lower than statutory requirements because the BDL introduced subsidy plans that allow banks to deduct qualifying loans from required reserves on customer deposits, up to 90% of the reserve requirement. Deduction is no longer applicable against loans granted after October 20, 2017 (Intermediate Circular No. 475).
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	Net liquid assets must not be less than 10% of all foreign-exchange-denominated deposits, CDs, bonds, and loans from the financial sector with a remaining maturity of one year or less. In addition to the above requirement, banks should abide by the Basel III LCR per significant currency which requires banks to hold liquid assets covering more than 100% of net cash outflows.
Credit controls	No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	No.

LEBANON

Abroad by banks

Yes. BDL approval is required for banks to acquire shares in financial entities abroad within the limits set by Article 153 of the Code of Money and Credit. The following limits and terms apply to banks' and financial institutions' holdings of financial instruments, including by their foreign branches and subsidiaries abroad: (1) A 25% equity limit applies to the nominal value of structured financial products held and purchased abroad, provided (a) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or a guarantor rated at least A and (b) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed. (2) A 10% equity limit applies to CLNs related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs denominated in foreign currencies and purchased from abroad, provided (a) their capital is unconditionally and totally guaranteed, (b) they are issued or guaranteed by an issuer or guarantor rated at least A, and (c) they provide for mandatory physical settlement in case of a credit event, such as default on Eurobonds or BDL CDs, whereby changes in prices of credit default swaps on Lebanese treasury bills not induced by an internationally recognized credit event are not categorized as a credit event and do not call for mandatory physical settlement. (3) A 50% equity limit on non-G10 sovereign bonds rated at least BBB and bonds issued by an issuer rated at least BBB; if guaranteed, the guarantor must be rated at least BBB by S&P or an equivalent rating agency. The 50% limit includes the 25% structured financial products' equity limit and the 10% CLNs related to Lebanese Eurobonds and BDL CDs in foreign currencies equity limit and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more. (4) A 10% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except from G10 countries) and other bonds, structured financial products, and CLN operations with one issuer. (5) A 10% limit applies to deposits abroad with maturity of one year or longer. (6) A 50% equity limit applies to the total value of sovereign (except from G10 countries) and corporate bonds, structured financial products, CLNs, and interbank deposits. (7) Investments by Lebanese affiliates abroad in sovereign bonds in the currency of the host country may not exceed deposits in the same currency at the affiliate. With respect to item (3), the BDL may authorize banks and financial institutions to exceed the 50% limit, if they have a high capital adequacy ratio and if they abide by BCC and BDL circulars, particularly related to the fulfillment of ethical and technical qualifications required to practice specific functions in the banking and financial sector. In the calculation of all ratios mentioned, the investments of banks' and financial institutions' branches and subsidiaries abroad are included in the portfolio of bonds, structured financial products, CLNs, and deposits abroad with a maturity of one year or more. When placing bids, banks and financial institutions must also abide by the statutory limits. Banks are not allowed, directly or indirectly, to conduct any transactions with bearer shares companies and mutual funds or companies and mutual funds owned by other companies and mutual funds with bearer shares (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 411).

Yes. Approval is required for acquisition of shares in a bank if (1) it leads directly or indirectly to the acquisition by the purchaser more than 5% of total shares or voting rights; (2) the purchaser already holds more than 5% or more of total shares or voting rights; (3) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member or an elected member of the board of directors of the bank involved; (4) the purchaser or seller of the shares is a member of the senior management or an employee of the bank involved and holds 1% or more of the total shares if such shares are listed; or (5) the purchase of shares by an employee leads directly or indirectly to his or her acquisition of more than 1% of the total shares if such shares are listed. 		and regulations also apply to ascendants, spouses, and descendants of sellers and purchasers. Foreign banks may establish wholly owned branches, subject to BDL approval. Banks and financial institutions require BDL approval to issue shares locally or abroad. When purchasers of shares in banks are companies or mutual funds, their respective by-laws or Articles of Association must explicitly include that all their shares are in registered form, and are fully and continuously owned, whether directly or indirectly, by natural persons or companies whose shares are in registered form (BDL Intermediary Circular No. 411).
Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	For banks, the net trading foreign exchange position is limited to 1% of net Tier 1 capital, and the global position is limited to 40% of net Tier 1 capital. Banks may hold a fixed position in foreign currencies up to 60% of their Tier 1 equity after deduction of assets subject to Article 153 of the Law of Money and Credit and Equity instruments in foreign currencies. Other structural positions are subject to BDL approval (BDL Intermediate Circular No. 474 of October 5, 2017). Nonbank financial institutions may hold (1) a long net trading position up to 100% of their free equity in Lebanese pounds. This includes positions held for hedging their capital in Lebanese pounds; and (2) a short net trading position up to 5% of Tier 1 equity.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.
Insurance companies	Yes.	Decree No. 2441 of June 29, 2009, imposes a number of limitations on the invested assets of insurance companies for the sake of measuring admissible assets in comparison with insurance liabilities. Companies need to observe strict currency matching in respect of the written liabilities.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	There are no absolute limits for investing in nonresident securities for insurance companies. However, a maximum of 50% of assets backing life insurance liabilities relating to policies denominated in foreign currencies (whether for life or composite insurance companies) may be invested in securities issued by nonresidents. No securities issued by nonresidents are considered in the computation of admitted assets for non-life companies (or for the non-life operations in composite insurance companies). These investments to be admitted must be quoted and approved by Insurance Control Commission.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	There are no absolute limits for investing in these securities for insurance companies. However, a maximum of 50% of assets backing life insurance liabilities relating to policies denominated in foreign currencies (whether for life or composite insurance companies) may be invested in portfolios held abroad. No portfolios held abroad are considered in the computation of admitted assets for non-life companies (or for the non-life operations in composite insurance companies). These investments to be admitted must be quoted and approved by Insurance Control Commission.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	For life insurance companies (or for the life operations of composite insurance companies), a minimum limit for cash investments and investments in treasury bills and bonds held locally is set at 10% of the company's life insurance obligations, of which no less than 5% should be in cash deposits only.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may set the exchange rate in transactions with their clients freely.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Four ADs participate in the spot exchange market. Foreign exchange bureaus, referred to as ADs with limited authority (ADLAs), which operate under Exchange Controls laws since April 30, 2020, also participate in foreign exchange market. There are two ADLAs, and their operations are limited to spot purchases and sales of foreign currency and traveler's checks from travelers for rand and maloti, and remittances for individuals on discretionary allowance for domestic purposes (such as donations, maintenance, monetary gifts and loans, travel allowance, study allowance, alimony and child support, wedding, and other special occasion expenses). Other transactions may be approved by the commissioner. ADLAs may also make transfers on behalf of clients. Currently, ADLAs may not make import payments and other transfers. In total, there are six participants in the spot foreign exchange market as of June 30, 2021.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The Central Bank of Lesotho (CBL) buys and sells maloti for rand at the official rate plus a commission. Excess rand are repatriated; excess maloti are collected from a designated bank in South Africa.

Use of foreign exchange among residents	No.
Bilateral payments arrangements	No.
Inoperative	No.
Regional arrangements	Yes.	Lesotho is a member of the CMA, within which payments are unrestricted, except that transactions must be reported for statistical and customs purposes. In its relations with countries outside the CMA, Lesotho applies exchange controls that are largely similar to those applied by Eswatini, Namibia, and South Africa.
Clearing agreements	No.

LESOTHO

Administration of control	Yes.	The CBL exercises foreign exchange control and authorizes commercial banks to approve certain current payments up to established limits (particularly, the discretionary allowance, which still has indicative limits). The Department of Customs and Excise issues permits based on recommendations by the Department of Trade and Industry. Licenses for financial institutions accepting deposits, insurance companies, brokers, and agents are issued by the CBL.
Payments arrears	No.

Other managed arrangement Yes. The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating. The Central Bank of Liberia (CBL) allows the exchange rate to be determined in the foreign exchange market and intervenes to smooth volatility. Since November 2019, the exchange rate has increased its flexibility but stabilized from February to October 2020. Accordingly, the de facto exchange arrangement was reclassified 3 times: (1) retroactively to other managed from crawl-like, effective

LIBERIA

November 12, 2019, (2) to stabilized from other managed, effective February 28, 2020, and (3) to other managed from stabilized, effective October 14, 2020. Between January 2020 and June 2021, the exchange rate appreciated because of an acute shortage of Liberian currency, larger net remittances, and higher budget support. The foreign exchange auction data (volume, price, etc.) are published on the CBL website.

Yes.

There is no official or reference exchange rate. The prevailing market rate published by the CBL is used for customs and valuation. The CBL bases the buying and selling exchange rates of the Liberian dollar vis-à-vis the US dollar on a daily survey of the major commercial centers and selected cities in the 15 counties. These rates are published in the local newspapers and the CBL website. They are also submitted based on request.

Monetary aggregate target

Yes.

The monetary policy framework is monetary targeting since November 2019. Under this framework, the Bank manages monetary aggregates (mainly reserve money) as operating and/or intermediate target to influence the ultimate objective of price stability. The policy rate is the operation target by which the CBL influences monetary conditions in the economy to stabilize exchange rate, inflation and guide inflation expectations.

The revised Act (An Amendment and Restatement of the CBL Act of 2020) was passed by the National Legislature, effective October 20, 2020. The Act calls for the establishment of a MPC. The main responsibility of the MPC will be to formulate monetary policy and exchange rate policy to achieve and maintain domestic price stability. Pursuant to its powers in Part IV, Section 9 of the CBL Act of 1999, the Board of Governors hereby establishes the Monetary Policy Advisory Committee (MPAC) as a statutory committee in the CBL pending the establishment of a MPC of the Bank. The principal mandate of the MPAC will be to define and advise on the monetary policy rate (MPR) and other monetary policy instruments of the CBL aimed at maintaining price stability. The MPAC will also prescribe the rules and internal guidelines for the decision-making process.

Import taxes and/or tariffs Yes.

In January 2017, Liberia migrated to the 2017 version of the Harmonized System, and Customs commenced a phase (migration plan) implementation of the ECOWAS CET. The CET has five tariff bands including Basic Social Goods, Basic Goods, Intermediate Goods, Finished Products, and Selected Finished Products. In addition to the import duty, a Goods and Services Tax is also paid on all imported goods. The Goods and Services Tax rate over the last three years including the current year is 10%. Excise tax is also paid on a limited number of products, such as alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages, tobacco products, and jewelries.

Because of the phase approach to implementing the ECOWAS CET, Liberia’s current duty rates vary from that of the ECOWAS CET. The average import duty rate for all 5899 tariff lines of the ECOWAS CET is 11.7%, whereas the average duty rate for Liberia over the last three years is 4.5%.

In September 2019, the import duty rates for beverages and tobacco were adjusted from the ECOWAS ad valorem rates to specific rates based on liters for beverages and number of sticks for cigarettes. This makes Liberia’s current import duty rate on beverages and tobacco about 200% higher than the ECOWAS CET.

The combination of excessive duty and excise rates on imported beverages and tobacco has resulted in a reduction in importation through formal channels and has increased smuggling of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products by seacoast and unofficial land border crossing points, thereby reducing revenue. This is expected to remain the case until the rates on alcoholic and tobacco products are harmonized with those in neighboring countries.

Effective May 3, 2021, the import tariff on rice in packing of more than 5kg or in bulk were suspended under the Revenue Code of Liberia Act of 2000.

Free floating	Yes.	The exchange rate arrangement of the euro area is free floating. Lithuania participates in a currency union (EMU) with 18 other members of the EU and has no separate legal tender. The ECB publishes information regarding its interventions; it last intervened in March 2011. When it intervenes, the ECB intervenes at the quotes of the market makers.
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The ECB publishes a reference rate based on the daily concertation procedure between CBs within and outside the European System of Central Banks. The publication time of the euro foreign exchange reference rates is around 14:15 Central European Time to around 16:00 Central European Time. The reference rate against the euro is the average of the buying and selling rates. The Bank of Lithuania (BOL) republishes daily the euro foreign exchange rates published by the ECB and publishes monthly non-ECB euro foreign exchange reference rates published by the BOL.

In accordance with Regulation (EC) No. 1889/2005, cash controls have been implemented based on a mandatory declaration system for amounts of cash entering or leaving the EU with a value of €10,000 or more. Travelers entering or leaving the EU and carrying more than €10,000 are required to make a declaration to the relevant authorities of the member country through which they enter or leave the EU. The authorities must keep a record of such information and report it to their national financial intelligence unit. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or incomplete. To check compliance with the regulation, the national authorities have the right to search natural persons, their baggage, and their means of transportation. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash may be confiscated. The EC regulation requires member countries to impose penalties for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. If there are indications that cash is related to illegal activity, authorities of one member country may exchange information with authorities in other member countries. Under the framework of existing agreements on mutual administrative assistance, information obtained under the EC regulation may also be communicated to a third country in compliance with relevant national and EU provisions on the transfer of personal data to third countries. The EC regulation does not apply to physical cross-border transportation from one EU member country to another (that is, intra-EU transportation). Such transportation is not considered “cross-border” for the purposes of the EC regulation; the EC regulation only harmonizes the system for the EU’s external borders subject to Council Regulation (EEC) No. 2913/92 (Community Customs Code). The Act of Accession to the EU included Lithuania in the Community Customs Area (12003TN02/19/A1). Transactions exceeding the equivalent of €15,000 or more must be reported to the Financial Crime Investigation Service.

Reserve requirements	No.	ECB minimum reserve regime is in effect with the introduction of the euro. According to the Regulation (EU) No. 2021/378 of the ECB of January 22, 2021, on the application of minimum reserves (recast) (ECB/2021/1), the institutions subject to the minimum reserve requirements should comply with the reserve requirements and are to hold required reserves on the accounts of the BOL. The minimum reserve requirement is the same for deposits in euro and in foreign currencies. The reserve base consists of deposits and issued debt securities. If an institution has liabilities in relation to a branch of the same entity, or in relation to the head office or registered office of the same entity, which are located outside participating Member States, it must include such liabilities in the reserve base. Liabilities which are owed to the ECB, to the participating national central bank, or to credit institutions which are subject to reserve requirements, are excluded from the reserve base. The amount of required reserves for a particular maintenance period should be calculated by applying the reserve ratios defined by the ECB. A reserve ratio of 0% is applied to the deposits with agreed maturity over two years, deposits redeemable at notice over two years, repos, and debt securities issued with an original maturity over two years. A reserve ratio of 1% applies to all other liabilities included in the reserve base.

Spot exchange market	Yes.	In accordance with Council Regulation (EU) No. 1024/2013, no entity may engage in the business of a credit institution without having been granted authorization by the ECB. As of December 31, 2020, there were 127 licensed credit institutions in Luxembourg. Foreign exchange bureaus are authorized by Article 28-2 of the Law of April 5, 1993, and must be licensed by the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier (CSSF). They may not enter into foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB. However, Article 28-2 of the Law of April 5, 1993, states that “persons carrying out foreign exchange cash operations are professionals who carry out operations involving the purchase or sale of foreign currencies in cash. Such persons must be required to display the rates applied to the various currencies dealt in and to issue to clients, with respect to each operation, a statement indicating the name of the foreign exchange office, the amounts in the currencies dealt in, the rates applied, and the date of the operation.

LUXEMBOURG

Authorization to perform cash-exchange transactions is conditional on the production of evidence showing the existence of a capital base of not less than €50,000” As of December 31, 2020, there are no foreign exchange bureaus in operation in Luxembourg.

Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	For investment firms, to the extent that they are required to apply the provisions of the European Directive No. 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013, the institution must separately sum all its net long positions and net short positions in accordance with Article 327. The sum of the absolute values of the two figures is its overall gross position. The institution must calculate, separately for each market, the difference between the sum of the net long and net short positions. The sum of the absolute values of those differences is its overall net position (Article 34).

For collective investment funds, purchases of securities issued by nonresidents are subject to the same limits as securities issued by residents, namely (1) diversification ratios (5/10/40—that is, no more than 10% of the fund’s assets may be invested in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same issuer, and none of the fund’s holdings in single issuers that exceed 5% of the fund’s assets may cumulatively exceed 40%) and (2) borrowing ratios (10% an issuer).

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad No.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally No.

Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition Yes.

For investment firms, to the extent that they are required to apply the provisions of the European Directive No. 2013/36/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013, if the sum of the institution’s overall net foreign exchange position and net gold position, calculated as set out in Article 352, including for any foreign exchange and gold positions for which own funds requirements are calculated using an internal model, exceeds 2% of its total own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk. This requirement is the sum of its overall net foreign exchange position and net gold position in the reporting currency, multiplied by 8% (Article 351).

Institutions’ own funds requirements against positions in relevant closely correlated currencies may be lower. Two currencies are deemed closely correlated if the likelihood of a loss—based on daily exchange rate data for the preceding three or five years—of 4% or less of the value of the matched position in question (in terms of the reporting currency) on equal and opposite positions in such currencies over the following 10 working days has a probability of at least 99% for a three-year observation period and of 95% for a five-year observation period. The own funds requirement on the matched position in two closely correlated currencies is 4% of the value of the matched position (Article 354).

Exchange Measures

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons

Floating	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The exchange rate is determined in the official interbank market. Banky Foiben'i Madagasikara (the Central Bank of Madagascar—CBM) intervenes in the interbank market to smooth large exchange rate fluctuations and meet foreign reserve targets. The CBM publishes its interventions daily and only in terms of volume through the interbank foreign exchange market (MID) for participating banks. It also publishes the reference exchange rate and the lowest rate and the highest rate and submits them daily and weekly by courier to the Ministry of Finance and Budget (MFB) and the Presidency.

In the context of an ongoing pandemic, the exchange rate appreciated by 0.97% against the euro and depreciated by 2.39% against the dollar between the end of December 2020 and the end of June 2021.

The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as floating.

Free floating

Official exchange rate

Yes.

The official exchange rate is the reference rate published at 2:45 p.m., which is computed daily in the interbank market and is used for government transactions. This rate is also used for customs valuation but not on an instantaneous basis. (In practice, customs duties paid by importers are set using an average of the previous week's interbank exchange rates.)

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The euro and the US dollar are the only currencies quoted on this market. The exchange rates of other currencies are determined on the basis of the rates of these currencies against the US dollar in the international market. Commercial banks may freely set the exchange rate and commissions for transactions with their clients. The foreign exchange market handles spot and forward operations on a continuous basis.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Authorized intermediaries—namely primary banks and post offices—may conduct all authorized foreign exchange transactions (Article 1 of the Foreign Exchange Code). Territorial banks hold a banking license that allows them to conduct all bank transactions, including foreign currency transactions, and deal in foreign exchange with the public. Exchange bureaus are authorized to carry out OTC exchange transactions, provided they obtain licenses issued by the Banking and Financial Supervision Commission (CSBF). Such institutions may buy and sell foreign currency cash and traveler’s checks, accept foreign currency checks drawn on bank accounts and bank checks, and buy and sell foreign currency held in foreign exchange accounts in Malagasy banks. Because they do not have the status of authorized intermediaries, exchange bureaus may not engage in foreign exchange transactions directly with the CB, maintain accounts abroad, or make foreign currency payments and transfers on behalf of their clients. As of December 31, 2020, 11 banks were licensed to deal in foreign exchange with the public, and there were 22 exchange bureaus.
Operated by the central bank	No.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.

Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Authorized intermediaries and the CBM participate in an electronic platform that allows them to continuously quote ariary for US dollars and euros. Ten of the eleven banks are licensed by the CBM to participate in the MID, 5–9 of which participate regularly, including the CBM.
Over the counter	Yes.	The foreign exchange market operates over the counter. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads or commissions of market participants.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The CBM may participate in the forward foreign exchange market. Importers may buy foreign currency from their banks 120 days before settlement. There is a 120-day maximum for documentary credits for spot exchange cover (Article 28) and a 30-day maximum for documentary collections (remises documentaires), as well as a 360-day maximum for documentary credits for hedging delayed purchases or “couverture de change au comptant différée” (Article 33) with foreign exchange. Foreign exchange swap transactions are used as a CBM monetary policy instrument pursuant to Instruction No. 0002-DOM/17. Banks may not use foreign exchange swaps with another bank or their clients.
Official cover of forward operations	No.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.
Controls on the use of domestic currency	Yes.	Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international current or capital transactions.
For current transactions and payments	Yes.	Domestic currency may not be used for the settlement of international current transactions.

Bilateral payments arrangements	Yes.
Operative	No.	There are currently no operative bilateral payments.
Inoperative	Yes.	There is an arrangement with Mauritius which has been inoperative for some time.
Regional arrangements	Yes.	Madagascar is a member of the RIFF.
Clearing agreements	No.
Barter agreements and open accounts	No.	Regulations prohibit barter trade.
Administration of control	Yes.	Exchange control is administered by the External Finance Unit of the General Directorate of the Treasury, which also supervises borrowing and lending abroad by residents; foreign exchange lending and borrowing to and for the profit of nonresidents; and the issuance, sale, and introduction of foreign securities in Madagascar. Approval for current transactions has been delegated to authorized intermediaries, except for capital operations, which require MOF authorization. All exchange transactions must be effected through such intermediaries.
Payments arrears	No.
Official	No.
Private	No.
Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)	Yes.
On domestic ownership and/or trade	Yes.	Approved collectors acting in their own name and on their own behalf may purchase gold within the country from holders of valid gold-mining titles, authorized holders of Gold Board gold-washing rights, and agencies for approved collectors.
On external trade	Yes.	Imports and exports of gold require authorization from the Ministry of Mines. Exempt from this requirement are (1) imports and exports by or on behalf of the CBM and (2) imports and exports of manufactured articles containing only a small quantity of gold (such as gold-filled or gold-plated articles). Residents may take abroad 250 grams of hallmarked gold jewelry a person without declaration; declaration is mandatory for quantities above 250 grams. Tourists may take abroad 1 kilogram of hallmarked gold jewelry on submission of an exchange declaration corresponding to the jewelry's value. Imports of gold, whether licensed or exempt from the licensing requirement, are subject to customs declaration. Holders of a valid gold-mining title or a gold-washing permit or rights thereto may sell gold to any approved collector. However, Malagasy authorities and their agents have first rights to purchase gold produced in the country. The Gold Board and agencies authorized by the Ministry of Mines may export gold in all its forms. Jewelers, goldsmiths, and private sector professionals who use gold may export it only in worked form, with the approval of the minister of mining.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Residents and nonresidents may take abroad up to MGA 400,000. There are no exceptions to this rule.
Foreign currency	No.	Residents and nonresidents may take abroad up to €10,000 or its equivalent in other currencies. Each traveler is free to bring up to €1,000 or its equivalent in other currencies, without the need to show proof of allowance. However, if the amount carried exceeds this threshold, the traveler must submit a certificate of exchange issued by a bureau de change or an authorized intermediary to the customs service at the border. A risk-based approach to prevent, detect, and suppress money laundering is in place pursuant to Law No. 2018-043.

On imports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Residents and nonresidents may bring in up to MGA 400,000. There are no exceptions to this rule.
Foreign currency	No.	Residents and nonresidents may bring in any amount of foreign currency. Nonresident travelers planning to re-export unused currency must file a declaration with Customs on arrival. The declaration must be retained and presented to Customs on exit. The amount to be re-exported must not exceed the threshold of €10,000 or its equivalent in other currencies. A risk-based approach to prevent, detect, and suppress money laundering is in place pursuant to Law No. 2018-043. The foreign exchange code requires all conversions of foreign banknotes to take place at accredited institutions (either a bank or an exchange bureau).

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.
Held domestically	Yes.	Residents may open foreign exchange accounts with local commercial banks. Only transfers from abroad, foreign banknotes, traveler's checks, and bank checks may be deposited in these accounts without documentation. These accounts may be debited for conversion to domestic currency through sale on the interbank market. Balances may not be transferred abroad freely. Foreign currency accounts may not be credited in ariary. Conversion to foreign banknotes is allowed only within the limits stipulated in the foreign exchange control regulations and requires MOF approval. According to Article 20, foreign currency may not be purchased in the MID for deposit to such accounts, nor may they be credited in ariary; all account holders are authorized to conduct foreign exchange operations, settlements, transfers or arbitrage or withdrawals in the form of traveler's checks or bank checks for current transactions in the context of delegations to authorized intermediaries (Articles 19 and 20 of Decree No. 2009-048 of January 12, 2009). Transfers of foreign exchange from one resident's foreign exchange account to another's are not permitted, except (1) transfers between free trade areas, (2) payments by free trade zone enterprises within the national customs territory, (3) payments by international institutions or embassies to foreign consultants with resident status, and (4) transfers governed by special conventions signed by the government (Article 22 of Decree No. 2009-048 of January 12, 2009). Cash deposits must comply with prevailing laws and regulations and may be withdrawn for travel allowances under the applicable rules. Transfers between accounts of residents and nonresidents are permitted for current transactions.
Approval required	No.

Changes during 2020 and 2021

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to institutional investors

Insurance companies

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	01/15/2021	With the promulgation of Law No. 2020-005 of September 1, 2020, the investment policies of insurance companies are governed by the provisions of the new insurance law. The rules governing these investments will be established by Banking and Financial Supervision Commission instruction, which is currently being drafted. Previously, the Insurance Code, Law 99 013 of August 2, 1999, compiled the legal provisions that governed the insurance sector. Article 70 of Decree No. 2001-1121 of December 28, 2011, regulating investments and other assets, also applied.
